What is playball?

Playball is an educational sport and movement program which aims to teach not only the physical skills, but also life skills, in a positive educational environment. The progressive curriculum was designed by a panel of experts consisting of teachers, occupational therapists, child psychologists and sport professionals and is continuously being updated and expanded.

*The highly trained coaching staff conducts 30 minute classes once per week at select educational facilities. Two to nine-year-olds are taught age appropriate lessons based on six ball sports including baseball, basketball, tennis, hockey, soccer and volleyball.

Playball was started almost 30 years ago and is currently being taught to over 300,000 children per week in 13 countries worldwide. By using sport as a means, Playball provides a sound base from which to develop every aspect of the child's life- physical, emotional, social and cognitive.
