

MOLD DISCLOSURE

There has been a great deal of publicity regarding the existence of toxic and non-toxic Mold in homes, apartments and commercial buildings. Current information indicates that the existence of toxic and non-toxic types of mold in homes and commercial buildings may cause severe problems for certain individuals.

Not all molds are detectable by a visual inspection by a Realtor or even a professional Whole House Inspector. It is also possible that the property could have a hidden mold problem that the seller is not aware of.

The only way to provide any reasonable assurance that the property does not have Mold or other health hazard problem is to retain the services of an environmental expert who will conduct specific tests. Normally these tests will contain an interior and exterior examination of airborne spores and a carpet test, but other procedures may be necessary. Any visible mold should be professionally evaluated.

Brokers encourage buyers to consider having specific mold tests performed by an environmental professional as either a separate test or an add-on to their whole house inspection. This is especially necessary if any of the inspection reports or disclosure documents indicate that there is evidence of past or present moisture, standing water, or water intrusion at the property since most mold thrives on moisture.

All inspections, including those to detect mold, should be completed within the inspection period established in the purchase contract, any waiver or failure on the part of a buyer to complete and obtain all appropriate tests, including those for mold, is against the advice of the Broker.

Broker has not and cannot verify whether or not there is any health hazard at the Property.
