

I'm Back!

Yo

What's up, my almost-grown-up buddy?

It's me—your favorite North Pole spy, a.k.a. the Elf on the Shelf—back for another season of questionable poses and late-night snack raids.

Santa sent me to check in, but between you and me...

I mostly came back to see if you've finally cleaned that room.

(Seriously. I nearly tripped over a hoodie avalanche last year. OSHA would not approve.)

I know you're way too cool for bedtime stories now, but here's the deal: I'll keep an eye on your holiday spirit, you keep an eye on the cookie supply, and maybe we both "forget" to report a few late-night TikTok sessions to the Big Guy.

Remember, being on the Nice List isn't about being perfect—it's about showing kindness, helping out, and occasionally letting your parents have the TV remote.

Do that, and I'll make sure Santa keeps the good stuff headed your way.

Now, if you'll excuse me,

I'm off to hide somewhere just annoying enough to make you roll your eyes tomorrow morning.

Stay frosty,

P.S. If you spot me in a ridiculous pose, a selfie with the hashtag #ElfMadeMeDoIt earns you bonus Nice Points.

