Pasco schools and Thomas Promise unite to feed local families

In the wake of school closures, the Thomas Promise Foundation is doubling up its efforts to help Pasco families get the help they need

By ANDY WARRENER

On March 17, Governor Ron DeSantis ordered the closure of all public schools in the State of Florida until April 15. Pasco County schools went on spring break the week of March 16. Now, schools in the county will be closed for at least three-and-a-half more weeks beyond the end of spring break. Standardized testing and end-of-year exams have already been cancelled, as have all school sporting events. It's uncertain if the school closures will extend beyond April 15. In the meantime, Pasco County Schools and the Thomas Promise Foundation are working hard to keep students fed during this time.

During the first week of cancelled school, the week that began on March 23, Pasco Schools is compiling a list of seven schools where students can pickup pre-packaged meals as part of the district's Free Grab & Go Meals Program from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Those schools are: Crews Lake Middle School, 15144 Shady Hills Rd., Spring Hill; Fivay High School, 12115 Chicago Ave., Hudson;

Gulf Middle School, 6419 Louisiana Ave., New Port Richey; New River Elementary School, 4710 River Glen Blvd., Wesley Chapel; Pasco High School, 36850 S.R. 52, Dade City; Sunray Elementary School, 4815 Sunray Dr., Holiday; and Zephyrhills High School, 6335 12th St., Zephyrhills.

Superintendent Kurt Browning joined school district staff at Zephyrhills High on March 23 to help package and distribute meals to students who drive up in their vehicles and receive the meal packages. New River Elementary reported over 300 meals given out Monday morning and afternoon.

Rushing into the breach is the Thomas Promise Foundation. Thomas Promise has been operating their Backpack Program for eight years and they were not about to let a little pandemic slow them down. The foundation has at least 1,600 needy children on their Backpack Program and they were able to take their operation to Zephyrhills High School on Monday to support those families.

"Every week, we're going to continue our Backpack Program," Thomas Promise Director Joe Simmons said. "If we get to a point where we can't (distribute at the schools), we'll open areas outside the schools. We are still open, still helping."

On Monday, Simmons and Thomas Promise managed to connect with 162 children that are in the Backpack Program at Zephyrhills High School. The way it's working is students come and pick-up their meals from the school and then are directed to the Thomas Promise station, where they pickup their backpack that includes: six meals (two breakfast, two lunch, two dinner), snacks with fresh

Silverado hosts yet another community golf fundraiser

Loving Hands Ministries make golf tournament a 25-year tradition with Silverado hosting the past six

By STEVE LEE
Sports Reporter

A longstanding tradition continued with Silverado hosting the 25th Annual Loving Ministries Golf Tournament. The benefit attracted 68 golfers, who helped raise funds for the non-profit organization based in Dade City.

Program director Marshall Walker selected Silverado to host the tournament five years ago and intends on continuing to schedule the annual event at that Zephyrhills location. The tourney previously had been held at Lake Jovita and Scotland Yards, both in Dade City, as well as the Tampa Bay Golf & Country Club in San Antonio.

"We've been doing it for a long time," said Sean Klotz, Silverado's general manager and golf professional. "It's just kind of continuing the legacy of being a community golf course in Zephyrhills."

"Sean is a great, great general manager and he works really hard," Walker said, adding that this year's tourney generated about $12,000 for the non-profit group.

Loving Hands Ministries was founded in 1984 and expanded to Dade City in 1992. It offers recovery and outreach programs helping men deal with addictions such as alcohol and substance abuse.

Video tour replaces walk-throughs at new tennis center

Despite coronavirus shutting down some businesses, construction continues on a $5 million project set to open in July

By STEVE LEE
Sports Reporter

Local dignitaries, community leaders, along with some city and county officials were set to take a walk-through of the new Sarah Vande Berg Tennis Center last weekend and this coming weekend. Due to onset of the coronavirus, however, walk-throughs were postponed to a later date that remained unspecified at press time.

In place of those scheduled events was a video tour last Thursday. Taking part was David Alvarez, marketing and social media director for the center; chief operating officer Pascal Collard, formerly the tennis director at Saddlebrook Resort in Wesley Chapel; Jennifer Cannizzo, formerly with the Wesley Chapel Chamber of Commerce and Collard's executive director; along with city planner Todd Vande Berg, whose late daughter the tennis center is named after.

Despite the postponed walk-throughs the $5 million project, which includes a wellness center and several other amenities besides tennis, remains on track to open by mid-summer. Land has been cleared for outdoor courts, a deep trench dug for the feature tennis court — with a 6-foot-3 statue of Sarah serving a tennis ball between that court and the main building — and the building is up with workers now focusing on the interior.

"We will be ready for the July 7 opening," said Collard, who led the video tour last week. "We're working every day to get the place ready. I want to show people the center and give them a taste of what it's going to look like."

Added Alvarez, who filmed the tour with a drone, "It's all

How to practice social distancing during a pandemic

As COVID-19 continued to spread across the world, it quickly became evident that the public would have to take drastic measures to slow the transmission. In addition to practicing generalized sanitation and good hygiene, people in some of the hardest-hit clusters were advised to take additional, more aggressive measures. Quarantines and travel restrictions were implemented, and the term “social distancing” became a buzzword.

Social distancing involves people keeping a physical distance from each other during disease outbreaks in order to slow transmission rates. Social distancing also is employed to lessen the impact of the disease on the medical care system, which quickly can become overwhelmed with a high number of cases presenting in a short period of time. In best-case scenarios, social distancing also may enable a few people to avoid infection until a vaccine is available.

So how can people socially distance themselves? Here are some of the recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the World Health Organization and other leading health groups.

- Opt out of group events. Steer clear of events, whether meetings, sports games, conferences, and other gatherings where large amounts of people congregate together.
- Stick to non-contact greetings. Avoid hugs, kisses and handshakes. Substitute a smile, a wave or a bumping of elbows, instead.
- Practice remote learning. Students who attend large schools, such as high schools, universities and colleges, can continue their studies via remote learning and virtual classes instead of gathering in classrooms.

- Work from home. Many companies are now equipped to allow employees to work from home all the time or a portion of the time. Businesses can encourage employees to stay home and utilize the internet to get their work done.
- Stagger commute times. Commuters in urban areas can consider staggering work hours so that they help curb crowds on public transportation.
- Alter shopping schedules. Try to visit stores in the early morning or late at night when they are less likely to be crowded.
- Make changes in worship practices. Celebrants may have to make modifications to the way they worship. The Catholic Diocese of Trenton, N.J., recently advised all diocesan churches to halt the distribution of the most precious blood (wine) from communal chalices; encouraged clergy and eucharistic ministers to sanitize their hands before distributing the eucharist; and parishioners to avoid contact during the sign of peace.

Common sense is key to stall disease transmission, and social distancing can be an important public health measure.

Ramblewood Village enjoys breakfast and ice cream social

By BARBARA TABOR

There were 26 Ramblewood Village residents that enjoyed breakfast at Golden Corral. The food was very good and the service was excellent.

There was an ice cream social at the clubhouse the following Sunday. Thank you to John G, Linda, Suzanne and Mike for hosting. The ice cream and all the toppings were wonderful.

The people who attended were greeted with little cards on each individual table saying "Thank you." It was a nice sized gathering and it was a nice afternoon with a prayer from Fran Boulay giving her thanks for the meal and all of the neighbors. After the prayer, everyone was allowed to get their salads and pizza. The salads were already made and placed in a separate dish. There was so much pizza and several different kinds. There were apple turnovers for dessert and those hit the spot. It was a lovely appreciation day and the people walked away contented. Thanks go out to Chuck and Shirley Carlson, Ron and Joyce Bell and Mim and Terry Gardner, who presented the lunch and they did a lovely job. They have been putting on an appreciation day lunch for several years and they must have it down to a science as everything went smoothly. After the lunch some people stayed to talk for a while and a few people got together to play some card games. There were two different types of games and one was more fun than the other, they were "Kings in the Corner" and "Pay Me." The community center is temporarily closed, this will be the final "Park News" until the activities resume.

Pasco Tax Collector lobby service temporarily suspended

Starting March 24, the lobby service at the Pasco County Tax Collector's Office will be suspended temporarily. Due to the severity and uncertainty of the corona virus outbreak, no in-person transactions will be conducted in the county's five offices at this time.

In lieu of lobby service the five offices will begin to provide certain transactions through drive-through services. These transactions are limited to automobile, boat and mobile home registration renewals, property tax payments and disabled parking permit applications. Dealers may drop off work and expect it to be ready within 48 hours. Please look for signs directing you to the drive through area of each office. Drive through services will be available Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m.

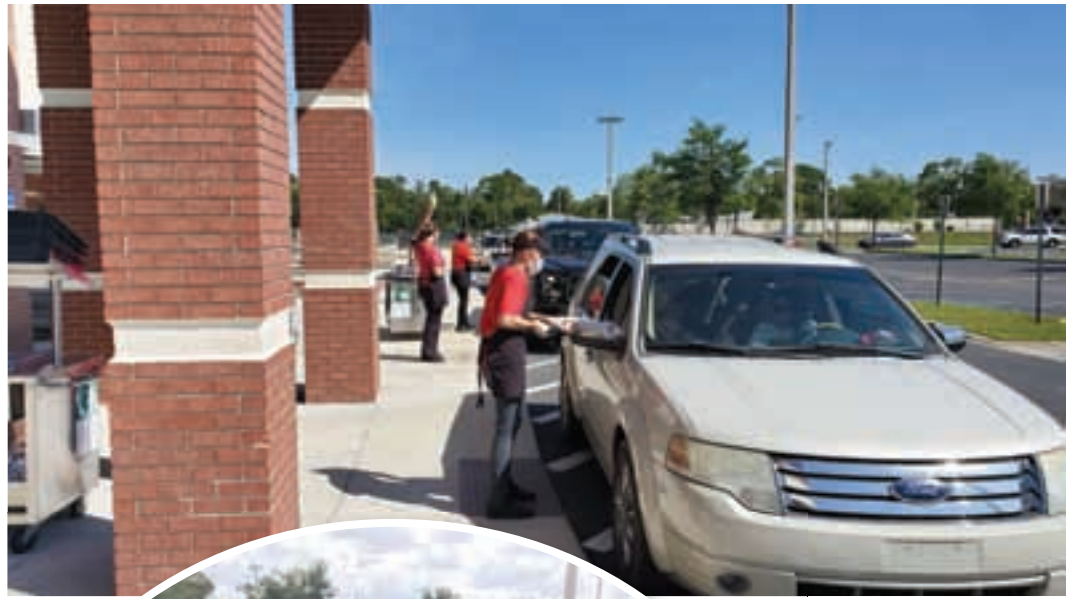

"Our first priority and concern is the health and safety of our customers and our staff," said Pasco County Tax Collector Mike Fasano. "We pride ourselves on providing the best level of customer service possible. We would be doing the public and our staff a disservice if we were to continue to keep our doors open during these difficult and potentially dangerous times. It is important to note that we are not stopping all services, only those transactions that require in-person contact."

The countywide tax collector's call center will continue to operate during the time of our lobby closure. The hours of operation are Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. Call (727) 847-8032, (813) 235-6076 or (352) 521-4338 for any assistance you may require.

Since most driver licenses and state-issued identification cards require an in-person transaction, Governor Ron DeSantis has issued an executive order which grants a 30 day extension of the due date for renewing those documents which may currently be set to expire on or before April 15. It is important to note that any stops or holds that are currently on a driver license will not be removed by this executive order.

Customers are encouraged to utilize mail and online services whenever possible. To renew automobile registrations please visit www.pascotaxes.com or www.gorenw.com. Correspondence, registration payments and any other bills that are sent by mail will continue to be processed when it is received.

In addition to contacting the call center, visit the website www.pascotaxes.com for updates to these and other actions that impact the services provided by the tax collector's office.

fruit when available. The original design of the Backpack Program is to cover schoolchildren from their free lunch at school on Friday to their free breakfast on Monday. Simmons and Thomas Promise are still distributing through the program. It's not too late to get into the program.

"We are allowing families to call us to reach out, we are not refusing anyone assistance," Simmons said. "We want to ensure that anyone who needs help is helped. The best thing to do is call first if you are in need of assistance."

There are some things you'll have to verify to get into the program, like having school-aged children. There is also a release form you'll have to fill out in-person but Simmons encourages interested parties to call the main Thomas Promise phone number at (813) 782-0000 to find out more about enrolling in the program.

Thomas Promise is currently working on setting up pickup locations at Pasco High School and New River Elementary and will continue to distribute backpacks, even if the schools themselves stop their Free Grab & Go Meals. Their plan is to open up distribute stations outside of the schools themselves if the schools are no longer able to distribute meals through their physical campuses.

about showing the progress from where the center is. To see it form is great. It should get a lot of people excited.”

The facility pays tribute to the late tennis standout from Zephyrhills who perished in a 2015 car crash. At the time, the 21-year-old was on the women’s team at University of South Carolina Upstate. Collard envisions the tennis center luring thousands — locally, nationally and even international players — to the east Pasco area.

The project will include 11 outdoor courts (eight clay, two hard-surface and one exhibition) for that sport, along with eight pickleball and four padel courts. Pickleball ranks among the fastest-growing sports in the nation while padel is another racquet sport played in close quarters and with walls that a ball can bounce off of.

“The nearest padel court is in Miami, so we’re competing with the big ones here,” Collard said.

There also will be a 30,000-square-foot indoor training facility with space for both more tennis courts and removable turf for other sports. A 7,400-square-foot indoor tennis center also will house a fitness and rehabilitation area, a restaurant and café, salt room, cryotherapy, pro shop and a kid’s club.

Additionally, Collard is in discussions with medical facilities in hopes of making the center “the first sanitized, eco-friendly sports facility” in the region.

“It started with tennis, but now tennis is only half of it,” Collard said, noting the increasing popularity of pickleball on a national level and padel on the international scene.

The project has been three years in the making and will be funded by grants, some city and county funds such as Penny for Pasco and park impact fees, as well as additional potential funding from the USTA. It sits on 10 acres of land, donated by local developer David Worronker.

“It’s exciting. It’s incredible,” said Vande Berg, who also is an avid tennis player and whose daughter Emily also played that sport at Zephyrhills High. “The journey began with my daughter passing and for the last three years we’ve really created a great partnership.”

Pasco Sheriff's Office Newsletter

Coronavirus reminders

With COVID-19 at the top of everyone's mind, the Pasco Sheriff's Office wants to ensure citizens have resources with up-to-date information, as well as some ways citizens can protect themselves and others.

For the latest information about COVID-19, please visit the U.S. Center for Disease Control's website at CDC.gov. If you suspect you have contracted COVID-19, call your doctor before visiting an office or testing site. They will provide you with details on testing information and will help mitigate your risk of spreading the virus.

Even if you do not have symptoms of COVID-19, others may still be at risk. Practicing social distancing by staying at least six feet away from others is a good way to lower the risk of spreading or contracting COVID-19. Washing your hands frequently with soap and water or using hand sanitizer consisting of at least 60 percent alcohol, as well as disinfecting surfaces frequently, are also great ways to reduce the risk to yourself and others.

Unfortunately, there are some criminals who will try to take advantage of those seeking information about COVID-19. Cybercriminals are using citizen concerns to prey on vulnerable citizens by launching phishing attacks or producing false ads. The best way to combat against these scams and get the most accurate information on the coronavirus is to visit credible websites, such as the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC.gov) and the World Health Organization. These sites will never request an email address to access information.

Scammers are also attempting to access citizen's information through phone calls. As always, be aware of unsolicited phone calls and emails offering unprompted information for your private information in return. If you are unfamiliar with the source, don't click on any links or attachments sent through emails. Additionally, be cautious when clicking on social media ads. Scammers create ads with false information on coronavirus cures and conspiracies.

Additionally, the Pasco Sheriff's Charities is now accepting monetary donations for two of Pasco County's most at-risk populations: children and the elderly. While schools are closed, students that rely on free or reduced meals may be left without an alternate source of food. Many seniors in our community also need the assistance of others for meals and medical expenses. We're doing our part to help our community members. If you'd like to help, visit PascoSheriffCharities.org/donation.

Together, we will get through this pandemic by listening to accurate information, safeguarding ourselves from those looking to take advantage of others and helping out the greater community.

Meanwhile, Katie and Bill were on their way over to Brooke’s party. Wyatt updated Flo on Sally’s prognosis. Sally attempted to keep Dr. Escobar in her place, reminding her about her oath. Donna tried to cover for Brooke being absent at her own celebration. Bridget returned to L.A. to surprise her mom. When Brooke finally arrived, she told Donna the whole story about Shauna, Quinn and the video. Shauna contemplated her decision to leave town over her love for Ridge. Quinn enjoyed the fall-out of her malicious deed toward Brooke. Wait to see: Flo puts Dr. Escobar on the hot seat.

Ben was released from prison and reunited with Ciara. Kayla filled in the gaps for Hope. Maggie said goodbye to her loved ones before going to prison. Nicole got answers about Mickey, and she later confided her suspicions to Abe. Hattie pressed Roman about his feelings for her. Eric expressed concern to Sarah about Xander’s role in Mickey’s life. Ben and Ciara enjoyed a day of romance. Stefano proposed to Marlena. Anna and Abigail grew suspicious of Chad’s behavior. Hattie made a surprising decision about her future. Marlena felt conflicted. Wait to see: Abigail makes a shocking discovery.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Sonny received some terrible news. Jordan misled Sam. Curtis was taken aback and later confronted Jordan. Brook Lynn retaliated. Willow was speculative. Jason tried to reason with Jordan. Spinelli went to work in helping Sam. Molly grew concerned. Sasha was stunned. Spinelli found himself in a precarious position. Carly confronted Nelle. Anna ran into Britt. Wait to See: Sonny receives an urgent call about Mike.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Nick agreed to lease Jill some office space even though she was vague about her reason for it. Victoria vented to Sharon about being trapped at home recovering from being stabbed, and she decided to go back to work early to boost her spirits. When Nikki arrived home, she realized that Victoria wasn’t there. At the Abbott mansion, Ashley and Traci opened up to each other about their mother’s decline. Later, when Jack came home, the three agreed that it was time to bring Dina back. Later, at Jabot, Jack announced that he would be spending less time at work in order to focus on Dina. After Jack left, Theo and Kyle had a power struggle during a meeting. Sharon wasn’t sure she would be well enough to go on Faith’s school trip to Chicago over the summer. Victoria quickly realized that she wasn’t physically ready to dive back into work. Wait to see: Amanda takes a big risk.

Red Apple School and Thomas Promise Foundation get check

Thomas Promise Foundation and Red Apple School receive a check from the Pasco County Tax Collector's Office employees.

The January Charities of the Month at the Pasco Tax Collector's Office received over $6,000

The Red Apple School and the Thomas Promise Foundation were the joint charities of the month at the Pasco Tax Collector's Office during January of this year.

The Red Apple School assists individuals with developmental disabilities, once they have completed high school, to become more independent. The Thomas Promise Foundation provides weekend food for children in need who attend Pasco County Schools.

"The Red Apple staff and students would like to thank all of the staff from the Pasco County Tax Collector's Office and each and every one of the Pasco County residents who were kind enough to contribute to this fundraiser," said Trudy Acevedo, executive director. "We are pleased to announce that the money received from this fundraiser will go towards supporting individuals with disabilities to receive a scholarship to attend The Red Apple School, where they will be offered a variety of meaningful activities. We appreciate the generosity and support."

"The Thomas Promise Foundation would like to thank the tax collector staff for all their hard work each month helping to support local charities, along with a special thank you as well to the Pasco County residents that donated to our program," said Dianna Thomas, founder and executive director. "Your generous donations allowed us to provide over 1300 meals to Pasco County children. It is your support that helps us to meet the nutritional needs of over 1600 students each and every week."

"It was an honor to play a small part in helping these two fine organizations raise needed funds for their respective programs," tax collector Mike Fasano remarked. "The Red Apple School continues the education needed by students who have completed their public education but can still benefit by the life skills offered by the school. The Thomas Promise Foundation provides food for children who have little to eat over the weekend. To see these two charities, united by a common desire to help those in need, take an active part in the campaign, and evenly split the funds received, made this campaign a special one indeed."

The Pasco County Tax Collector's Office supports local charitable organizations that assist residents of Pasco County throughout the entire year.

For more information about the charitable giving programs and other services at the Pasco County Tax Collector's Office, visit www.pas-cotaxes.com or call Greg Giordano, assistant tax collector for communications and special projects at (727) 847-8179.

Klotz appreciates Loving Hands Ministries, along with other non-profit groups, choosing Silverado to host their charitable golf outings. Those tournaments, he noted, go hand-in-hand with the philanthropic efforts put forth by the late owner Brantley Smith and kept intact by the current group at Silverado.

"It's definitely part of our culture to help non-profit organizations in east Pasco and to do whatever we can," Klotz said. "We like working with good people doing good things in the community."

Walker understands that concept, which also serves his organization well. Loving Hand Ministries operates facilities in Dade City and Palmetto and schedules a golf outing at The Preserve in Bradenton as well.

"It's important," Walker said of the golf fundraiser at Silverado. "We only have three fundraisers per location (each facility has fundraisers other than golf tournaments as well). I've been seeing in the past few years a connection with the (local) people and the community. It's people being able to see what we do."

As for the tournament, the foursome of Darrell Madigan, Tony Graham and Rod and Roddy Kight (father and son) shot a 52 to win it. The runners-up, who came in at a 55, were Buddy McConnell, Tristan Charter-McCool, along with Kathryn and Steve Walker.

Silverado hosts about 40 charitable events per year and will continue to do so under the new ownership group, led by A.J. Patel, that took over in January 2019.

"I think it comes from myself and Brantley just wanting to always give back to the community," Klotz said.

Another way in which Silverado will soon be able to serve the local community is the opening of a new event center, which initially was scheduled to open last Saturday.

"Everything's tentatively on hold," said Klotz, mentioning the coronavirus as part of the delay. "Hopefully it's going to serve the community well."

When it does open the event center will provide room for weddings, graduations and other large occasions. Klotz estimated that the facility will be able to seat 150-200 people. The 5,000-square-foot structure contains a lot of glass with a canvass roof. Including an outdoor terrace area that encompasses 8,000 feet. There are 1,000 chairs and 50 tables available.

"It's going to be very nice," Klotz said, adding that a partition in the middle would separate the large room to allow for two events taking place simultaneously.

While the ribbon-cutting appears to be delayed indefinitely, the Silverado course remains open to golfers with the restaurant serving to-go only.

"We're going to stay in it as long as we can, making provisions to stay as safe as possible," Klotz said.
