ZION NATIONAL PARK
Zion National Park (ZNP) is 229 square miles located at the convergence of the Colorado Plateau, Great Basin and Mojave Desert in southwestern Utah. Its distinctive cream, pink and red rock sandstone cliffs sprawl up to 2600' along the Zion Canyon carved out by generations of swelling and receding flows of the Virgin River. Trails lead to spectacular natural settings of mountains, buttes, mesas, monoliths, rivers, slot canyons and natural arches for its diverse wildlife to inhabit among its four life zones of desert, riparian, woodland and coniferous forests. ZNP was established by President Woodrow Wilson in 1909 and its rustic Zion Lodge was built in 1925.

POPULAR HIKES
Pea Ravine Trail, Archaeology Trail, The Watchman Trail, Lower Emerald Pool Trail, The Grotto Trail, Upper Emerald Pool Trail, Canyon Overlook Trail, Angels Landing, Kolob Canyons

NATIVE AMERICAN ROOTS
Small family groups of semi-nomadic Native American tribes roamed this area 8000 years ago. Later, permanent communities were settled here by the Anasazi/Virgin Basket makers and the Parowan Fremont peoples. Their yucca sandals, baskets and nets have been found that date as recently as c. 500.
