Headline: Scholar Athletes Leadership Academy (SALA) announces strategic partnership with Eric Spross (DPS Basketball)

SALA TO LAUNCH MIDDLE SCHOOL BASKETBALL ACADEMY IN PITMAN, NEW JERSEY LOCATION

PITMAN, NJ, January 9, 2020 / PRN- Scholar Athletes Leadership Academy (SALA) announces strategic partnership with Eric Spross (DPS Basketball Programs) in adding the first middle school (5th – 8th Grades) basketball academy in the northeastern states. SALA is a dynamic private educational institution that inspires, educates and empowers scholar-athletes to strive for excellence in their academic, leadership and athletic pursuits. The academy operates two school-sites in Pitman, NJ (SALA South) and Bridgewater, NJ (SALA Central). SALA welcomes both male and female scholar-athletes.

SALA's educational ethos is one of self-directed learning, affording students the opportunity to work at their own pace while enjoying high-level training sessions to accelerate development. SALA's blended program of study infuses and balances traditional teacher-led delivery with access to the American High School (AHS) fully-accredited online educational platform (also, NCAA certified and approved (eligibility center #102288), resulting in a personalized work-flow that speeds up or slows down according to academic attainment. SALA's responsive curriculum allows students to customize the pacing and delivery of content according to their own unique learning style. The precision, purpose and developmental acceleration that this provides for aspiring athletes uniquely prepares them for a best-fit high school, college or professional career. Our leadership academy is club-neutral, encouraging all scholar-athletes to continue representing their club with pride. Our current scholar-athletes love the outlet and benefits of attending a fully-accredited, innovative school for talented young people who are seeking more than a traditional educational pathway.
