I am a self-taught full-time artist from past 5 years. I share my studio between Davis, California and Mumbai, India.

During the global pandemic the reassuring continuity and cycle of nature became completely absorbing for me to watch and draw them growing up, crowded together, bloom and die, and being replaced with the new. Slowly I started looking at my backyard for inspiration.

My work has evolved over the years focusing on botanicals. I love to travel, and my series of artworks are a celebration of nature's beauty. Each of my pieces is a unique blend of botanical markings, signature patterns and a breathtaking array of bright hues. I paint on cotton and linen canvas mostly with oils, acrylic and graphite mainly. For small works I paint on handmade papers too.

My art is an invitation to explore, discover and connect with the beautiful world around us.
