

The Constitution: America's Sacred Trust Indenture – A Biblical Foundation for Principled Leadership

Welcome to the heart of my campaign: Principled Leadership rooted in the timeless truths of our founding documents. As a constitutionalist, I see the U.S. Constitution not as a dusty relic, but as a living trust indenture— a solemn agreement inspired by biblical principles that empowers We the People to build and protect the People's House.

The Biblical Blueprint of Our Founding

At its core, the Constitution echoes the wisdom of Scripture. Just as God's covenants with His people established order, justice, and liberty, our framers crafted a framework grounded in divine truths. Consider this profound parallel: The Bill of Rights – our first 10 amendments – mirrors the Ten Commandments, expressing eternal moral laws in the language of governance:

- Thou shalt have no other gods before Me → Freedom of religion (1st Amendment).
- Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image → Protection against compelled speech or idolatry (1st Amendment).
- Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain → Free speech, balanced with respect for sacred values (1st Amendment).
- Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy → Right to peaceful assembly and personal liberty (1st Amendment).
- Honor thy father and thy mother → Due process and family rights (5th Amendment).
- Thou shalt not kill → Right to life and self-defense (2nd Amendment).
- Thou shalt not commit adultery → Privacy and protections against unreasonable searches (4th Amendment).
- Thou shalt not steal → Property rights and just compensation (5th Amendment).
- Thou shalt not bear false witness → Fair trials and confrontation of witnesses (6th Amendment).
- Thou shalt not covet → Limits on government power to prevent envy-driven overreach (9th & 10th Amendments).

This isn't coincidence; it's divine design. Our Constitution is a trust indenture – a legal bond – that secures these principles for generations, ensuring government serves the people, not the other way around.

We the People: Grantors, Beneficiaries, and Guardians

Here's the punchline that drives my vision for Arizona's Legislative District 1: "We the People are the original grantors in jurisdiction."

Think of it like this:

- We the People are the Grantors: We created this trust through our revolutionary spirit and sacred compact. We granted authority to the government, not vice versa.
- We the People are the Beneficiaries: Every right, every freedom, every protection is for us – the families, farmers, veterans, and everyday heroes of Yavapai and Coconino Counties.
- Elected Officials are the Trustees: Our representatives are stewards, sworn to protect and defend the trust. They manage it faithfully, upholding the Constitution's biblical roots to deliver prosperity, justice, and resolve.

But trustees aren't kings – they're accountable. As both grantors and beneficiaries, We the People have every right to fire the trustees when treason has been displayed. Treason isn't just betrayal of country; it's any violation of this sacred trust – like eroding our borders, infringing on our rights, or prioritizing special interests over the people's will. In Arizona, where conservative values run deep, we won't tolerate it. We'll reclaim our authority through the ballot box, the courts, and vigilant citizenship.

Building the People's House: My Commitment to You

As your next representative in the Arizona House, I'll deliver focused conservative leadership straight to your door by honoring this trust. That means:

- Championing Principled Leadership to restore integrity in Phoenix.
- Pushing Smart Justice Reform that punishes wrongdoers while protecting the innocent, aligned with biblical justice.
- Advancing Health for All via MAHA principles, treating health as a God-given right, not a government handout.

- Fostering Prosperity by cutting red tape and securing resources like clean water for our rural communities.
- Strengthening American Resolve to defend our sovereignty and biblical heritage against all threats.

Together, let's rebuild the People's House – not as a distant dome in the Capitol, but as a fortress of freedom in every Arizona home. Join me, Matt Tucciarone, in this mission. Your voice is the foundation; your vote is the key. Let's fire up the trustees and deliver the leadership you deserve!
