Family Tribute Page

Kathleen raised her daughters to be independent, respectful, and loving with one another.

She guided her sons to be rounded partners and husbands, caring not just financially but practically through cooking, washing, ironing, and sharing household chores.

She was deeply inspirational in the upbringing of her own grandchildren — and also the children and grandchildren of her extended family and close friends.

Her influence reached across generations, instilling values of kindness, respect, and love wherever her presence was felt.
