WINERY

Set among the hillside vineyards of Coloredo di Monte Albano, in the heart of Friuli, Mont'Albano is one of the most prestigious wineries in the Friuli Grave DOC zone. Since 1985, its founder, Mauro Braidot, has made producing organic wines both a mission and a way of life, seeing in this type of agriculture the key to express the winemaking identity of the region distinguished by respect for bio diversity and the wellbeing of the consumer.

ORGANIC AGRICULTURE

Identifying themselves with organic agriculture and seizing its commercial potential, which has already proven successful at the Colognola winery with some classic Veronese varieties, the Sartori family acquired Mont'Albano in the spring of 2008, and it is now one of Sartori di Verona's shining stars. "Organic" for Mont'Albano is not a just a word, but a way of life and a discipline. All the grapes produced from organic farming and used in the cellar are duly certified by the inspection agencies accredited by the Italian Ministry.
