

Dear

Tonight's the night! Santa's sleigh bells are ringing, and I've been called back to the North Pole. Before I zip away, I want to say thank you for a season filled with kindness, giggles, and cozy moments together.

Before you fall asleep:

- Leave a cookie (crumbs are elf-approved) and milk for Santa.
- Give a big hug to someone you love.
- Think of one kind thing you'll do tomorrow.

Even when I'm home at the North Pole, I'm still cheering for you. I'll report all the ways you help, share, and try your best. Keep your room (and your heart) tidy, and sprinkle kindness everywhere you go.

I'll be back next season with fresh sparkle and new hide-and-seek skills. Until then, believe big, help often, and let your light shine. Merry Christmas, Sleep well—wonder is on the way.

With jingle-joy,

Merry Christmas
