

“Ride Without A Destination”

By: Scott Chapman

DRAFT COPY

Version 6,4 ; 15 Nov 25, 1119 EST

CHAPTER 5 of ∞

For Perspective

I view words & individual characters as music notes. Quanta packets of frequency. I rearrange these music notes to find the 'in-tune symphony.' Walking 3D edits through wavy waters during a dynamic writing project. Life is a living document. Together, let's find the frequency of a blue-sky sonnet on this paradise planet.

--- 7 Days Later ---

10 Oct 2019

Quick update for your peepers. I added a few iron-on patches to my ADV moto jacket. If I have time to do this tiny task, then there's not much else left to do on my departure checklist. It's all coming together, just in order, just in time. I'll write all about it over the next 2-3 years in this journal. Updates soon. Way too busy to type, such is my life.

Why is American Flag backwards on my jacket? It's not. It's a 'right-shoulder-combat-flag.' What does that mean? Imagine this flag on a pole as it advances towards an enemy. Since the Birth of Jesus, stars symbolize the way forward. No matter what side of the flag you're standing on, the stars will always lead the charge. Shifting one's perspective is a key lesson.

Also, the last bit of moto kit arrived before my final layout. Thanks Touratech!

Selected Replies:

ADV Rider PittsDriver: “Having nowhere to be and all day to get there is one of the best feelings a motorcyclist can have. I've done a fair bit of solo adventure riding. A real-time ride report helps a solo rider feel less alone. The best things in life will come along when you least expect them; as long as you leave yourself open to new experiences & perspectives. Starting with no plan or destination is a great way to make that happen. I hope you find what you're looking for, but not till you're ready :)”

ADV Rider DMack_762: “I just found this thread... right on, brother! I look forward to following along.

I, too, am a combat vet. I served in several campaigns over 33 years. I look forward to retiring in the next 24 months. I also look forward to long rides with no destination. I'd love to sail the world! There's a huge support network out there. Just let us know if you need anything.”

ScottChapmanAuthor.com