

Praise for HIDING:

"Reminiscent of The Catcher in the Rye's Holden Caulfield, the teen is an unreliable narrator whose thoughts often drift back to previous events of sexual awakening, a friend's false identity, and his own feelings of not fitting in. Readers will often wonder if he is unwell—or the only voice of reason. A taut thriller for thinkers who enjoy adventures of the mind."

—Kirkus Reviews

"This tense tale is a haunting meditation on self-acceptance and self-realization, and love found and lost."

—Publishers Weekly

"The direct address and questioning ruminations of this twenty-first century Holden Caulfield cover similar ground as those of his literary ancestor as he tries to figure out how relationships work and why they fail."

— Bulletin for the Center of Children's Books, Johns Hopkins University Press

"Twists in the story line will keep readers engaged."

—School Library Journal

"Turner draws out his character using a conversational tone, as if the reader and the main character are sitting out back having tea. It is nail-biting as he encounters the brother, the family dog, and more. Just when it seems like it's going to be a better-than-usual mystery, Turner adds a detail without apology that completely throws the reader into a tailspin."

— Manhattan Book Review

"A slow, measured, surprising revelation of the power of love, this book is a treasure worth the wait for the final unveiling." — Karen Dunnagan, Spalding University, Assembly on Literature for Adolescents of the National Council of Teachers of English
