Why is my child acting like this?

This time of year many parents are asking “what is going on with my child?”.

With independence, language and all the wonderful developmental learning we are seeing, it is not unusual to see a temper tantrum or two. These phases pass and our teachers are very creative and have the experience and knowledge to help the children move to the next developmental stage. Please ask the teachers or me if you have any questions... we have many resources and love to work together to help the progression in every area of development!

Math is Fun!

We are so proud of your/our children!

Learning through play everyone is learning about numbers! From learning to recite numbers, to counting, learning to identify numbers, Patterning learning, cardinality and sequencing! Wow !!! Teachers and parents you are doing a great job!!! Here is a fun website for you to enjoy with your child!!
