

Dear Neighbor,

Serving in the Marines taught me that freedom demands sacrifice and dedication to the cause, no matter the personal cost. These days, we find ourselves in a struggle to provide our children and grandchildren in our public schools with a strong foundation, as the challenges they face grow bigger by the day. Success in this mission will require volunteers willing to stand up for truth, to fight for the values our community holds dear, and to protect the rights of parents to have clarity and control over what their children are learning; it will require volunteers willing to sacrifice. My wife Yasmin is that kind of fighter.

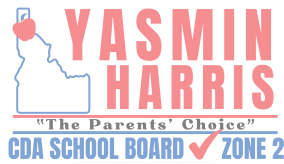

My name is Todd Harris, and I am writing to you today as the proud husband of Yasmin Harris, your candidate for Coeur d'Alene School Board Trustee. I have had the honor of being married to Yasmin for the past 11 years, with the pleasure of knowing her for 18. We have been blessed with two active boys, ages 9 and 7, both of whom attend our local public school.

As her husband, I know Yasmin's relentless pursuit of excellence in all that she does. She has always been a peacemaker and a problem solver. Her professional experience, unwavering commitment to the Lord and the truth, and strong moral compass are what allow her to meet difficult challenges with a level head and humility. She is a true guiding light to me, our family, and to all who know her. She is fondly referred to as Mama Yas because people know that when it comes to her children, or anyone else's for that matter, there is no compromise.

After being disappointed by several recent decisions made within our school district, it is clear that we need a School Board Trustee with convictions and principles strong enough to stand against opposing forces. Again, Yasmin is that kind of woman.

She will not back down, nor be intimidated by outside influences. She will fight endlessly to make sure that your voices are heard, and that the children in our schools get the protection and quality education they deserve. She understands that the impact of this extends well beyond the school years, and shapes the future of North Idaho. I know you will be proud to have her represent you as a School Board Trustee.

From an early age, Yasmin has been an example of service and personal excellence. As a young public school student, she received high academic accolades from local and state organizations. She earned the Girl Scouts' prestigious Gold Award as a young woman and has continued to excel professionally and socially throughout her adult life. She has a strong background in finance, having managed budgets and audits for both large and small companies.

She has a heart to serve and currently works on staff in ministry development for Pathway Church. Both her life story, and her testimony of faith and stamina, support her grit and perseverance in the face of challenge. Yasmin is a strong and intelligent woman of character, whom I love and admire greatly. I am regularly amazed that I have been given the gift of this incredible woman as my best friend and life partner. As you get to know her as your School Board Trustee, I know you will understand why.

Yasmin's ultimate goal is to restore the trust of our community and support the rights of parents in our school district. She is here to be the voice of our community, our taxpayers, and our families

I hope you take a moment to learn more about my incredible wife, Yasmin, at www.Yas4cda.com. Help us seat a member of our community on the school board who is invested in making the Coeur d'Alene public school district a stronger and more enriching place for our children to learn and grow. Thank you for your prayers and support in this upcoming election, and beyond.

And remember, vote Yasmin Harris on November 7th.

Kindest regards,

Todd Harris

"Yasmin is the voice we need on the CDA School Board. Her remarkable journey from Iran to North Idaho, and her discovery of Christian faith provides a strong foundation in the values that should form the basis of education in our school district. A dedication to student achievement, fiscal responsibility, and the well being of our children are the cornerstones of her campaign. I've known Yasmin for a few years now, and I trust her, and I am convinced of her passion and her dedication to the future of our children. I urge you to vote for Yasmin Harris for the CDA School Board."

"I had the pleasure of meeting Yasmin Harris, learning about her campaign, and discussing in depth the reasons she is running for Coeur d'Alene School Board Trustee. Yasmin is exactly the type of "new blood" we need holding our local public offices. She brings a strong background in finance, and carries with her a strong Christian worldview. She understands the issues that matter for our schools and for the future of our children. She has my support, and I encourage you to cast your vote for Yasmin Harris on November 7th."
