TRACIE COLLINS

WHO IS TRACIE COLLINS?

Tracie is the Founder of the National Black Doulas Association®, a company that helps fight the Black Maternal Mortality rate in America. The foundation provides education, certification, and matching for Black doulas and families. Tracie has become one of the nation's leading voices of midwifery, Doulas, and at-home birthing to empower Black women.

Tracie has been published in publications such as Parents, Rolling Stone, Essence, Milk Drunk, and contributor on Black Love, CNN Health, NBC Today and many more . Her career expands over 23 years in the realm of women's holistic health and healing.

Tracie also has an online school to develop entrepreneurs. After seeing the fundamental knowledge gap in business development and structure, Tracie felt the need to launch the TC Business Development program applicable to any industry, from entry-level to advanced. Here she shares her high-level expertise and skillset in business development implementation.

MEDIA

Oakland-native Tracie Collins is an Oakland Indie nominee, American playwright, director, and producer who is best known for her fourth stage play Cold Piece of Werk that put sex trafficking in a theatrical spotlight.

Tracie credits her father for introducing her to the arts at the tender age of nine. Collins took acting classes at the American Conservatory Theater (A.C.T.) in San Francisco. Throughout her formative years, still studied acting and appearing in theatrical productions as early as 11 years old.

Tracie was an actress in three of her five-stage productions, including The V Monologues: A Black Woman's Interpretation (2013), Knocking at Love's Door (2014), and Girlfriend Chronicles (2014).

After taking time off to raise her children, In 2009, Tracie reclaimed her love for the stage and starred in theatrical performances included portraying "Lorelle" in Dream Girls and "Pam" in Misery Loves Company at Black Repertory Group Theater in Berkeley, California. That was all she needed to relight the gift that had been lying dormant in her for nearly 20 years. From there she went onto create the first Full Figured runway show on the West Coast that sold out, from nothing. She learned her strength of putting together a team, marketing, advertising, financing, budgeting, and more.

LIFESTYLE

Tracie specializes in life; with that, she has developed a holistic lifestyle through her love of nature and plants and is an alchemist in the kitchen. She has a vast knowledge of herbal healing and holistic approaches to maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

Tracie believes that yoga, meditation, healthy eating, mitigating stress, and being in nature lend themselves to longevity. "Peace by any means necessary" is her motto.

Tracie explores women's rights and social injustices by moving to creative works in television and film. Her main driving force is to explore black culture's taboos, dispelling those myths through art and entertainment.

Tracie is currently developing multiple projects across film and television.

She is happily married to her best friend and has three adult children.
