MEMBER RESPONSIBILITIES

We welcome you as a member of the Edmonton Epicurean Society. Our Society prides itself in having fun, enjoying good food, good wine and good company. Each member has a responsibility to ensure that this Society is one in which everyone feels welcome and is respected.

Member responsibilities:

- As an ambassador of the Edmonton Epicurean Society, you will do your utmost to promote a positive view of the Society and encourage new membership.
- Concerns about the Society, how it is administered or how events are organized will be discussed with an Executive member or directed in writing to the Executive, who will then ensure that the concern is addressed properly.
- Any form of disrespect regarding another member or guest will not be tolerated (including but not limited to gossip about member/guests, harassment, lewd remarks, raising your voice).
- Follow provincial, municipal and venue health guidelines as they apply to the events of the Society.

Members who cannot abide by these terms will be asked to resign from the Society. Their membership fees will be pro-rated and refunded.

The Executive recommends that when attending our events you, other members, and guests share taxi or ride-sharing services or if using a private car, have a designated driver who will abstain from drinking and therefore not risk the violation of drinking and driving laws of Canada.
