Workshop Title: Addressing Trauma of all Ages Using Sand-Based and Expressive Play Therapy Approaches

Presenter Information

Marshall Lyles, LPC-S, LMFT-S, RPT-S, lives in the Austin, Texas, area and has over 20 years of practice in family and play therapy. Drawing on lessons learned from working with attachment trauma in a variety of mental health settings, Marshall regularly teaches on trauma, expressive therapies, and attachment-informed family work around the globe. Marshall has published in professional journals and magazines in addition to contributing to the books Counseling Families: Play-Based Treatment and EMDR with Children in the Play Therapy Room: An Integrated Approach. Marshall has also co-authored a book titled Advanced Sandtray Therapy.

Workshop Description

The brain and body are equipped with incredible defense mechanisms designed for protection against traumatic experiences. Although critical for survival, the long-term and tragic impact of untreated traumatic stress is often disintegration of memories as well as deep wounds in the core self. Play-based trauma theories present a case for understanding that traumatically held memories, especially those involving caregivers, need to be handled with certain care for clients of all ages. Play and expressive therapies, at their core, offer natural opportunities for such trauma-sensitive treatment planning through a welcoming of right brain to left brain contact. Attention to material selection and expressive techniques can be used to enhance trauma-informed and relationally-sensitive concepts. This workshop will address these ideas while giving participants ample time for experiential practice with layering in play therapy and expressive arts into a multimodal sandtray-based approach. Due to the content and experiential nature of these activities, strong emotions might surface for some participants.

APT Content Areas

The 12 CEs for this workshop will cover the following APT content areas: Theory (2 hours), Skills and Methods (5 hours), and Special Topics (5 hours).

Learning Objectives

After the workshop, participants will be able to:

1. Describe the two branches of the autonomic nervous system and how they typically manifest during expressive play therapy.
2. List three parts of trauma clients' inner communities that often present in expressive play therapeutic work.
3. Describe trauma-informed components of multimodal play therapy
4. List at least three ways to establish safety in the therapeutic relationship using expressive play therapy.
5. Identify three expressive play therapy techniques that communicate safety to inner communities.
6. Identify necessary play therapy and sandtray protocol adaptations for adult work.
7. Describe how dissociation may present in play therapy.
8. Describe the two aspects of self that are present in clients' trauma worlds during sand-based play therapy.
9. Identify six trauma-informed considerations for processing clients' sandtray worlds during play therapy sessions.
10. Describe three methods for integrating expressive arts play therapy interventions with sandtray.
11. Create trauma-informed treatment plans for expressive play therapy.
12. Explain person of the play therapist themes relevant to maintaining deep trauma work.

Required Materials, Participation, and Activities

GAPT will provide each participant with the following workshop supplies: paper plate as the sandtray, sand, paper for writing/journaling, construction paper, coloring instruments (e.g., crayons, markers, colored pencils), and some art supplies (e.g., glue, scissors). Each participant needs to bring their own symbols/miniatures (between 10 or more) to complete sand tray activities. Participants are also encouraged to bring additional art supplies and expressive materials if desired.

Who Should Attend

This conference is intended for play therapy, mental health, school counseling, marriage and family, social work, rehabilitation counseling, alcohol and drug abuse, psychiatric, psychology, pastoral care, nursing, art therapy, drama therapy, and child life specialist professionals and students. There is no prerequisite for this conference other than being a mental health professional with an advanced degree in a mental health-related field or a student working on such a degree.

Illness Policy and Liability Waiver

GAPT's priority is the health and safety of our event participants, staff, and exhibitors. Our goal is to hold a safe event, recognizing it is not possible to remove all risks, in particular concerning COVID. GAPT will put required measures in place to provide a safe environment for its event attendees as necessary. Policies for each event will be set according to CDC and public health recommendations, federal, state, and local regulations applicable at the time of the event, and what GAPT deems necessary to manage the risk for its event attendees. GAPT may change, update, or add to these requirements at any time as it deems prudent to best protect the health and safety of attendees and others, and attendees must comply with relevant policies and requirements as communicated by GAPT. We all need to do our part in minimizing the spread of illnesses so that we have a safe and wonderful learning environment!

Safety protocols for in-person attendance: Due to the ongoing environmental challenges with illnesses and the pandemic, GAPT cannot be held liability for COVID or other illness cases arising because of event attendance and currently requires all attendees at GAPT in-person meetings and events to:

- Acknowledge that travel and gathering involves risk of sickness, including sickness from COVID
- Agree to hold harmless GAPT and its affiliates, partners, employees and agents from and against claims, liabilities, ad expenses arising from injury, sickness or death from the contraction or spread of COVID or other communicable disease due to travel to or attendance at an event hosted by GAPT
- Take precautions and use common sense actions to reduce the risk of COVID and other illness transmission via choosing some or all of the following: engage in frequent hand washing/sanitizing, social distance, wear a mask in public areas when not consuming food or beverage, minimize face touching (especially since we will be playing in the sand!), and/or avoid risky/overcrowded environments during the tenure of the conference
- Behave responsibly by not attending any GAPT events if feeling ill or if there was recent exposure to COVID or another communicable disease.
- Affirm that you will only attend the event if you have tested negative for COVID on the day that you arrive.
- If exposed to COVID or another contagious illness or if experiencing illness systems before or during the event, you agree to leave the event area and seek the appropriate medical attention, including a COVID test. You will immediately inform GAPT event staff should a COVID test be positive during the event or within 14 days following the event by emailing info@gapt.org.

GAPT will not be providing testing on site. Temperatures may be taken at the door and compliance is required if so. Failure to comply with all safety protocols and the prevention requirements as listed above or related directions from GAPT representatives on-site may result in the loss of the right to attend or participate in GAPT events, including forfeiting any registration fees paid.

Exhibitors

If you are interested in being a sponsor, table vendor, or donator for the Georgia Association for Play Therapy's annual conference, please complete the Exhibitor Agreement and make payment.

Thanks for reading this important GAPT Conference information.

We look forward to meeting you at the GAPT annual conference!
