

UROMASTYX CARE SHEET:

- ❖ UVB 10.0 tube light + fixture. 10-12 hours of this light is essential, make sure the light is at least 6 inches away at all times. REPLACE light every 6 months! Make note of this! This light does not put off heat!
- ❖ 150 Watt Basking Exo Terra Bulb. >>> turn all lights off at night if your house stays in the 70's. Uro's like it cool at night. These guys need a basking spot of around 120 degrees.
- ❖ Recommend surge protector.
- ❖ Small water dish, almost the smallest one you can find. They CAN'T get their tail wet, so no baths. >> Leads to tail rot.
- ❖ Calcium with D3, as it won't hurt to have that extra mineral. Dust salads 3x a week. (Too much calcium is not healthy for any reptile.)
- ❖ For sand, play sand is strongly advised as it is vet recommended. >> It's beneficial to have one section of the cage divided off with tile; that's where food dishes/water is. So no sand is getting in their food. Uros love the hot sand, as well as digging! [OBJ]
- ❖ Fully grown, these lizards should be provided with a 40 breeder enclosure to 55-75 gallon aquarium/enclosure.
- ❖ Provide multiple hides! They usually bask in the morning/all day and sleep at night.
- ❖ These guys love dried peas and lentils from the grocery store as well as millet on their salads, mixed with some cilantro!

Provide a millet dish at all times.

- ❖ Uro's eat salad everyday. Mealworms are okay AS TREATS, if your uro prefers them.

*If you're going to try something new (food wise) please make sure you always check to see if it's okay for your Uromastyx!

Please make sure your Uromastyx does not come in contact with a bearded dragon! If you've handled a dragon, wash your hands really good! If you use anything that was in a dragon's tank, scrub it really well. Dragons have a "disease" that won't hurt them, but affect Uros. If you have any other questions regarding your Uro's care, please don't hesitate to call your local Atlantis Pet Store LLC, at 541-440-5297. Open 7 days a week!
