Rotary Club of Zephyrhills Daybreak donates gift bags to residents of AdventHealth Care Center Zephyrhills

By STEVE LEE
News Reporter

Billed as Touching Lives Through Daybreak Rotary, residents of AdventHealth Care Center Zephyrhills (formerly Zephyr Haven Nursing and Rehab) received gift bags on Saturday. The gesture by the local organization came just in time before Christmas.

Due to safety precautions taken as a result of the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, presents, gift bags and holiday cards were given by some key Rotary members to the care center's personnel.

"The club was thinking that with Covid-19 there aren't a whole lot of things we can do," said Theresa Sommers, the club's president since June and a longtime Rotary member who came up with the idea. "With everyone shut in we wanted to brighten their spirits by giving them a card and a gift bag."

For members of that local Rotary club, distributing the gifts and cards before Christmas was important.

Last city council meeting of 2020

Starting off the last meeting of the year was a swearing-in ceremony for a ZPD officer

By ANDY WARRENER
News Reporter

The Zephyrhills Police Department grew by one member on Monday evening. Patrol officer Gabriella Slater took the oath and was sworn in by ZPD Chief Derek Brewer to start off the meeting. Slater's friends and family gathered in council chambers to witness the event. A handshake and a few snapshots later and council was hammering out the final details of business for 2020.

The five Consent Agenda items were bundled and passed unanimously and without comment, 5-0. They included approval of the last meeting's minutes and on Item 2.2, approved a plan to connect an eight-inch water main, which is currently at a dead end near the intersection of Phelps Road and Fort King. The measure was a task assignment for contractor Jones-Edmunds for survey, preliminary and final design as well as bidding on the project which would extend the line roughly 8,500 feet to the new intersection at Simmons Road and Fort King. The $133,920 project will be funded

Arts and crafts fair lures folks downtown

Your Turn A Board Game Café hosts inaugural event for newly formed Zephyrhills Arts Alliance

By STEVE LEE
News Reporter

The newly formed Zephyrhills Arts Alliance scheduled its inaugural event downtown on Saturday. The arts and crafts fair was held at Your Turn A Board Game, whose owners also helped form the new alliance this fall and plan to continue hosting arts and crafts events.

A married couple, Daniel Urdzik and Sarah Vesselov, organized the fair. It featured various works of art, an information table for the Zephyrhills Art Club, which was established in 1953, and Julie Moore, a school counselor at Zephyrhills High and new author of The Pet Soul Book. Nearly a dozen people gathered at a crafts table to make clay Christmas trees while others played board games.

"We put this stuff out there and try to get people involved while staying safe," Vesselov said of the couple's inaugural event for their new non-profit organization. "I want to support artists who don't know how by the utilities department, Water Division Infrastructure line item and by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (FDEP) State Revolving Fund (SRF).

Item 2.3 authorized purchase of administrative software for ZPD. The software by Benchmark Analytics consolidates community surveys and allows the training process to be streamlined and virtually paperless. The item requested a three-year contract with Benchmark Analytics comes in at $5,700 per year.

Item 2.4 asked for council approval to gain accreditation for ZPD to the Commission for Florida Law Enforcement.

Item 2.5 approved the purchase of ZPD vehicles. The bill for four patrol vehicles and one administrative vehicle runs a tab of $235,666.67. The vehicles are covered by Penny for Pasco funds and the Florida Sheriff's Association Cooperative Purchasing Program and come in $19,333.33 under budget.

In Business Items, the three ordinances undergoing their first readings were affiliated with zoning changes to parcels in the Skybird Properties Annexation near Sam Pasco Park and the airport. Item 3.1 wasn't so much a zoning change but Ordinance No. 1408-21 sought to include language to potential home buyers in the area that the homes are in close proximity to an airport. While Zephyrhills Airport is not heavy traffic, the volume is expected to increase once the runway extension is complete. The 18-acre parcel in question could host up to 180 homes.

Councilwoman Jodi Wilkeson made a motion in the affirmative with the caveat that potential residents be notified of the airport's proximity. The motion passed 5-0.

In Item 3.2, Ordinance No. 1409-21 was read aloud. This changed a zoning designation at a 17-acre site located south of Alston Avenue and west of the airport. It changed the current zoning at the parcel from R2 to R3.

Councilman Ken Burgess made the initial motion for approval and the item passed 5-0.

Item 3.3 and Ordinance No. 1410-21 was a zoning change at a roughly 18-acre parcel north of Tucker Road and west of the airport. This zoning change goes from AR1 to R3 and passed 5-0. Each of the items were designed either to allow for more homes at the site or in the case of item 3.3, to allow home at all as that zone changed from agricultural to residential.

In the City Manager's Report, William Poe Jr. staked out the state appropriation goals for the city in 2021. He outlined four of the city's top priorities: the 7th Street extension, sewer line extension north of town, paving and taxiways at the airport and the final phase of the Sarah Vande Berg Tennis & Wellness Center. Poe stated that city officials are working against a Feb. 2 deadline to submit proposals for state appropriations to help with the aforementioned projects.

Wilkeson inquired as to how many of the four projects are, "shovel ready" and Poe replied that all three except the sewer line would be so upon funding becoming available by summer of 2021.

In the City Attorney's Report, an additional zoning change was requested for an area near the Zephyr Commons Center where residential building is anticipated. The request would change the zoning from City C2 to City R4 and allow for a maximum of 240 units. Discussion at the dais revolved around compensating for increased traffic in the area but ultimately the measure passed 5-0.

In the Comments Section, local resident Randy Mills addressed council with concern about buffering and fencing around his property adjoining the Abbott Station Development.

Senior Planner Todd Vande Berg answered some of Mills' questions and invited him to the Tuesday planning commission meeting to absorb more details.

Zephyrhills Mayor Gene Whitfield, in his comments, praised outgoing Main Street Zephyrhills Director Gail Hamilton and thanked Chief Brewer for making the ZPD swear-ins a public event.

Poe commented that the next council meeting would not be until Jan. 11.

Vande Berg interjected and gave some updates from the tennis center - that a 300-person pickle ball tournament had just concluded, a 118-person Padel tournament was conducted and that the academy grows daily.

Wilkeson echoed Whitfield's praise for Hamilton.

Councilman Lance Smith brought up traffic issues and the need to stay in front of them. After a few more brief comments, council president Charlie Proctor banged the gavel and put an end to city council meetings in 2020.

The bags contained stuffed animals, little elves and Santa Claus', some candy and Christmas coloring pages.

"Daybreak Rotary wanted to let these people know that Rotary cares," said longtime member Manny Funes.

Few people at the assisted living and skilled nursing facility comprehend what that kind effort means to the residents more than certified nursing assistants Briana Hudgens and Penny Pridgeon. Both came out to meet the Rotary members and bring the gifts into the building.

"I know they're going to appreciate this a whole lot," Hudgens said. "Some of them will cry. I know I'll probably cry."

"All of this is so touching," said Pridgeon, who also is the facility's activities assistant. "We're trying to keep their morale up. We've got a strong staff, a strong family support group and we've got some amazing strong residents here."

Currently, she noted, there are more than 80 residents there. For now, they are somewhat isolated, limited to phone conversations or window visits.

"We keep them connecting," Pridgeon said, adding that there is a lot of one-on-one interaction as opposed to group activities. "We support each other. It's not just us supporting them."

The local club's holiday effort struck home for longtime member Chris Robin, whose late parents Paul and Margaret spent time at the facility bordering Zephyr Park. He said residents there "don't get a lot of visitors. Many of their families aren't able to come to see them. I think this is a little connection that Christmas is here."

Gifts for the elderly residents aside, Pridgeon, who along with Hudgens thanks the Rotary members, mentioned a topic beyond the holidays.

"Really what we want is your blessings, that (the coronavirus pandemic) ends and we can all be normal again," she said.

The charitable effort of the local Rotary was geared toward the elderly. At the other end of the spectrum, however, is a cause aimed at schoolchildren. The new literacy program, labeled as Storytime in the Park, includes reading and the distribution of books on the second Saturday of each month at Zephyr Park. Scheduled dates are October through March with the next one being Jan. 9 at 11 a.m.

That cause is among many taken on by the club over the past 30 years. Funes noted that the club has donated more than $150,000 to several different organizations.

Among them are several school-related projects, such as: $1,000 in scholarships to Zephyrhills High School students; Drive 4UR School; the 9-Mile War Challenge highlighting the annual high school football game between Zephyrhills and Pasco; Pasco-Hernando State (formerly Community) College and Saint Leo University.

Additional recipients of the club's generosity have been: Meals on Wheels, Samaritan Project and Sunrise of East Pasco; and the Pasco County Sheriff's Office K-9 Project.

GO FIGURE!

by Linda Thistle

-		÷	x
	+		+	7

to market themselves," Sarah said. "Our goal, ultimately, is to have an arts and crafts center."

Vesselov delved into the ceramic tree making. She enjoys art and has overseen some pottery classes at the local café.

"I'm an artist, but I stare at a computer all day," she said. "I want to do pottery."

At a table outside of the café, Zephyrhills resident Gary Metz, Moore's husband, greeted visitors and newcomers to the café by showing off his display of woodworking Christmas ornaments.

"I just thought it would be a good idea," he said of setting up a table in front of the new downtown business. "Plus, it draws people in. It's cool. I just live a couple of blocks down the street and I wanted to be a part of this."

Another local resident, Marlene Tillman, stopped by for a while on Saturday and came away impressed with the fair as well as the café.

"This is so different," she said. "Who's ever heard of a board game café? When it comes to arts and crafts, I like to see different things."

Among those different things on display at the fair was a 3-D printer that literally built a purple vase as people looked on. Owner Grant Posner said the printer can build anything that people can imagine and he liked the idea of a new shop being so accommodating.

"I love it; a small business helping other small businesses," he said.

Zephyrhills resident Sharon Cole echoed that sentiment, saying, "I just came out to support the local business and the coffee was great."

Most of the people in the café made Christmas trees. Rachel Fury welcomed the chance to teach the class, saying, "I just want people to come out and enjoy making something."

"It's a lot of fun. I learned how to do clay," Margaret Aconpora said.

"We had a great time," said Sarah Susie Noll, who brought her 5-year-old grandson Logan Johns. "It was really fun and it's something to do on a Saturday afternoon."

"This is fantastic. I love that it's five minutes from my house," added Cindy Domske, who took the class.

So did Katherine Trammell, who has worked with Vesselov and drove up from St. Petersburg: "The drive's worth it."

While social distancing was practiced and the owners limited the number of people in the café, Urdzik was hardly disappointed with the small turnout. In fact, unlike some businesses that saw drop-offs during the past year as a result of the coronavirus pandemic, he reasoned that opening up during the summer might not have been a bad idea.

"For us, everything's uphill," he said. "It can only get better."

Added Vesselov, "We want to do more in the new year."
