Lindsay has lived in Bali for over 8 years with her Balinese family. She has a unique understanding of Balinese culture and religious traditions. Lindsay speaks fluent Indonesian as well.

Lindsay has an earned Master of Divinity, and her Doctorate in Ministry degrees. Lindsay's doctoral thesis is focused on social justice education and adult curriculum development.

This tour will be like nothing you can experience anywhere in the world, except in Bali. Join us in our healing journey, we will be celebrating the Holiest of days in Bali, Nyepi. This happens every year in March, Balinese Hindu New Years. This day is celebrated with a day of silence, reflection and prayer. Bali transforms from a bustling island to a day of silence. Everything is closed for 24 hours, roads, businesses, the airport, all exterior lights are off. We will be helping to cleanse the island from all evil spirits and negative human energy, watch an Ogoh-Ogoh parade. Ogoh-ogoh are statues built for the Ngrupuk parade, which takes place on the eve of Nyepi day.

Ogoh-ogoh normally take the form of mythological beings, mostly demons. The day of silence is believed to confuse the evil spirits as they are floating in the air. Because of the silence and lack of light, the earth rotates and moves. The spirits become lost and fall into the ocean, the island is purified. We also will be acknowledging Idul Fitri, Holy Muslim celebration which happens right after Nyepi in 2025.

Bali is magical! Its culture intoxicates. The people are joyful. If you go to Bali, you will never be the same! This tour will change you in ways you can't imagine and leave you thirsty for more of the joy and kindness of its culture. Bali will start the healing process. The longing in your soul to be seen, honored and respected will be met, and you will feel safe and at home. Bali will bring you peace. It will heal the restlessness in your soul. Give yourself the gift of peace and renewal.
