DOCTOR Feel Good

Want to look the very best you can? Dr Josh Berkowitz can help you do just that. The internationally trained cosmetic specialist is an expert in some of the most advanced medical beauty treatments available

Having grown up in Zimbabwe, Dr Josh Berkowitz split his medical training between Johannesburg and Birmingham and practised as a gynaecologist in South Africa. During this time, Dr Berkowitz developed a sympathetic understanding of women's issues and concerns: not only did they want to feel good, they wanted to look good too. It was this that led him to anti-ageing and aesthetic medicine. He relocated permanently to England 11 years ago with his wife and two children, and now runs the highly successful Wimpole Aesthetic Centre in London's most prestigious medical district. Dr Berkowitz is one of the leading practitioners of the body-sculpting treatment Smart Lipo. He also specialises in Thermage – a procedure that revitalises the body's own collagen – and has a further range of safe, effective treatments designed to help you glow with confidence.

The person behind the professional

WHAT WOULD YOU BE DOING IF YOU WEREN'T A COSMETIC DOCTOR?

I would go back to obstetrics and gynaecology. It's such a rewarding area of medicine.

WHO HAS HAD THE GREATEST INFLUENCE ON YOUR LIFE/CAREER?

Without wanting to sound like a mummy's boy, I have to say my mother. In the early years she was the stabilising influence in my life and the person who motivated me to be the best I could be.

WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Make it count.

By which I mean, however large or small your contribution, it's important to be involved in something good.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE REMEMBERED? As a mensch – it's a Yiddish word, meaning a good and moral person.

Josh's vital statistics

Dr Berkowitz's patients are seeking solutions to concerns about their looks and ageing issues. He prides himself on providing a balanced and sensitive assessment of the best options available and believes this is essential for patient contentment in the long term. 'The most satisfying part of the job is seeing a patient truly happy with the outcome of their treatment. That takes a real understanding of the underlying problem,' he affirms.

To Dr Berkowitz, a future in aesthetic and anti-ageing medicine was a natural progression from his early career as a gynaecologist. Today he derives great fulfilment from helping both men and women find happiness in their appearance and general wellbeing.

Patients and peers alike applaud his work. But perhaps the most reassuring thing on meeting Dr Berkowitz is his infectious smile and genuine desire to help improve the quality of life of others.
