President's Message - Wendy Eisner

I'm excited to give you all several updates about what's happening at the UJCVP.

First and foremost, we are bustling with activities and programs, including exercise classes, youth programming, Grand Club, CRC events, and many more! Our preschool is bursting at the seams with 109 students, and camp registration is open and quickly filling up.

Speaking of the preschool, as many of you already know, the preschool building unfortunately suffered significant damage over winter break when we had very cold weather. We are diligently working to have repairs made and move the children back into their own building. I want to give a big shout-out to all the preschool staff that came in during their time off to ensure that our children did not miss a day of school.

As we continue to move forward this year, we are also working to upgrade our security needs, as maintaining the safety of our community is always our top priority. In addition to establishing a Security Community Fund, we have reached out to all of you for support. I want to give a sincere thank you to all who have already donated to this fund.

Lastly, campaign is thriving under the leadership of Jenny David. Super Sunday was back on campus this year, and it was a wonderful event. Thank you to Jenny and all of those who helped to make it a great day, full of food, fun, and community involvement.

As I close out this note, I would like to say thank you to all who participate, volunteer, and donate to the UJCVP. It takes a village to keep us going, and we would not be able to successfully move forward without all of your support.

Wendy

The UJC will be closed
Thurs. & Fri. April 6th & 7th and
Wed. & Thurs. April 12th & 13th
in observance of Passover.

Pearl Society Party

Our UJC Pearl Society hosted its sixth annual social action party this year to benefit Smart Beginnings Virginia Peninsula. Thanks to generous donations from the ladies (and some men) of our community, we were able to assemble 28 Calm Down Kits for early childhood educators and their students. Calm Down Kits are containers with items that provide children with mental or sensory distraction that they can use to calm down or distract themselves when their emotions might overwhelm them. These kits will be distributed to early childhood educators across the Peninsula - and Smart Beginnings has donated the first eight kits back to our own Sarfan Early Childhood teachers!

If you would like to join the Pearl Society Women's Giving Circle, or would like more information about our group, please contact Sara Traster: straster@ujcvp.org.

Education Corner - William & Mary Hillel

The Jewish student community is growing and expanding in new ways at William & Mary. Close to 200 students took part in the annual Purim carnival on campus. Great food, games, a live band, and much more took over the Sunken Gardens on the morning of Sunday, March 5th. Students told the story of Purim and ran tables offering face painting, hamentashen, and more. Students could even pie their favorite student board member for a small donation. This program continues the growth of the Jewish student community at William & Mary.

The Shenkman Jewish Center is full of students every day doing their homework and just hanging out, in addition to the almost daily programming and events that take place in the building. This was the vision of the late Bob Spivak, past president of the board of directors who passed away last May. W&M Hillel and the family of Bob are raising funds in his memory to facilitate the expansion of programming at the SJC.

To donate please go to www.wmhillel.org/spivak. Checks made out to William & Mary Hillel may be sent to P.O. Box 8795, Williamsburg, VA 23187. Please contact Rabbi Gershon Litt at rabbilitt@wmhillel.org for more information.

JCC Maccabi Moment

Leading up to the Maccabi Games this summer, we will be featuring the teen athletes who will be representing the UJC on Team Newport News!

NAME: Elijah Katz

AGE: 14

SCHOOL: Hornsby Middle School

SYNAGOGUE: Temple Beth El of Williamsburg

SPORT: Table Tennis

What are you most looking forward to at the JCC Maccabi Games?

Meeting new people; other Jewish kids - there aren't many around here.

If you could travel the world, what would be your first stop?

I'd say Israel, for the food. My first stop would be the closest place that has rugelach and babka.

What's your favorite movie?

The Empire Strikes Back - it's really well-made and it completes the story of Star Wars.

Who is your table tennis icon?

Adam Bobrow, he's a big table tennis player on YouTube. He is really fun to watch.

If you could choose any super power what would it be?

I would say super speed. That could translate into a lot of other super powers. Speed translates to momentum, which equals strength

Good luck, Elijah!

SPORT: Tennis

What are you most looking forward to at the JCC Maccabi Games?

I am looking forward to socializing and meeting more Jews from all across the United States and to engage in a friendly match of tennis.

If you could interview any historical figure, who would it be and what would you ask them?

Leonardo DaVinci. I would ask him what it was like to have everyone against him and if it changed when he succeeded.

What was the best book you've read this year?

Atomic Habits by James Clear. It is packed with evidence-based self-improvement strategies.

What is your favorite late night snack?

Oats (oatmeal) with protein powder and bananas

What animal do you associate with?

An owl. I work better at night.

Good luck, David!

LIFE IN STILLS
2011, Documentary, 1 hr

At the age of 96, Miriam Weissenstein never imagined that she would be facing a new chapter in her life. When "The Photo House" - her late husband's life's work - was destined for demolition, she knew she needed help. A special relationship is forged between Miriam and her grandson, Ben, as they join forces to save the shop and its nearly one million negatives that document Israel's defining moments. Despite the generation gap, Ben and Miriam embark on a heart-wrenching, humorous, and touching journey together.

Based on Leon Uris' novel, this historical epic provides a dramatic backstory to the creation of the state of Israel in 1948, in the aftermath of World War II.

Ari Ben Canaan (Paul Newman), a passionate member of the Jewish paramilitary group Haganah, attempts to transport 600 Jewish refugees on a dangerous voyage from Cyprus to Palestine on a ship named the Exodus. He faces obstruction from British forces, who will not grant the ship passage to its destination.

Crossroads & Connections:
Collections of the National Library of Israel

Visit the Exhibit on the UJC Campus!

April 23rd - 28th

Home to the intellectual and cultural treasures of Israel and the Jewish people worldwide, the National Library of Israel (NLI) has embarked on a visionary journey of renewal, including a wide range of initiatives to expand its collections and make the Library's resources available to audiences across the globe. As part of this initiative, and in celebration of Israel's 75th anniversary year, NLI presents an exhibition of highlights from the Library's collections which represent cultural and religious creativity in Israel both historically and today.

This exhibition is free and open to the community.

Executive Director's Message - Eric Maurer

Friends,

As we prepare to mark Israel's 75th anniversary this month, I want to share a brief vignette with you.

The famed Israeli photographer Rudi Weissenstein arrived in Israel from Czechoslovakia in 1936 with nothing but the change in his pocket, his camera and the dream of a Jewish homeland. Photography was his passion and the people of Israel his subjects. His photos captured the birth and growth of the Jewish state and during his life he created an archive of more than one million photographs capturing key moments in the state's history.

But there is a story of the one photo he did not take. As the state was declared on May 14, 1948, Rudi could be seen capturing the key moments from the momentous occasion. But as David Ben-Gurion struck the final gavel and the Israeli Philharmonic Orchestra played the new anthem, Hatikvah, Rudi was overcome by his love of country and people, putting down his camera to cry and sing with the crowd. In all the photos of the momentous occasion, there is not a single picture of the crowd as they sang Hatikvah.

I share Rudi's deep love and responsibility for Israel and its people. And I find this moment of celebrating 75 years overwhelming as we reflect on the many years of struggles, resiliency, and hope.

At the same time of this big milestone, we are also witnessing existential conflicts over aspects of both the Jewish and democratic character of Israel. I believe in the resiliency of Israel and the aspirational vision for our Jewish democratic state that includes checks and balances, protection of minorities and respect for all expressions of Judaism.

In that spirit, after consultation with Federations across the country — including the UJCVP — Jewish Federations of North America shared a letter with Israel's elected officials calling on the government to embrace the compromises for which President Herzog has called. The letter can be found on the UJCVP website. I believe the JFNA letter reflects the sentiments of a broad cross-section of our community and North American Jews, and I proudly support it. In the face of the conflict we are seeing, we must stay engaged directly with Israel and to continually educate ourselves about the complexity of this present moment.

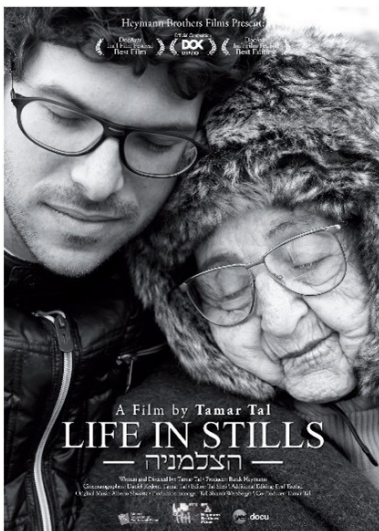

And at the same time, we also celebrate 75 years.

I hope you will join me for one — or all — of the following opportunities to celebrate Israel at 75.

The grand community-wide Yom Ha'atzmaut celebration will take place on Sunday, April 23rd on the UJCVP campus and will feature activities for all ages including Israeli music, falafel with all the fixings, a petting zoo, vendors, blow-up bounce houses and slides, and a special butterfly house that will release 75 butterflies in commemoration of Israel's 75th year. We're going to party like it's 1948! Join us!

The National Library of Israel has developed a curated collection of treasures titled, Crossroads & Connections that will be displayed at the UJCVP. The selected items speak to the diversity of the region and represent the land of Israel as a crossroads for exploration and connectivity. This land — a destination, a homeland, an inspiration — has given rise to art, music, poetry, and writings that bind the stories of great civilizations past and present. The collection will be showcased at the community wide Yom Ha'atzmaut celebration and displayed throughout that week at the UJCVP.

And we are thrilled to welcome Ben Peter, the grandson of Rudi Weissenstein, who will join us in-person for a screening of the documentary, Life in Stills on April 27th at 7:00pm at the Gaines Theater on the CNU campus. The film tells the heart-wrenching, humorous and touching story of how Ben and his grandmother work to save his grandfather's shop and its nearly one million film negatives that document Israel's defining moments, absent of course, the one photo that was never taken.

I hope to celebrate with you at one – or all – of these occasions and for us to find the opportunity to put down the camera and relish in the moment we are experiencing, 75 years later.

Am Yisrael Chai,

Eric

An important aspect of Passover is the Family. G-d asks us to turn our homes into places of family worship at a Seder to answer the questions of children. Children are our future. The home is where we first form our identities and discover our values.

At the Seder, the children are the stars and their questions are treated with respect. From asking the Four Questions, to finding the Afikomen, to singing the songs at the end of the Seder, this is a special time to share our history and traditions with the next generation.

Have a beautiful Seder and Passover. Chag Pesach Sameach

American Jews Should Embrace Mikveh by M. Honig

I have a spiritual practice of immersing once a month, through my work. I love helping people find their own paths toward a mikveh practice of their own. Over 450 people a year come to immerse in this one sacred space I know so well. When I'm immersed in the waters of the mikveh, I feel connected to the Source of Life, to my ancestors, and to my body.

Ritual like mikveh immersion are placeholders or words or emotions that we don't know how to express otherwise. I believe that embodied rituals are the most powerful ones because when we do something with our bodies (as opposed to just speaking words, or engaging intellectually) we access deeper wisdom. Words come out of our mouths, but actions emanate from our souls.

Rituals may not always work the way they are supposed to. In other words, they aren't magic spells or incantations. Instead, they are intentions, remembrances, outgoing calls to another time and place, or shouts into the chaos saying, "Here I am, trying to connect" or "Remember us."

Adath Israel Community Mikveh has become a place where people now immerse to mark all kinds of life transitions: becoming a Bar or Bat Mitzvah, recovering from an illness or addiction, graduating, finishing a time of mourning, moving to a new city... along with the traditional uses for a mikveh.

Our UJCVP is a member of the consortium RISING TIDE, a national network devoted to opening the mikveh experience to the entire Jewish community.

For more information, or with any questions, please contact Steve Shapiro, UJC Mikveh Chairman: stevenishapiro@outlook.com

UJC Board Spotlight

Steve Shapiro, UJCVP Board Vice President of Education/Outreach

About Steve:

I'm Steve Shapiro, VP of Education and Outreach on the UJCVP Board of Directors. I'm retired after 37 years of working for the City of Hampton, retiring as the Deputy Director of Community Development. I now have a consulting LLC that keeps me busy. I donate to the Annual Campaign and stay involved with the UJCVP because I personally witness the great things that the "J" provides for the community, day in and day out. From the award winning Sarfan Early Childhood Center to the meals that are provided to those in need to all of the activities in the gym and to all of the myriad programs that our exceptional staff coordinate every day. I hope you'll agree with me that this is money and time we'll spent.

It has been said that it felt as if the souls of the six million who were murdered during the Holocaust were in the room with them when the meeting began. They met in secret to negotiate the unthinkable – compensation for the survivors of the largest mass genocide the world had ever known. Survivors were in urgent need of help, but how could reparations be determined for the unprecedented destruction of a people and atrocities suffered by millions? Reckonings explores this fascinating true story set in the aftermath of the Holocaust and leading to the groundbreaking Luxembourg Agreements of 1952.

Peninsula BBYO will have popcorn, soft drinks and baked goods available for purchase. Please plan to support our local Jewish teens.

Peninsula BBYO Attends International Convention 2023 in Dallas, Texas

Three teens from our community's local chapter of BBYO traveled to Dallas last month to attend BBYO's annual International Convention (IC), which welcomed over 5,000 attendees from 60 different countries.

David Dorfman, Carson Frank and Lainey Epstein share their experience:

The magic of IC began as soon as delegates walked through the door, with friends from all across the globe made during zoom calls, summer programs, and past conventions reuniting.

After registration and some free time to explore the convention center and catch up with other teens, everyone gathered in the main stage area for opening ceremonies. During opening ceremonies, we celebrated the accomplishments of BBYO members - and our movement as a whole - from the past year, hyped up the weekend ahead, and heard from inspiring guest speakers, including former Prime Minister of Israel, Naftali Bennett; 2nd Gentleman of the United States, Douglas Emhoff; U.S. Special Envoy to Combat and Monitor Anti-Semitism, Dr. Deborah Lipstadt; youth activist, David Hogg; cast members from Broadway's Hamilton; and Olympic gymnast, Gabby Douglas.

The next day was dedicated to LEADS, BBYO's global initiative to inspire teens to be a positive force in the Jewish community through service and philanthropy. Participants chose a LEAD program from a variety of options, ranging from Dispatched to Help, a joint program in which teens visited and learned from experts from the Dallas Fire Department, to For the Kids, in which teens attended a workshop led by nonprofits who provide assistance to children in need.

After LEADS, a completely different atmosphere spread across the convention center as teens prepared for Shabbat. Shabbat is one of our favorite parts of any convention. After five years in the organization, we are still blown away by the magic of Shabbat at BBYO.

Shabbat is a perfect example of the beautiful pluralism that BBYO strives for. An integral aspect of our mission is to ensure that all Jewish teens are welcome and comfortable in our organization, regardless of their identity or practices. To accomplish this, BBYO offers Shabbat accommodations for every level of Jewish practice. Carson and Lainey attended a "camp-style" Havdalah service with a blend of Hebrew and English prayers, and English BBYO songs.

For teens seeking a more observant experience, if you walk further down the main lobby, you'll see signs indicating that you're entering the "Shomer Shabbat Space." In this area, David attended a traditional service led by an orthodox rabbi with orthodox siddurim and a mechitza.

Afterwards, Carson and Lainey attended a special Class of 2023 dinner, while David joined in on Aruchat Erev Shel Shabbat dinner with his international friends from Israel, Argentina, and Kazakhstan. During this dinner, David got to meet Ryan Turrel, an orthodox Jew studying at Yeshiva University and a player in the NBA G League. Ryan's story of balancing his Judaism with his professional athletic career was moving and inspirational.

After dinner, it was time for yet another one of our favorite BBYO traditions: separates. Separates are designed to facilitate brotherhood and sisterhood bonding through AZA-only programs (for members of BBYO's fraternity, the Aleph Zadik Aleph) and BBG-only programs (for members of BBYO's sorority, the B'nai B'rith Girls).

As the weekend continued, there were countless more opportunities for education and empowerment. One example that was particularly impactful was a talk with Shoshanna Nambi. Shoshanna grew up in Uganda, and is currently studying in New York to be the first female rabbi of her home country.

Additionally, we had the opportunity to explore Dallas outside of the convention center, such as a trip to the Ripley's Believe it or Not Museum. On the last night of IC, we had one last hoorah in the form of a concert with prominent musical artists, including Nicky Youre and 24KGoldn.

It was an amazing experience overall. We met tons of people and we are so glad we went. All three of us left International Convention with a renewed sense of passion and responsibility for the global Jewish community, and we couldn't recommend the life-changing experiences BBYO offers enough for Jewish teens.

Update from the Jewish Cemetery of the Virginia Peninsula

The historic burial place for the Jewish Community of the Virginia Peninsula is on Kecoughtan Road. Our cemetery has been in continuous use since the 19th century. We are in our third century because of those who kept the promise, as must we. You will soon be receiving a letter in the mail which details our history, our current needs and ask you for your support.

One of our distinct advantages is that we have been able to limit our price increases for our plots. The price will increase on May 1, 2023 from $2,400 per plot to $3,600 per plot. Please email E.D. David, President of the cemetery association, at eddavid@davidkampfrank.com if you would like to purchase a plot before the increase.
