

Classy

It's that time of year once more.
Backpacks are filled with new supplies.
Lunchboxes are in hand.
Hurry up, don't be late. Children are off to school.

Everything is new again, a fresh start.
Excitement at meeting new teachers, seeing old friends.
New classes and subjects to be challenged with.

For all of us, LIFE is a daily class.
No attendance is taken, but everyone is present.
Its' classroom offers unlimited potential.

Knowledge and learning are two good friends.
They whisper in our ears and invite us on new journeys.
They satisfy our inquisitive minds with ideas.
They give us confidence,
With the new things we now know.

Be curious. Be open.
Search for ways to learn something new every day.
The knowledge you gain is yours to keep, yours to share.

And if your "backpack" starts to feel heavy,
That is a good thing.
Never stop filling it...
