

Oops... We Need to Talk!

Hey there

Uh-oh... guess what I spotted on Santa's list tonight?

Your name was doing a little elf shuffle back and forth between Nice and Naughty—and let's just say the Naughty side was looking mighty cozy for a minute.

Maybe it was the sneaky snack raids, the epic toy tornado in the living room, or that super creative screen negotiation where “just one more minute” turned into five. (Impressive, by the way!)

But don't worry—Santa told me there's plenty of time to bounce right back to the Nice side.

All it takes is a few extra big smiles, some speedy clean-ups, and maybe sharing the last cookie with someone else (I'll even help hide the crumbs).

I'll be flying to the North Pole tonight with my daily update—so let's give Santa something sparkly to read tomorrow!

Your slightly worried (but still giggling) elf,

P.S. Rumor has it Santa gives bonus Nice Points for surprise hugs. Just sayin'...

