Pastor's Notes

"The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest."

In today's Gospel, we are reminded of the mission that Jesus gave the early disciples and apostles. That same mission was also given to us when received the Sacrament of Baptism.

Whether as clergy, religious or lay people, every day, all of us are called to share and proclaim the Good News to those we meet and interact with.

The question now is, Are we confident enough to profess our faith and share Jesus to the people around us?

We are in a time when sharing information and communication has become so fast and easy. Yet, many are still struggling to find Christ in their lives. Many still feel lost, unseen, unloved.

For those of us who have experienced the peace and love of Christ, have we done our best in fulfilling our mission to share this gift?

By the time you are reading this, I am already in the Philippines spending time my mother who will be celebrating her birthday soon. While I am away, please welcome our guest priests who generously gave their time to say mass and hear confessions here at St. Anne's.

While I'm away, you can still reach me via email. Be good and stay healthy. See you soon.

Fr. Robert
