Time for some FTF (failure to fire) and FTE (failure to eject) drills.

Here's where your dummy rounds get used. Load a couple of mags with about 5 or 6 rounds. Randomly mix in a dummy round. Now start shooting. When your gun goes "click" instead of "bang", slap the bottom of the mag to be sure it is seated properly, rack the slide, and try again.

Here's what could be the problem. First, if the mag was not seated properly, a new round didn't enter the chamber. If a round didn't fire due to a bad primer, you have removed it and replaced it with a good round. The failure to fire could have been caused by a light primer strike. Periodically check your expended casings and look at the primer strikes. They should be nice and deep. If you are getting a lot of light strikes, it is the gun and not the ammo. Debris in the firing pin channel will do this. If the gun is older, it could be a weak hammer or striker spring. Also, excessive headspace will do this.

The failure could also be that there was no round in the chamber, caused by the slide not going far enough to the rear to pick up the next round. This could be caused by lack of lubrication/ dirt, one of your fingers dragging on the slide (improper grip), or limpwristing. The gun must be held firmly so the slide receives all of the recoil, and the frame is rigid.

Failure to eject is handled differently. You usually wind up with a “stovepipe”, that is an empty case stuck in the ejection port. You can duplicate this drill by placing an empty round in the gun with it sticking out, looking like a stovepipe. Now, you can’t just rack the slide, because the empty case will prevent the slide from closing. The drill to clear it goes like this- Drop the magazine and hold it between your 4th and little finger of your shooting hand. Rack the slide several times to clear the jamb. Slam the magazine back in, rack, and shoot.

Again, the causes are similar to the FTF we discussed before. It could be the shooter, limpwristing. Or it could be the gun- dirty and/ or dry. It could also be a problem with the extractor or ejector.

Also, some guns just won’t work well with some brands of ammo. If you have a consistent problem, try other ammo and/ or have someone else try the gun to see if it is something you might be doing.

Both of these drills are important to build muscle memory so if it happens, you won’t hesitate to fix the situation. You can also practice this at home using dummy rounds.

Next month we will talk about moving while shooting.

PLEASE NOTE- IF YOU HAVE AN OLD FIREARM THAT YOU NO LONGER USE, WE CAN SELL IT FOR YOU ON CONSIGNMENT. WE ALSO CONSIDER TRADES. WE ALSO BUY ESTATES.

For lots of additional guns, visit Gallery of Guns website. We are a Gold Dealer with them, and can have any handguns here in two days, long guns are three days. You also get their Lifetime Replacement Warranty (for instance, Glock has only a 1 yr. warranty). Check out the details online.

We are available for gun transfers. A lot of websites on the internet already have our FFL on file. If you need a gun shipped in from a dealer that does not have our information, just give us their email or FAX and we will send them a copy of our FFL.

We also will package and ship your firearms.

INTRODUCTION TO PERSONAL AND HOME DEFENSE FIREARMS CLASS

This class is conducted here at our store. Whether you have experience with firearms, or are just considering buying one for protection, this class will give you the basics that will help you make an informed decision. You will receive hands-on training with different types of firearms (handguns and shotguns), using lasers and dummy rounds instead of live ammo. The different types of holsters will be covered. Safety rules will be stressed, Instruction covering loading and unloading, proper grip, proper sight picture will be part of the training. The class will take about 2 hrs, and you will get a manual and a personal pepper spray at the end of the class. We also discuss current concealed carry laws and PA state Castle Doctrine and Stand Your Ground laws. We stress layers of protection, with the firearm used as a last resort.

The cost is $45.00 per person. Class times are at 6:30 PM during the week, and Saturday at 4:30 PM. Call for reservations.
