

@buildingrocketsband

/BuildingRocketsBand

@buildingrocketsband

BIOGRAPHY

Building Rockets is rooted deep in Appalachia. Members include Emily Jamison (Greenup, Kentucky), MacLean James (Ironton, Ohio), JD Thomas (Ironton, Ohio), and Jeremy Roberts (Huntington, West Virginia). From backgrounds in rock, Americana, classical, bluegrass, big band, indie, and country the musicians of Building Rockets each bring their own unique flavor. Telling their stories of family, love, life, and loss through edgy, genre-crossing musicality. Influenced by their country roots, rock rebellion, the blues, and everything in between every song brings something different.

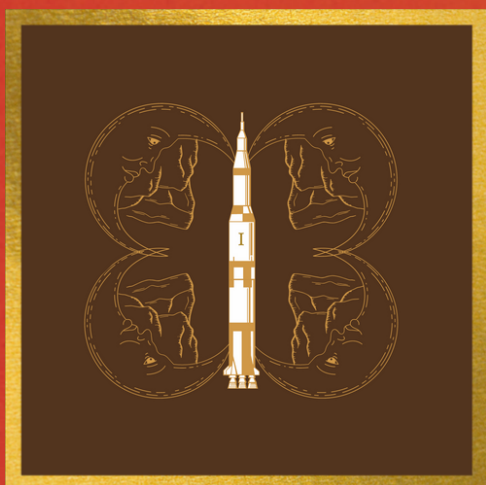

PERFORMANCES

- Ohio River Revival
- Circleville Pumpkin Show
- Press Room Recordings
- Blue Lava Audio Livestreams
- Emily featured on Overtones Lexington

FEATURES

- Americana Highways
- Underground Music Collective
- DaveTrippin
- Ironton Tribune

LISTEN

Garage Rockets Fly Across the Country
 Building Rockets' "Space Camp" EP...
 [REVIEW: Building Rockets "Space Camp" Is Beautiful Melody And Instrumentation]
 February 24, 2021 | Jim Cundiff
 "We're Appalachian, we play some countrified rock and roll" says a group who named themselves "Building Rockets" and named their forthcoming EP Space Camp. Yeah, there is a bit more to them than "We're Appalachian, we play some countrified rock and roll."
 Building Rockets is built of four top-notch musicians: Emily Jamison, vocals, guitar; MacLean James, guitar, keys; JD Thomas, bass; and Jeremy Roberts, drums, percussion. Although on the Space Camp EP, Cannon Anthony Miller actually hid down at the drum tracks. The sum with Building Rockets is much greater than the total of the parts. Building Rockets released their debut EP Space Camp on February 19th.

CONTACT

buildingrocketsband@gmail.com