Opening Day 2021 for Zephyrhills Little League

Baseball and softball players begin this season with fanfare at the Samuel W. Pasco Recreation Complex

All opening days can be labeled as special for Little League teams, organizers and family members. None more so than last Saturday's symbolic start to the 2021 season for the local baseball and softball organization that calls the Samuel W. Pasco Recreation Complex home.

Alan Knight, a city councilman and former Zephyrhills High football coach who has had his children and grandchildren play in the league, was on hand to throw out the first pitch. Another significant part of the local opening day was a parade of teams and their coaches marching from one field to another through crowds of family and other fans.

Adam Wilkes, the league's president who at times has also coached and served as an umpire, is part of three generations of Zephyrhills Little Leaguers. He noted that it was the first parade in his seven years serving as a board member and addressed the opening day crowd on the contributions from volunteers.

"Everybody out here is a volunteer," Wilkes said. "They give their time for your kids and you can see how good our fields look. They haven't looked this good since we've (the current board) been out here."

League secretary Jamie Seekins, who also is the coordinator for uniforms and fundraisers, actually shared the idea for a parade with Wilkes and other board members.

"I saw another league do it, so I said let's do it," she recalled. "It's awesome. I love their enthusiasm. They're so adorable and they're ready to play."

Among the parents rooting on the young players as they paraded through the crowd was Courtney Wilsey, whose sons Gaige, 8, and 11-year-old Brayden, play for the Red Sox and Braves in Minor Baseball, respectively.

"It was adorable," said Wilsey, who years ago played softball in the local league.

Late-game flurry finds Zephyrhills faltering in 8-6 loss

A scoreless four innings gave way to 14 runs scored over three innings in a near comeback by the Bulldogs

By ANDY WARRENER
Sports Reporter

It was an east-side showdown as the Wiregrass Ranch Bulls settled in at Bulldog Stadium in what would develop, at least initially, as a pitchers' duel. Zephyrhills starter Mark Santiago faced off against Wiregrass Ranch's Cannon Anthony.

Both squads were getting runners aboard but they were stranding them. The Bulls advanced runners to second and third with two down in the top second, only for a strikeout to hang them out to dry. The Bulldogs got Mark Santiago aboard with a walk but a ground out left him at first base. The Bulls put a man on in the top second - stranded him. The Bulldogs were issued three walks in the bottom second but a caught stolen base runner and a pair of strikeouts left two runners out on the base pads.

The first hit of the game came at the bat of Mark Santiago, a double to left, but a strike out left him at second. Wiregrass Ranch answered with their first hit of the game, a single by Joe Benigno, and he made it to third on an error but a strike out left him there. The Bulls finally broke through in the top fifth with some pressure on the bases that would eventually lead to a trio of errors.

Down 1-0, the Bulldogs went 1-2-3 in the bottom fifth. Then the wheels came off. Wiregrass Ranch's Andres Prohaska led off with a single and then stole second and third. Benigno walked, stole second and

ZAL expands to 7-on-7 football for this spring

Longtime youth football and cheerleading organization drops basketball and track in favor of a different football format

By STEVE LEE
Sports Reporter

Long known as a youth football and cheerleading organization, the Zephyrhills Athletic League expanded to basketball and track and field in recent years. However, that has changed.

Uncertain about restrictions for indoor activities, as a result of the coronavirus pandemic, league officials decided to drop basketball for this spring in exchange for taking a shot at the unorthodox 7-on-7 format. There will not be a track season either.

"We couldn't do basketball and we couldn't do track," said league president Damien Pickett, who also coaches. "I've got to keep them busy."

The 7-on-7 format eliminates linemen and emphasized passing skills. Quarterbacks and receivers work on their combinations and patterns while defensive backs focus on their pass coverage abilities. Pickett figures the extra work on the passing game will benefit the local players and help them get up to par in the passing game.

"We need it," he said, noting that during some of the previous tackle football games opposing defenses "load up the box on me. I've got to be able to throw it."

"We decided to try something new,"

added longtime mighty mites coach Mike Johnson. "It's all passing, so it gets the kids used to getting the ball in their hands, running routes and catching balls."

A better passing game could help the Bulldawgs, especially in the postseason. The Zephyrhills mighty mites made it to the Mid-Florida Football and Cheerleading Conference Final last season but did not come home with a championship. The pee wees and junior varsity teams also went far, but lost in the conference finals. The last Super Bowl championship team came in 2014 when the mighty mites won it all.

Boys and girls are gearing up for 7-on-7 competition with weeknight sessions that began last week at Charles B. Krusen Memorial Field. Four age groups will begin league play April 17 in Davenport. The youngest group, ages 5-7, will play flag football. That leaves three age groups — 10U, 12U and 14U — for 7-on-7, which requires only a touch to stop play.

At a recent practice, Pickett worked with the young players on their pass-catching skills by tossing them tennis balls. The emphasis was on catching with their hands and not relying on taking a ball into their bodies.

"You've got to catch the ball with your hands," he said, purposefully making the boys reach to their left or right, as well as up high on various tosses.

"All balls aren't going to be perfect," Pickett said. "You catch a football exactly the way you catch a tennis ball. That's why I work out with (tennis balls). We're trying to get better. We're working."

D. J. Pickett, Damian's son who was the most valuable player on that 2014 Super Bowl championship team, has come out to practices in a show of support.

"I feel like it can help during (next fall's regular football) season," said Pickett, who later was a standout at Stewart Middle but will play for Carrollwood Day School next fall. "They learn coverages on defense and what it takes to run routes."

Javin Johnson, a 2019 Zephyrhills High graduate who once played football in the ZAL, said he was all for the new format as he watched his 4-year-old nephew, Walter Bouyne, at a recent practice.

"When I played here we didn't do it," said Johnson, who will help coach the flag football team this spring. "I think it's good, so the kids can grow more and they don't have to worry about getting hit. I know for my players it's going to be good."

Left: Former ZAL players, some of whom help coach in the league, line up in a 7-on-7 scrimmage to demonstrate the new format.

then reached third on an overthrow, also allowing Prohaska to score. An overthrow on a Wiregrass Ranch bunt scored Benigno.

Head coach Rusty Guynn tapped reliever Caden Negron after Bryan Santiago faced just four batters. Maddox McDougall summarily spanked a double to center, scoring two more runs. A second passed ball let the fifth run stack up and the Bulldogs were facing a 6-0 deficit heading into the bottom of the sixth.

The Bulldogs bounced back. A quartet of walks issued by outgoing starter Anthony (1) and reliever Maddox McDougall (3) let a run in and brought Chase Gilligan into the game. Two runs scored off an infield single from Aiden Thore. Jaxon Rivera earned a walk that forced another run in. Gilligan gave way to Chris Lebron and Micah Berrian knocked a single to left that tied the game at 6-6.

The Bulls answered. With two outs and a man on second, Yavier Bonilla-Rios hit the go-ahead RBI single that put the Bulls in front for good. Maddox McDougall would add one more to the lead with an RBI single. Down by two, the Bulldogs managed to get runners on first and third with one out but a strikeout and a groundout left them there.

"This is a game that we win in the past," Guynn said. "It's these little things that keep happening over and over. If we catch two fly balls, we're still playing. You can only use your youth as an excuse so much. We're not paying attention to what's going on. We don't bunt well, we get in spots with our pitcher and we have to be helping him out."

Mark Santiago went four full innings, striking out eight and walking just one. He also didn't make an out as a hitter, taking three walks and a double off the Bulls' pitchers. No Bulldog hitter had more than one hit. Berrian's big hit in the sixth opened things up for the Bulldogs but they faltered in the seventh.

"The guys work hard in practice but when they get out here, they're not concentrated on it," Guynn said. "They don't know how to win, yet. They don't know how to come back."

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

John Travolta in "Grease"

HOLLYWOOD -- ABC has given notice to the Oscars to do a better job with the upcoming Academy Awards on Sunday, April 25, because the Golden Globes were a ratings disaster (falling to 6.9 million viewers from 18.3 million last year). The Globes are known for being the biggest party of the year, with the superstars on a glittering red carpet, but a big-party awards show without a big party is just another awards show. Since fewer people have seen movies because of COVID and have been watching them on TV screens when they do, the nominated films may not impress movie fans much. Tina Fey and Amy Poehler were funny hosts but weren't enough, as we watch lackluster presenters and celebrities accepting awards in their pajamas (yes, I mean you, Jody Foster). It just isn't glamorous. Good luck, Oscar!

George Clooney and Julia Roberts are reuniting later this year for "Ticket to Paradise," a romantic comedy. Their pairings in "Ocean's 11"/"Ocean's 12" and "Money Monster" collectively netted more than $906 million. They play a divorced couple who travel to Bali to try to stop their daughter from making the same mistake they think they did 25 years earlier. Despite what tabloids have tried to promote, George and Julia are not romantically involved, even though their chemistry is so believable many think they are. It's called acting, folks!

Director/writer Adam McKay and Netflix have rounded up a big cast for their upcoming film "Don't Look Up," an American political satire/disaster comedy that stars Leonardo DiCaprio and Jennifer Lawrence as two low-level astronomers trying to warn mankind about an asteroid that will destroy Earth. They are supported by: Chris Evans, Cate Blanchett, Timothee Chalamet, Meryl Streep, Gina Gershon, Jonah Hill, Ron Perlman, Mark Rylance, Matthew Perry, Michael Chiklis, Tyler Perry and Ariana Grande. Sounds epic!

Thought it was weird hearing about a movement to ban the hit musical "Grease" (1978), starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, "because it's sexist, homophobic and slut shaming," which is ridiculous because that's the way things were in 1959. Should we whitewash everything we don't like today because we've stretched and grown? The Library of Congress thought enough of "Grease" to select it for preservation in the National Film Registry last year.

Then there's late children's author Dr. Seuss, who Forbes Magazine says doubled his estate's income last year to an estimated $33 million, making him the second-highest-paid dead celebrity behind Michael Jackson. His publishing catalog dropped six of his children's books -- "And to Think That I Saw It on Mulberry Street," "If I Ran the Zoo," "McElli-got's Pool," "On Beyond Zebra!," "Scrambled Eggs Supper!" and "The Cat's Quizz-er" -- because, after being reviewed by consulting educators, they were found to "portray people in hurtful ways amid accusations of racist imagery." What's next, should we ban "The Cat in the Hat," because nobody wears stovepipe hats anymore? Yikes!

As in virtually all youth leagues, participation extends down the line from one generation to the next. Darryl Oney, the league's equipment manager who coaches the Cubs in major baseball, had been coaching in Zephyrhills since 2004.

"I liked it," he said of the parade. "I think the kids probably had a good time doing it. It was fun."

As for why he keeps coming back to be a part of the league, Oney offered a simple response: "The love of the game. If you get one kid telling you you've done a good job, then you know you did your job and it's worth it."

As for Knight tossing out the first pitch, he told the parents and volunteers, "You are the real heroes out here. And to all the players, coach Knight is very proud of you. Never let us lose this hometown atmosphere."

Knight then tossed the first pitch to catcher Kian Whyte of the major baseball Red Sox.

"I'm catching for the majors. It's kind of cool to catch the first pitch," he said.

Julius Mericle of the minor baseball Braves, was also on hand and stood next to Whyte.

"I like being in the picture book," he said.

Having missed last season, which was cancelled due to restrictions stemming from the coronavirus pandemic, Wilkes listed more than 200 ballplayers on this year's teams.

Coaching a minor softball team on opening day, Steve Wright noted that opening day "is always special for the kids. It's good for the community. We need more community involvement."

Aside from league play taking place on weekday nights and on Saturdays, the local league will once again host a Home Run Derby. That will take place on April 24 with baseball and softball players, ages 9-12, eligible.
