Forward

“The Lord speaks to us in many different ways. It is our hope that you the reader will come to know the Holy Spirit as we do. He is truly the best present mankind will ever find. The Holy Spirit wants so much to have a relationship with each of His children and longs for you to know Him as He knows each one of us. It is our fervent prayer this little booklet will help you get to know Him as we do! You will find the more time you spend with Him, as in any relationship, the better you will get to know Him. The Holy Spirit is our guide, our confidante, our comforter and so much more. Once you enter into a relationship with Him your life will never be the same! For through Him this is where you will find the answers you are seeking. For He and He alone will help you to understand the heart and mind of our Heavenly Father. So before you begin reading let us say the following prayer together.

Divinity Prayer:

*Dear Father,
Please clear my mind so that I will think only those thoughts which You would have me think. Open my eyes so that I might see that which You would have me see. Let me hear that which You would have me hear. May the words of my mouth speak only those words that You would have me say! And finally, dear Father I would ask for a triple anointing of the Holy Spirit, for I know it is through Him I will draw ever closer to You.*

Ok, get ready, for you are about to enter into the most magnificent relationship of all time! For it is through the Holy Spirit you will come to know and understand the mind of Christ!"

Joyfully,
Wendy & Jillian

Prologue

“I Am Alive! Tell My children I am coming! Soon the world will change dramatically before their eyes. Man will not be able to trust that which is of the exterior and so it is they must turn inward for the answers they are seeking. The times ahead are not for the feint at heart. These are serious time and require one be mindful in their response. My children must not be distracted by that which is of the exterior. The Holy Spirit is the conduit to the Divine and so it is those who have “ears to hear” will know what the Spirit is saying. Those who know Me must assure My children they are being guided by the Holy Spirit and that soon there will be those in authority whom they cannot trust. Those they have turned to in the past cannot be depended on to tell the truth and as such they will not uphold the laws our Father has put into place since the beginning of time. As messengers for the Divine you must use discernment in all that you do and say. Yet, you must be bold as there is no time for that which is serendipity in nature. The more time My children spend with Me the more familiar they will become with that which is of the Spirit and that which is of the mind.”- Jesus

Chapter 1

The Task

She Who Has Abiding Faith understood what the Father was asking of her. She knew how important it would be for all to not only know of the Holy Spirit but understand how to develop an intimate relationship with Him.

She prayed she would write what the Holy Spirit desired for her to share. Although, she did not feel worthy of such a task, she knew the Father had placed His trust in her to share what she knew to be true. She Who Has Abiding Faith had worked for the Father long enough now so she understood that which she was most enthusiastic about was of God! It was indeed the Holy Spirit who was placing this desire in her. The desire to help all come to know the Holy Spirit had become so strong she knew she would not rest until this task had been completed. Her primary mission was to help all to come to know and develop a relationship with her beloved friend and to write that which the Holy Spirit desired for her to share.

Chapter 2

Who Am I?

She Who Has Abiding Faith wanted so much for all to know her beloved Jesus as she did. She knew there were many souls who were floundering in the darkness. It wasn't their fault, as much of mankind did not know how to relate to God. Religion had become less and less popular overtime. Even though some of His children knew about God and the Son of God, there were very few who could relate to either. She knew many thought of Jesus as a character in the bible. A bible many of His children had never read, which was after all was subject to man's interpretation. If this were not the case there would not be so many different versions. Because She Who Has Abiding Faith was endowed with an inner sense of KNOWING she never doubted the existence of Jesus, just as she never doubted the reality of the Holy Spirit.

She had come to understand during her travels on the Pathway to the Divine, that far too many did not avail themselves of her precious friend the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit was the third person in what man often referred to as the Holy Trinity. The Trinity being of course, God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit. As you can see they are three separate beings; all of which are one with the Divine. The Holy Spirit was the least understood of the Trinity as it could not be seen and in truth, had often been referred to as the Holy Ghost. Often, when she thought of the name the Holy Ghost, she could see why there were many who did not believe in His existence, any more than they believed in ghosts. And then there were those who although they may believe in His existence, steered away from any type of relationship as ghosts were not generally looked upon with great favor.

She Who Has Abiding Faith understood the many trials and tribulations one would endure as they traveled on the pathway to the Divine. This was not an easy journey for even the heartiest of souls and so it was she could not imagine taking this journey without her beloved friend to guide and comfort her as she learned the many lessons afforded her in the School of Life.

The Holy Spirit was a gift from the heavenly Father, as He was sent to take the place of Jesus when He ascended into heaven.

Prior to Jesus' departure, He promised the disciples the Holy Spirit would be sent in His name proclaiming, "It is He who will teach you all things and remind you of everything I have said to you. For the words I have spoken to you are not My own, for they belong to the Father who sent Me."

She Who Has Abiding Faith wanted all to understand the Holy Spirit was indeed the Spirit of God speaking through the third person in the Trinity, the same spirit who spoke through Jesus when He was on earth. "Oh", she thought, "if man only understood they too had access to the same Spirit as Jesus did! Then they would surely understand what a treasure the Holy Spirit truly is! This would be the greatest treasure given unto man, a treasure which, as the very name implies, would be like none other on earth."

Chapter 3

Where Am I?

She Who Has Abiding Faith had not always been known as such. For there was a time she had been referred to as She Who Was Afraid on earth. There were so many lessons to be learned as a result of the choices she had made. This was because man was endowed with the gift of free will. In essence, one might say they were able to formulate their own lesson plan. It was a good thing the Holy Spirit was there to guide her through these most difficult lessons.

Jesus affectionately referred to His dear friend the Holy Spirit as “The Comforter”. He knew the comfort the Holy Spirit would be to all who believed in Him, to all who believed in the Father. For in truth, that was all that was necessary for one to know the Holy Spirit. They simply needed to believe in Him. Contrary to what man would have one believe, there was no special ritual or religious ceremony that needed to take place in order to receive this most precious of treasures. Unlike other treasures man would seek on earth, this treasure was not difficult to find. All one had to do was look in the right place (“Seek and ye shall find, knock and the door will be open”).

Although the Holy Spirit can make Himself known in many different ways, He can be found within the most sacred of sanctuaries. Therefore, when one needs to avail themselves of the Comforter, they simply need to turn to the sanctuary deep within the recesses of their being. This is where this most precious treasure can be found. Because The Holy Spirit can reside within, He will never leave you for He is available to one twenty four hours a day, seven days a week.

Chapter 4

How the Holy Spirit Makes Himself Known

She Who Has Abiding Faith knew how hard it was in the beginning to hear what the Holy Spirit was saying. There were many reasons for this but first and foremost was that she was so busy being busy she was unable to hear the still voice which came from within. There were so many distractions that kept her actively engaged in that which was of the exterior, that which was of the world.

There were times in the still of the night she would awaken in response to what seemed to come from the interior. It was as if a gentle whisper had come from within. Although not audible to the human ear, it was in fact making its presence felt. This was not a whisper of the mind but rather that which came from the center, the very core of her being. Yet, somehow, she sensed this voice, this gentle whisper, was trying ever so hard to capture her attention. Perhaps if she spent more time listening instead of being annoyed when she was aroused at 3:00 in the morning, she would begin to understand what this still voice was about. It was as if somehow God was tapping at the window of her soul. It was as if some being was trying ever so hard to get her attention. She sensed there was more to this gentle whisper than what she had currently experienced.

Somehow, there was a longing, a longing that She Who Has Abiding Faith could not put her finger on. Sometimes, when she would awaken in the middle of the night, She Who Has Abiding Faith would pray to the Heavenly Father. It seemed there was always someone who was in need and if the truth be known, she had her own needs as well. Yet, even though she believed in the power of prayer there were many times she felt as if she were all alone and if her prayers were somehow heard, God was far too busy to spend any time with her. It had only been lately she had considered the possibility of engaging in a conversation with Him. Not just one in which she was doing all of the talking but a real conversation of which they both could partake of. Could it be possible, she wondered, to actually have a conversation with God?

The Holy Spirit was truly pleased as He could see she was responding to the gentle promptings within. He knew if she would acknowledge these promptings, a deep and meaningful relationship would develop. As in any relationship, He knew the more time they spent together the better they would get to know each other. The more familiar she became with the Holy Spirit the easier it would be for her to understand what was of the Divine. For the Father's ways were not the ways of the world.

He could already see she was beginning to understand who He was and where He could be found. Now, She Who Has Abiding Faith needed to be shown what she was hearing was indeed of Him and that they could, in fact, commune with one another (That's right have an actual conversation with God!). The Holy Spirit knew if She Who Has Abiding Faith would write down those things she heard in the night, she would find what she heard was not of her imagination. For The Holy Spirit would see to it what she heard in the dark would give light in the day. If she were to write down what she heard then she could refer to it when He showed her what she heard was in truth a reality.

She would soon learn what she had labeled as "coincidence" before were in fact incidences orchestrated by the Holy Spirit. Often, these God incidences were a way of validating what she had heard from within. If the truth be known, there were a great deal of God incidences which occurred in one's life, yet far too many did not acknowledge them as such. He knew if one would record these incidences when they occurred they would soon discover they were not merely a coincidence. They would discover they in truth were orchestrated by the Holy Spirit. She Who Has Abiding Faith knew the Holy Spirit had been her faithful guide as she traveled through life. It, of course, was up to her to respond or not respond to His gentle persuasion. One, must remember, the Holy Spirit would never force himself on anyone as all beings were endowed with the gift of free will. Often, the Holy Spirit would speak to her through her feelings and desires. These desires would then motivate her to accomplish good works in His name. Compassion for another was a sure sign the heavenly Father was prompting her to accomplish the Father's will through her feelings for others.

She Who Has Abiding Faith remembered all too well the times she felt no one, not even her heavenly Father, was listening. There were many reasons for this of course. On earth there were so many distractions of the world which were becoming more and more prevalent every day. She recalled rushing from place to place to keep up with the hectic course her life had taken. Yet, little did she understand, much of this was a result of the choices she made each and every day.

There were of course other ways in which the Holy Spirit could make himself known. Far too many did not acknowledge the many miracles which occurred on a daily basis throughout the world. Perhaps, she thought, it was because man was far too busy seeking what was of the world rather than that which was from the heavens above?

In essence, one must believe in that which cannot be seen in order to discover the truth, in order to develop a relationship with the Holy Spirit

Chapter 5

The Soul

She Who Has Abiding Faith understood how important it was to nurture one's soul. The soul is the only part of one's being that one enters this world with and the only part one will leave this world with when the human body no longer exists. Yet, there were far too many on earth who neglected that which cannot be seen, that which comes from within. Is it any wonder then the Holy Spirit resides deep within the recesses of one's being? The Holy Spirit is the constant gardener of one's soul. He is the conduit to the Divine. For it is through the Holy Spirit one is not only able to commune with the Divine but how the soul is fed.

She Who Has Abiding Faith knew the importance of nurturing the soul. For in essence, to heal the soul was to heal the body. For all dis-ease comes from within which in turn will manifest into disease when the soul is not nurtured. The Holy Spirit was here, she knew, to attend to the needs of one's soul. All souls have a distinct purpose for being. The Holy Spirit was sent to help each soul accomplish that which they were meant to learn. The essence of life is to learn, to serve, and to grow. It is through a relationship with the Holy Spirit one would come to know that which is their true purpose for being. This is who they could turn to for the answers they were seeking. "Often times", she knew, "the answer lies in the question itself". For when one feels the need to question that which they do the answer is already apparent. It is through this relationship man would come to understand and develop those characteristics which exemplified that which is of our Heavenly Father.

These characteristics were called the fruits of the spirit. All of God's children were blessed with one or more of these fruits.

Chapter 6

God's Character

“But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.”
Genesis 5:22-23

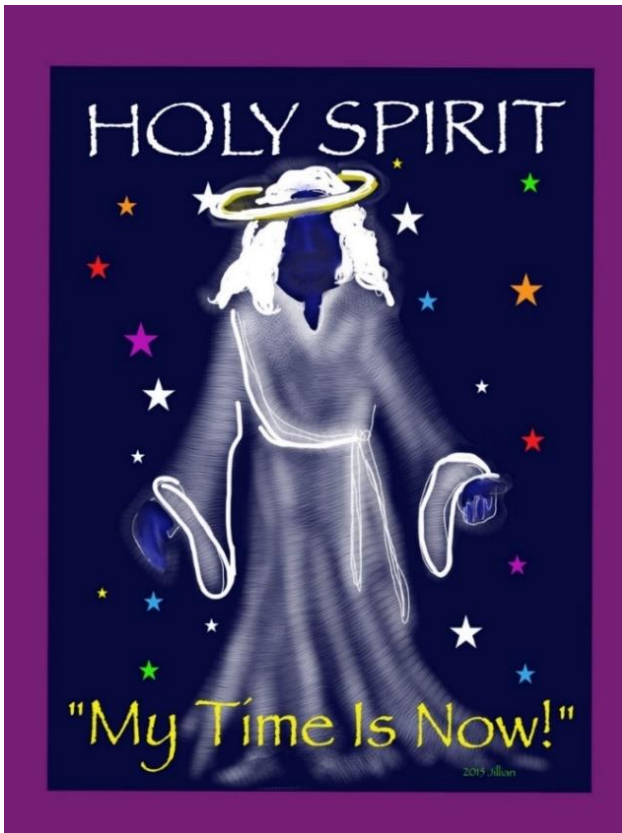

The more time we spend in communion with the Holy Spirit the better we understand those characteristics which exemplify that which is of the Divine. Through this relationship we develop a desire, as a result of this understanding, to become more like our heavenly Father. It is through the Holy Spirit we are molded and shaped into our Father's image, thereby, we begin to accept and understand that which is our Father's will. These characteristics do not magically develop in us but rather develop as our understanding increases; an understanding which, as a result, is then reflective in our own characteristics. As we become more Christ-like the fruits of the Spirit become more prevalent in each of our beings. The Holy Spirit is the greatest teacher of all time and when we allow Him, He will help us learn those lessons which are necessary as we move forward in our pursuit of enlightenment.

She Who Has Abiding Faith had learned much as she traveled on the Pathway to the Divine. It was of course her dear friend the Holy Spirit who had been by her side to guide her. He was always there ready and waiting to comfort her when she stumbled over some of the more difficult lessons and she knew that He, without a doubt, would never fail her. Yes, the Holy Spirit was her constant companion, her most cherished companion. He had never failed her. When she looked back over the course of her travels she could see where the Father had always had her best interests, her higher interests at heart.

Whatever it is you are trying to overcome, whatever it is that may cause you to stumble and fall, She Who Has Abiding Faith knew the Holy Spirit would be there for all who believed in Him; for all who believed in the Father's Son. She knew the more time she spent with Him the deeper her relationship became.

Overtime, it became easier for her to distinguish His voice. She Who Had Abiding Faith had come to realize the Holy Spirit would always confirm that which He had spoken. Sometimes, this confirmation would come through another person, sometimes it would come to her in a dream and yes, sometimes through the miraculous! Whatever the case may be, she had learned to trust in that which she heard knowing He would validate what He had spoken was the reality, was of His Spirit.

Conclusion

The following is a list of the items the Holy Spirit requested be covered:

1. “Tell My Children I am coming.”
2. “Tell them I am the same Spirit who spoke to Jesus.”
3. “I am here for all who believe in Jesus.”
4. “There is no other way to the Father accept through Me.”
5. “Tell My Children where I, the Holy Spirit, can be found.”
6. “Tell them that they too can hear what the Holy Spirit is saying.”
7. “Assure all those who seek Me shall find Me.”
8. “There is no prerequisite other than accepting My Son Jesus Christ is of Me.”
9. “Tell all the time is now!”
10. “I will guide My people in these last days.”
11. “It is time for all to put away their childish ways and seek ye first the kingdom of God.”
