Third Sunday of Lent

Anger is perhaps the most misunderstood emotion among not only Christians, but many others throughout the world. Today's gospel passage of Jesus cleansing the temple by creating a whip and driving out the moneychangers and others who had created a marketplace within the temple itself, is our confrontation with righteous anger.

Anger of any kind rises up within us when we perceive injustice towards ourselves present in the situation. Sometimes, this is, in a sense, a trick, because what has actually happened is our ego has been accurately attacked and we don't like our frailty and imperfections being exposed. In those situations, we need to reflect on what is it that triggered this response in order to root out the source of our misperception -- it isn't about changing the world, it is about changing ourselves.

Sometimes anger arises when we perceive we are being treated unfairly, not receiving what we have determined is our due. Oftentimes this is because of the biases or prejudices we have lived within for many years -- sometimes since we were very young children. I suspect a lot of the recent troubles in our own country are founded in this kind of anger. People feel and suspect they aren't getting something they "deserve" while others who don't "deserve" it are receiving it or are at least perceived as receiving it. In these cases, it is imperative that everyone move towards the objective truth of the situation. What is wrong in these situations is not the reality of what is present, but the incorrect perception of those who do not like it. Especially in these situations, speaking the truth is of paramount importance.

The anger of Jesus in today's gospel passage is accurate and appropriate. Probably over the course of many years, everyone got lax about following the religious norms regarding the temple. Now those with business savvy set up the selling of necessary materials for offering their sacrifices (e.g. two turtle doves, etc.) and were able to pay-off or wear down those responsible for maintaining the religious nature of the temple. In so doing, the real purpose of the temple became distorted. Its primary purpose was no longer to adore God and offer appropriate sacrifices. Instead, it had become one more place of business. Jesus' anger not only reveals his passion for truth but his passion for his Father and His Father's House! That is righteous anger. He is not only speaking up for himself but for all his fellow believers in order to get things back into their right order so that worship of God may again be pure.

One of the great gifts of so many community organizations and community organizers is that they rouse up the hearts and souls of people to “speak truth to power.” They identify the injustices that are encouraged and supported by those in power enjoying the status quo and demand it be confronted and changed for the good of all the people. Obviously, if everyone has gotten used to the way things are, correcting this injustice is going to cause upset, disorder, change. Most of all, a giant pushback from those who are being challenged. Often when people rise up and speak this kind of truth, the pushback comes in the form of outrage, anger, and fury directed at those who are pointing out the flaws of the current system. At those moments, those who are the greatest supporters of the injustices become the loudest shouters that they are now being treated unjustly. When, in fact, what they are actually protecting, is their place of privilege and superiority.

As we have seen in so many examples in recent years, righteous anger is met by weaponized anger, escalating situations in order to defeat those who have been unjustly treated. Weaponized anger is always wrong and only ever leads to more violence and destruction and injustice. That is the reason so many great leaders, like Gandhi, like Jesus, like Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., have refused to allow violence to be used in that way, demanding that all those who follow their teaching be non-violent in their resistance.

Lent is a good opportunity for personal and societal reflection. It is a good time to consider what “ticks me off?” Do my ire and my bile rise up appropriately because I am being treated unjustly? Or is it because I am one of the privileged and don't want my exalted status threatened and even taken away? It is at this point we begin to see the interconnectedness of Jesus' teachings and how he lived his life. Unless I can see every other human being as my equal, the world is unjust. And unless I am a tool for changing that inequality and ushering greater equality, even if I am doing nothing to support the inequality, in fact, I am supporting it. My "take no stand" supports the status quo.

We know from the life and death of Jesus and so many others that the work of our life in serving equality and truth is both exhausting and demands such a high price, even, for some, to the point of death.

M. Scott Peck pointed out in his writings that "life is not fair." That is certainly the truth of all who live in this world. But the next steps in our response to that truth are hard. Speaking truth, living truth will exact a price. Consider right now how many people are insisting on certain lies because they like that version of reality better than the truth! And they are very willing to pay a lot to maintain those falsehoods. Even if it means destroying foundational values. Even if it means destroying the property and lives of those with whom they disagree.

For each of us this Lent, what is the "it"? What is the inappropriate anger I need to come to grips with? And the other side of that, what are the things about which I should be angry because they are creating or maintaining an unjust reality for me and others? That is the beginning of living the gospel that we are called to every Lent, and every day of our Christian life.

Anger can be a great tool for good when it fuels our passion -- when we know why we are angry and what we are willing to change in ourselves, first, and then what are we willing to fight for in the broader world in which we live.

Lenten Reconciliation Service

Next Sunday, March 14, everyone is invited to join in our Parish Reconciliation Service at 1:00 pm in church. As in past years, this is a reflective service, allowing time for listening to scripture and the opportunity of a “Guided Reflection” which is an examination of conscience.

Absolution will be given and we will be maintaining the usual protocols for spatial distancing, requiring reservations for entrance into church, etc.

This is a great way to prepare spiritually for the celebration of Easter. Hope to see you next Sunday at 1:00 pm! Register to attend here.

Daylight Savings Time - Next Weekend

Reminder: We change clocks next Saturday night! Daylight Saving Time begins on Sunday, March 14. Don't forget to set your clocks ahead one hour before you go to bed on Saturday night.

Growing in Faith

If you're a person of a certain age, like me, then you'll know of what I speak when I say, "Jesus Christ Superstar is the Greatest Rock Opera Movie of All Time!!" Of course, this is my humble opinion.

This week's Gospel reading (John 2:13-25) is about Jesus throwing out the moneychangers from inside the temple. That scene is made extremely vivid in the movie Jesus Christ Superstar. In fact, the setting and its accompanying song are titled "Moneylenders and Merchants". For me, that scene gets to the heart of how disappointed and disheartened Jesus probably felt when he saw the temple, his house of prayer, turned into a desecrated and debased marketplace. I imagine Jesus must have also felt that his followers didn't—or couldn't—understand what was happening or what was to come. In the movie, Ted Neely, as Jesus, sings woefully [that] "After all I've tried for three years, seems like thirty, seems like thirty." At this point in the movie you gain a clear sense of Jesus' despair.

When I watch the movie and experience the power and beauty of Jesus' passionate prayer at Gethsemane, I feel as if I am on that journey to Golgotha with our Lord. After all, isn't that 'walk with Jesus' part of our Lenten calling? Grace and peace comfort me, because I know our Lord and Savior will conquer death, will be raised up in three days, and will reign forever.

Do yourself a favor: Watch Jesus Christ Superstar during this Lenten season. If you can't stream it or find a DVD of this incredibly awesome rock opera movie, I'll be happy to lend you my copy!

Letter to the Parishioners of St. Ignatius, St. Jerome, and St. Gertrude

To the faith communities of St. Ignatius, St. Jerome, and St. Gertrude parishes:

We, the three pastoral leaders of the Rogers Park-Edgewater Catholic community, want to share our thoughts to assist the transition of the three parishes into two parishes this summer. For St Ignatius parishioners, the loss of their parish weighs heavily on their minds and hearts. Working together with all the members of the three parishes, we hope to be able to develop strategies that can move us forward in creating a renewed parish life in Rogers Park and Edgewater.

We hope that your Lenten season has begun prayerfully and well, especially during this ongoing pandemic time. In the second reading of Ash Wednesday, St. Paul urges us to be “ambassadors for Christ, as if God were appealing through us.” It reminds us that Lent is not only a time for personal renewal, but also for bringing the Good News of Jesus Christ to others. In this time of transition, we all need to become ambassadors for Christ as we seek to build new relationships across “parish boundaries”. This is the hoped-for essence of the Renew My Church process.

We three have begun to meet regularly to discuss the implementation of the decision, particularly the winding down of St. Ignatius as a parish and the welcoming of parishioners to the parishes of St. Jerome and St. Gertrude. The Renew My Church Organizational Transformation team will be assisting our parishes as part of that process.

From now through Easter, we will be working together to plan activities to invite our sisters and brothers of St. Ignatius to join St. Jerome or St. Gertrude as their new parish homes. In the Easter season, we envision pastoral leaders and lay members of St. Gertrude and St. Jerome visiting St. Ignatius for worship and conversation on how we can support one another and welcome new members.

Representatives from all three parishes will begin discussions to explore potential opportunities for a Mission Center in the neighborhood. This planning will also engage Loyola University, the local Jesuit community, and possibly other community partners.

Once we have walked with Jesus on his Pascal journey and celebrated his Resurrection, the level of our activities in these and other areas will expand. We encourage you to share your ideas or questions about this time of transition. Please do not hesitate to contact us. Our emails are noted below. We ask that you pray to determine how you can be an ambassador in the formation of a renewed church in Rogers Park-Edgewater.

National Week of Prayer for the Healing of AIDS: March 7 through March 14, 2021

This national week of prayer calls our attention to the AIDS epidemic in the United States and the unique role that communities of faith can and are playing in AIDS prevention, education, service, and advocacy. This commemorative week highlights the need for a continuous mobilization and education of faith communities to take an even greater role in the implementation of AIDS education and services within their local communities and across the nation.

The week is intended to raise awareness and strengthen our nation's faith communities to influence social norms and thus contribute to the prevention of HIV/AIDS, reduce the associated stigma and provide compassionate support to those who are living with and affected by HIV/AIDS.

At Holy Thursday's Mass of the Lord's Supper on April 1, we will take up a collection to support both Bonaventure House Alexian Brothers AIDS Ministry and Catholic Charities' efforts to help those living with and affected by AIDS. Donations can also be made HERE.

Members of every church, mosque, synagogue, temple, educational, and health care institution and those at home are invited to join in prayer for the healing of AIDS. In unity with this week of prayer across our nation, we offer the following from the Alexian Brothers, Bonaventure House:

Prayer to Christ the Healer

*In the comfort of your love, I pour out to you, my Savior,
The memories that haunt me, the anxieties that perplex me, the fears that stifle me, the sickness that prevails upon me, and the frustrations of all the pain that weaves about within me.*

Lord, help me to see your peace in my turmoil, your compassion in my sorrow, your forgiveness in my weakness, and your love in my need.

*Touch me, O Lord, with your healing power and strength.
Amen.*

RCIA Events

At last Sunday's 10:30 am Mass, Jessica Navarro, part of this year's Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) group seeking entrance into the Catholic faith, headed down to Holy Name Cathedral in the afternoon for the Rite of Election.

There, she was presented to Bishop Grob and recognized alongside other catechumens (unbaptized) in the final weeks of their preparation for entering the Church at the Easter Vigil Mass on Holy Saturday. Please keep her, Corina Cleja, and Daniel Geihlsler, our other RCIA candidates (who have already been baptized), and the RCIA team in your prayers in these final weeks of this important faith formation process.

Over the next three weekends at one of the Sunday Masses, the RCIA group will undergo the Scrutinies where they will be examined about their own desires to turn away from sin and embrace the gospel of Jesus. These Rites invite all of us “old Catholics” to do the same in our lives, as we share the common goal of being ready for the celebration of Easter. The schedule is:

- First Scrutiny - Saturday, March 6 at the 5:00 pm Mass
- Second Scrutiny - Sunday, March 14 at the 8:00 am Mass
- Third Scrutiny, Sunday, March 21 at the 10:30 am Mass

Previously, our Almoner's Program distributed $5 gift cards to McDonald's to parishioners after Mass. They were then asked to share the card with someone in need and take the opportunity to have a brief and humane conversation with the other person, affirming them and wishing them well.

This year, we have adjusted our program due to COVID and have opted to collect donations to purchase McDonald's gift cards for two local ministries that serve those in our community who are in need - The Night Ministry and Care for Real. Both organizations have seen a dramatic rise in people needing help since the beginning of the pandemic.
