SECTION

"Your latest issues sort of went off the deep end.
Did you just break up with someone?"

- Morton Thomas, Port Morris

Unfortunately for me, I accidentally dropped this issue
on the ground and it shattered all over the place.
Well, I didn't want all that work to go totally to waste, so please feel free to put pieces back together where you can and enjoy! Again, my bad on breaking it.

There are eight free-floating letters in this issue.
Can you reassemble them to form a well-known Manhattan road?

"I love the way your brain seems to take everything
apart and reassemble it in your own style of expression. You do realize how weird you are, right?"

- Cassidy Carlson, Tottenville

A Safe Haven for the Purely Eccentric
If you have to ask yourself
if you're eccentric, you're probably not.

ISSUE EIGHT

"ALL BROKEN UP"
by reader Rose Robbins from City Island

I'm all broken up. Not how you think.
I broke up with everything
My hopes, my dreams,
my most valuable things

My stresses, my messes,
I said goodbye to anger
Take it easy to any cancer

I don't want any of you around and without a doubt, I can honestly say I'm all broken up, and that's okay.

Is there any way I can contribute money to your therapy?
Anything to keep this paper going."
