16. This one is from legends and lore! My story started with a bang! It includes a tragedy. Though many places have a claim to fame from this tale of woe, I am the place where the Coweta story began. You can see where I once stood any time of day, though my name suggests otherwise. What is my name?

Murder In Coweta County

17. People with great talent love me! So many sing and like to play in my hall. Building me was quite a project; it was busy work for many. When my project was finished, 'O' I was 'dec.ed' out like the height of style in my day! It is certainly worth a visit to see me! Who am I?

ANSWER
CHARLES WADSWORTH

18. Though I'm very old, around two hundred years, I moved with relative ease. I have a shady spot now, not a 'meadow' as you might expect. I was built by skill, sweat, and many hands worked tirelessly to raise me. Once a family cherished me; now officially I am important to my community. Kids and families visit when they are on their way to fun activities. Please grant me an answer: who am I?

ANSWER
MEADOWS HOUSE
In Grantville

19. I am over ninety years old! Still Coweta has not gotten its fill of me. I've been written about, photographed, and even have been a background in movies. One of our county's famous sons talked about me often; we remember him with 'special' fondness! Who am I?

ANSWER
SPRAYBERRY'S
BARBECUE

20. Powellville, Skeins, Bee, Charlesboro, and Lodi are jewels like me on a string of places from long ago. I shimmer more than these other 'jewels.' My admirers said, I 'had' picturesque scenery, and shady woodlands, cool dells... springs, swings..., and a pavilion. Combine all these attractions for a delightful outing for a week or a day." Who am I?

ANSWER
PERAL SPRINGS

Bonus OK, this one is tough! You need to hit the books to discover who I am! Tellers of fabulous, famous 'fictious' tales cling to me well beyond Coweta. Only one in the county is in my circle. Look for mockingbirds, treasure hunters in corn fields, streetcars, lonely hearts, and strange fruit; they will point you in the direction of my 'tracts' to follow. Who am I?

ANSWER
THE SOUTHERN LITERARY TRAIL
