I'm writing about incidents occurring in the Good Spirit community affecting residents and businesses in the region. The big conversations we're having at coffee row and with our fellow neighbors, as well as friends and families, is how badly the clowns working for the RM have been doing their jobs. Granted, the weather this year is exceptional, but this doesn't give the RM excuses to abuse, mistreat, neglect, and threaten the people of the area. Even a few tourists have commented about the matter as one in particular who works for an RM in Alberta tried to give one of the two men some advice how to fix the water level problem. In public, before a group of people, the RM blasted him, told him to shut up and mind his own business. He used far more colorful language than I choose to use here. If this is how your RMs are treating the people then you need to have a chat with them.

I don't live in the area myself, but I do go to Good Spirit often. I go to the golf course, the market, and the park. I have good friends who has the golf course as their backyard. I'm often joining the people at coffee row and the conversations these days is how arrogant the RM workers are. They're also blaming others instead of taking responsibility for their actions (or rather lack of).

The sooner this matter is dealt with the better. The people in the region are getting very angry. Many have already taken matters into their own hands since it's clear the RMs won't.
