THE TRAVEL TO HIGHGATE, LONDON

Got up early in the morning at 7:30 am to travel to Camden, Highbury to visit Marx's grave only to find out that it opens at 10 am on a Saturday by google. I was staying right at the centre of london in for a day in air bnb worth 80 pounds right near the king cross station. So I took the Victoria line to visit Westminister before boarding the waterloo northern line to miller hill road to arrive at the archer station . The underground in London is old . The waterloo underground for northern line was dusty and dingy (at least it looks that wayuided me from the archer station and I was able !). We arrived at archer station and had to walk for 15 mins to reach the highgate cemetry. Google maps gto see a factory and green neighbourhood of Camden.

The Tomb reads – "The Philosophers Have Only Interpreted the World in Various Ways
- The Point However is to Change It."

the entrance had the counter for tickets and I was asked if I need a ticket for 2 entrances and I told the person where I can visit the Marxs tomb and he sternly replied that Marx was not the only one important in the cemetery and there are many 'others' who were. I thought to myself how divisive Marx has been portrayed to the society. I thought to myself that google being one of the world biggest companies who are clearly against Marx and his theologies , directed those who came see him to a mental hospital instead.

Now onto our journey, I continued through waterlow park and had to walk another 5 mins to reach the entrance of the cemetery.

Marx is accompanied by revolutionaries and comrades from all over the world who are buried beside him one could get a glimpse of Marxs tomb right from the park fence as I did. It was far off but he shows out among the masses (see picture above). There is also visible a lady drawing/noting from one of the graves in front. The park is filled with common people, children playing, dogs running around and the lake of water in the park has ducks and other animals. walked for 5 mins and reach the entrance of the high gate cemetery. the entrance had the counter for tickets and I was asked if I need a ticket for 2 entrances and I told the person where I can visit the marxs tomb and he sternly replied that Marx was not the only one important in the tomb and there are many 'others' who were. The Monument remembers People from across the world who helped rebuild the British Empire . With post-War labor shortages, They helped rebuild Britian's battered economy. Many of those who came were from Caribbean countries and became manual workers, drivers, cleaners.

Google took me via the London borough of Islington - Dartmouth park hill a slope of some kind with walkway that would swirl and bend as you try to look at the guidance on my phone. The road beside me had the bus no 4 go about. Finally when I thought I am reaching my destination, I was guided to enter the "Highgate west Mental Health Centre". I was thinking that maybe they took it on Marx by building a Mental hospital right where he was buried. I followed in the direction that google maps live view took me and took me deep into the facility.

Shut Up! Retired Mr. Obama

The colonizers kept Indians divided to rule. Indians United against the British to gain independence. The Britishers supported the alumni of United Kingdom based Universities to create Pakistan through division of Indians. Indira Gandhi reestablished good relations with East Pakistan (now Bangladesh). Her government supported in the creation of Bangladesh. The United States has historical and current involvement in supporting Pakistan with defense and principle differences. Your Interview with Amanpour was more like you have requested them to pose such question to you. Even during Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra people reflected Unity. Your Interview is relatable to the proverb in Tamil which goes like "The wolf felt sad for the Goat that was soaking in the rain."

Google maps took me via the London borough of Islington -Dartmouth park hill a slope of some kind with walkway that would swirl and bend as you try to look at the guidance on my phone. Then the map started showing me to take a right at the fence which was closed. I realized google has guided me the wrong way and took a u-turn and got to the gate again and took a left then the map started showing me to take a right at the fence which was closed.
