Second Sunday of Easter • April 28, 2019

Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe.

~ John 20: 29

From Father Rich

This Sunday within the Octave of Easter is also called the 2nd Sunday of Easter; once it was called “Low Sunday” - in counterpoint to the great feast of Easter; and for some recent years it is Divine Mercy Sunday. By whatever name we call it, however, the Gospel passage remains the same. It is the story of one of the first appearances of the Risen Lord Jesus and how his disciples and followers grappled with this new reality. Today’s passage captures the not-unexpected doubt of Thomas. It strikes me that Thomas gets a bad shake in our “myth-memory” - for by naming only him, we fail to recognize that none of the other disciples seemed to have had the credibility to convince him that they had, indeed, been visited by the Risen Lord! (After all, if they were so taken by that encounter, why were they still locked in that room?) Nevertheless, once Thomas is with them when the Lord appears, it is he who makes the great proclamation of faith, “My Lord and my God!”

As we continue into this Easter season of fifty days, we also are challenged to be open to encountering the Risen Lord in our own lives, in places we did not expect, at times we did not arrange. The power of the unbelieving narrative is in claiming this event doesn’t make any difference in our lives or in our world. It is the stance of the cynic. And so those unbelievers are only too happy to announce that nothing has really changed. The foundation for the unbelievers is the same as the foundation upon which the apostles stood in those first days - it is fear. That is why they were in the locked room. And that is the constant threat and reminder of those who cannot capitalize on the Resurrection event for their own purposes.

Each of us must decide where we will place our lives. Will we follow the path of the Risen Lord in which mercy and love are the necessary prerequisites? Or will we fall back into the old way things once were, the illusion of better times - or at least times in which, although they weren’t very good, at least we knew what to expect? This cynical approach was first recorded in the Bible when Moses led the people out of slavery from the Egyptians. No sooner were they out of captivity than the grind of daily life, “What shall we eat? Where will we go?” became too much and they complained to Moses that at least when they were slaves they would be fed every day! And so we see the temptation to sell hope for a piece of bread.

Of course we sell hope for many reasons - but always they return us to fear. We fear being hurt again in love. We fear being powerless in a world which claims power is everything. We fear being left behind while others are going somewhere else. We fear what we might be trading away, never to be seen again. And many, many other fears.

In today’s Gospel story, and in nearly every story of God’s messenger delivering God’s blessings to us, those messengers, those angels begin with, “Do not be afraid!” It is hard to let go of thinking we are in charge. (Even here, the reality is usually different from what we would like it to be.) Usually we are not actually in charge. But we hold on to that notion because it gives us the illusion of power and control. What would it mean to let Jesus be in charge? How would my life be different if I truly trusted in God?

Easter is fifty days to revel in the gifts of salvation and mercy so generously showered upon us by God’s Son. Look for opportunities to trust, for opportunities to believe, for opportunities to love.

Growing in Faith

This Thursday, May 2, we honor the day as both the Holocaust Remembrance Day as well as the National Day of Prayer. As many know, the very last survivors of the Holocaust are now dying and an astonishing number of young people now know nothing of the Holocaust.

With a precipitous rise in nationalism here and throughout the globe, we also see increasing incidents involving anti-Semitic perpetrators, not to mention racist acts against all manner and type of people. Now more than ever, I believe we need to inform ourselves and those we love, about what happened eighty years ago. Five years ago, I wrote a GIF piece about my visit to the Illinois Holocaust Museum and Education Center in Skokie. It is a great place to learn anew and remember.

ILHMEC is a treasure in our own backyard! It's the world's third largest Holocaust museum behind Jerusalem and Washington D.C. Even though the subject matter is deeply disturbing, I found myself uplifted. There you find both a global message and a local flavor. Over 7,000 Holocaust survivors lived in Skokie. The idea of a museum arose as a "call to action" when Neo-Nazi's amassed in Skokie in 1976. Today's remarkable museum opened ten years ago and is both educational and personal. Look for our dear late friend, Rabbi Herman Schaalmann of Edgewater's Emanuel Congregation, in a video about adjusting to life here.

Please check it out. Make your museum visit an Easter Season pilgrimage. It seems to me we must first educate ourselves and then stand with all humanity to combat hatred and bigotry in our world.

Holy Week at St. Gertrude

Easter Sunday was a wonderful day at St. Gertrude, with Masses packed with parishioners and guests joining together to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus.

We appreciate the many people who came out for our Holy Week services or joined a Lenten faith-sharing group. Every person who comes to St. Gertrude adds blessings to our parish, whether it be through volunteering, stewardship, or the power of their prayers.

We also thank the many people who worked so hard to make Lent and Holy Week special. So many stepped up to help—our singers and musicians, our team that decorated the church, the many lectors, the Eucharistic ministers, our RCIA leaders, the teens who helped at the Masses and participated in the Living Stations of the Cross on Good Friday, those who led our faith-sharing groups, and many other unsung helpers—we appreciate your time and efforts!

Great churches don't just happen—they are created and nurtured by active, generous parishioners.

Thank You from Our Music Minister: I wish to extend my most hearty and sincere thank you to all of the instrumentalists and choir members who gave untold hours in practice and preparation to make our Holy Week services so spiritually moving and beautiful. For this, I am deeply appreciative. Our community is truly blessed to have an abundance of talented musicians in its presence.

The women gather weekly in the Loom studio to weave their creativity and cultural traditions together, teach each other skills, welcome new artisans, and enjoy the company of other brave, creative, and enterprising women.

Loom artisans create hand-made products, including knit items, jewelry, naturally dyed silk scarves, leather products, and more, designed in collaboration with local Chicago artists.

Parish Council One-on-One Initiative: As you have read in the minutes of our monthly meetings, the Parish Pastoral Council is engaging in a process of conducting one-on-one meetings. Parishioner Greg Pierce, who has extensive experience as a community organizer and is currently working with United Power, has trained the council members in this strategy which comes from community organizing.

The members of the council have begun this initiative by having one-on-one relational meetings with other council members. We will soon reach out to meet with the leaders of our parish ministries. The goal is to build relationships within the parish by conversing for about forty-five minutes about topics that are important to us. There is no other agenda.

We believe that by building these relationships, we will extend our connections within the parish, which will enrich the work of our ministries and further our outreach into the community. We hope this process will eventually help us to discern the current needs and longings of our parishioners and to welcome new participants in our ministries. This relationship building will also help St. Gertrude Parish to be prepared for our work with Renew My Church in the near future. We find these one-on-ones to be very interesting and inspiring.

To accomplish the next phase of this initiative, Parish Council members will be contacting parish ministry leaders to set up one-on-one meetings. We appreciate the openness and willingness of parishioners to participate in this process.

Catholic Charities

As an ailing senior, Cochise relies on the help of a dependable home aide to help her with daily tasks and errands so she can continue to live in her own home and enjoy a high quality of life. When she had trouble finding an aide that would fit her needs, she reached out to Catholic Charities, who worked with her to find someone she was comfortable with.

Last year, 364,373 seniors were supported by Catholic Charities through many programs including home delivered meals, adult day care, senior centers, congregate meals, family caregiver assistance, transportation services, the hospital transition program and more. The support seniors receive from Catholic Charities, ensures that they continue to live comfortably in their own homes and communities for as long as possible with dignity and compassionate support.

Please give to Catholic Charities on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 12, to help seniors stay healthy. Learn more at www.catholiccharities.net.

Parish Stewardship

“The disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord. Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the father has sent me, so I send you.” ~ John 20:21

We echo Jesus’s words through the handshake of peace. Can we live them?

May be the peace of Christ be with us. May we bring his peace into the world.
