

Fake 400: Dan Coyle

Life is too short to tolerate nonsense. Cut out negativity, ignore gossip, and let go of fake people, this is something we learn as we get older. But when we were teenagers we tried to impress everybody by running off at the mouth with all sorts of fake stories. My brother met a lovely girl on holiday in Norfolk, she was from Kendal, now we didn't have much 2 get up 2 down in Sheffield, 3 brothers sharing the same bedroom etc. Well Mark gave her our address and she turned up on the doorstep. What a palaver i couldn't stop laughing Mark saying i can explain. The thing is Mark had told her we lived in a mansion Dad had a top job and we were loaded. The truth was both Mum and Dad were blind and on benefits living in a rented 2 bed terraced house. Mark didnt know what to do lol, But the funniest bit to this story is Gillian from Kendal came from a broken home, lived with her Mum in a small flat and basically in the same boat as Mark. She had told him that her family were landowners lived in a large manor house her Dad drove a Rolls Royce so both trying to impress each other holiday romances hey they bring out the worst in you but oh to be young again.
