Fourth Sunday of Easter • May 12, 2019

Today we give thanks for all the women who are nurturing and encouraging to others, whether they are mothers, step-mothers, sisters, aunts, cousins, friends, caretakers, teachers, co-workers, or neighbors.

God our Creator, we pray for new mothers, coming to terms with new responsibility; for expectant mothers, wondering and waiting; for those who are tired, stressed or depressed; for those who struggle to balance the tasks of work and family; for those who are unable to feed their children due to poverty; for those whose children have physical, mental, or emotional disabilities; for those who have children they do not want; for those who raise children on their own; for those who have lost a child; for those who care for the children of others; for those whose children have left home; and for those whose desire to be a mother has not been fulfilled.

Bless all mothers, that their love may be deep and tender, and that they may lead their children to know and do what is good, living not for themselves alone, but for God and for others.

From Father Rich

Happy Mother's Day! As we give thanks to God for all our mothers, let us also be sure to thank them for their love and care. And let us treat them as well every day of the year!

On this Mother's Day, we also celebrate the Blessed Mother with our May Crowning celebration at the conclusion of the 10:30 am Mass. We are especially happy to welcome the girls and boys who celebrated their First Holy Communion yesterday and are with us in their First Communion finery!

Congratulations to all the girls and boys who celebrated their First Communion! We are so proud of you and so happy to welcome you as we share in the Body and Blood of Christ at the table of the Lord!

It seems particularly appropriate that as all these celebration come together, we also celebrate Good Shepherd Sunday. The 4th Sunday of Easter always brings to our attention this wonderful image of Our Lord. The image/icon of the Good Shepherd is one of the oldest, and most beloved of all Christian images. It portrays the actual relationship of each of us with God, who seeks out what is lost; who lifts us up and carries us on his shoulders when we are too weak to keep up; who knows us each by name. Another word for the Good Shepherd is mercy! Let us practice mercy in how we treat one another.

Recently, the area pastors and the local bishop, Bishop Bartosic, began a discussion about providing adult education in the area. The overriding purpose of the adult education is so that we might better form our children in the ways of faith. The perceived need comes from a common experience in many parishes today. There is often a huge disconnect between parents sending their children to a Catholic schools or Religious Education program, and the practice of their Catholicism on Sundays and throughout the year. Many parents consider the local Catholic school simply a "private" opportunity that allows them to avoid an area public school, and also avoid the much higher tuition of the actual "private" schools available.

At the conclusion of the Rite of Baptism, there is a blessing that includes these words: "Parents are the first teachers of their children in the ways of faith. May they be also the best of teachers, bearing witness to the faith by what they say and do." Sometimes it seems as if some parents have "farmed out" that faith responsibility to the school or Religious Education program. This meeting is a starting point to see what, if anything, can be done to restore the connection between our faith and our educational enterprises.

Of this much I am certain, we do not have Catholic schools in order to avoid participation in the local public school system, nor do we consider our schools private. Catholic schools are part of the parish mission. We operate them to spread the faith by forming our children in the Catholic faith. At least a few times a year at the sacramental meetings for parents of children preparing for the reception of the sacraments, I stress the importance of not raising "spiritually schizophrenic" children -- by which I mean telling the children it is important for them to come to church -- but then the family not practicing their faith together. Over time, what this teaches the children is that it is okay to say one thing and do something altogether different. Not a good idea for the long-term formation and moral development of the children. As they have done from time immemorial, children will always mimic what their parents are actually doing, no matter what they happen to be saying. As this endeavor moves forward, I will keep you informed.

~ Father Rich

Growing in Faith

Motherhood in our society is near impossible—pregnancy, birth, six-week maternity leave, breast-feeding, long work hours, husbands' with long work hours, logistics of activities, appointments, so many "healthy" meals, planning vacations, making holidays and birthdays special, limiting technology, self-care, and of course, most importantly, loving our children and helping them grow into kind and loving adults. We ask too much of our mothers.

So what's a modern mother to do? We look for inspiration. Inspiration from our own mothers, from the mothers around us, and from the mother that Jesus gave us when from the cross he said, "Here is your mother."

Knowing Mother Mary loves us all with a pure, selfless and steadfast motherly love, giving us infinite support, helps us find our way. Listening for and trying to follow God's will for us helps. Being a part of our St. Gertrude's "village" helps. As a community, we support each other with prayers, meals, love, kindness. We pray for mothers-to-be and those mothers in need. We bring meals to sick mothers, and love up each other's children in church, in the neighborhood, in school. We carry out our church traditions, giving our children positive memories and a sense of belonging to something greater than ourselves. Through this we show love not as just an emotion but an action, and not just to our children but to all children. Just as Mary was mother to all, we know how important it is to mother to all. Through this demonstration of love, we pass on a tradition of love, and when we do that we know in our hearts that even if we don't fit the modern societal model of the perfect mom, that we have given our children the essential, a mother's love. And that love in the midst of all the chaos of our daily lives, is what we hope will endure.

Inspiration from Mary, God's will for us, and our "village" support us in being the best mothers we can be.

April 25 Parish Council Minutes

The Parish Pastoral Council met on Thursday, April 25. The PPC discussed the success of the Simple Suppers initiative during Lent. The parish council also discussed the one-on-one initiatives which have begun in earnest within the council and soon to be occurring with leaders within the various parish ministries. We know that these one-on-ones will deepen our community relationships and help to prepare us as we approach Renew My Church in the future.

The council then revisited the vision statement process. In the near future, the council looks forward to sharing the draft vision statement with the parish in concert with a refreshed mission statement.

Lastly, a small committee of the PPC will be presenting recommendations on bylaws, terms, and directions for the entire council before the council goes on break for the summer. Again, the council looks forward to sharing those with the parish at large when complete.

The next PPC meeting will be Thursday, May 23.

In Care of our Common Home

From today's readings: "I have made you a light to the Gentiles, that you may be an instrument of salvation to the ends of the earth."

Be that light that shines in the name of the Lord. Spread your light throughout all of His creation. Be respectful of the gifts He has given us. Become more aware of how items you purchase and then throw away affect other people throughout the world.

In his book, Laudato Si, Pope Francis wrote, "When people become self-centered and self-enclosed their greed increases. The emptier a person's heart is the more he needs things to buy, own or consume. In effect, our daily diet and creature comforts affect life halfway around the world. Despite the difficulties, we need to change our lifestyles. To help solve our ecological crises, we need to consume less."

This week's tip: reduce, reuse and recycle.

Parish Stewardship

“Jesus said, ‘My sheep hear my voice; I know them and they follow me. I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish. No one can take them out of my hand.’” ~ John 10:27-28

Jesus knows us. Knows us down to the ground, knows our strengths, our weaknesses, our sins. And yet, he loves us down to the ground as well. Let us all hear his voice—he will shepherd us.
