Publisher'sNotes

October/November 2025

Welcome back to another wonderful season in paradise! With golf courses preparing to open and visitors returning to enjoy this remarkable destination of recreation, perfect weather, and cultural opportunities, the desert is alive with excitement once again.

On our cover this edition, we are proud to feature two beloved local personalities: five-time Stanley Cup champion Grant Fuhr and Coachella Valley Firebirds producer and host Gino Lamont. Fuhr has helped raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for the Hazelden Betty Ford Foundation's Children's Program and is now partnering with the One Valley Foundation, the charitable arm of the Firebirds. This important partnership will provide strong support and much-needed funds for local children's charities. You can read more in our cover feature on page 12.

We are also delighted to continue our ongoing Architectural Series, this time highlighting architect Cynthia McGarey, niece of legendary golf course designer Pete Dye. McGarey has been making her own mark while following in her uncle's footsteps. This feature feels especially close to my heart, as her cousin Perry Dye was an important figure in my life. Perry's generosity was instrumental during the first twenty years of Colorado Golf Magazine and he continued to support this publication when we launched in 1998. Be sure to see our story on Cynthia McGarey on page 20.

Another highlight in this issue is the newly redesigned Players Course at Indian Wells Resort, reimagined by original architect John Fought. First opened in 2007, the course has always been known for its breathtaking backdrops and challenging sloping greens. The renovation introduces exciting updates that elevate the playing experience even further. Details can be found in our feature on page 16.

We also shine a spotlight on tennis legend and longtime local resident Rosie Casals, who continues to give back through her Love & Love Foundation, which provides young people with opportunities to learn and play tennis. Read more about her inspiring work on page 24.

This season promises to be spectacular, with major events such as The American Express, the BNP Paribas Open, and many more golf and tennis celebrations adding to the magic of life here in paradise.

As always, we hope you enjoy this issue as much as we enjoyed creating it for you.

Charity on the Greens

The Grant Fuhr Foundation & The One Valley Foundation
at Desert Willow Golf Resort

The Coachella Valley will welcome one of its most anticipated charity sporting events in 2025 as the One Valley Foundation and Grant Fuhr Foundation, 2025 Celebrity Invitational arrives at Desert Willow Golf Resort in Palm Desert. Scheduled for the weekend of December 13–14, 2025, the tournament will combine world-class golf with philanthropy, continuing a legacy of giving back to the community while celebrating the desert's unique sporting culture.

This event brings together two important charitable forces. The One Valley Foundation serves as the philanthropic arm of the Coachella Valley Firebirds, supporting a wide range of community programs across the region. Partnering with them is the Grant Fuhr Foundation, founded by NHL Hall of Famer and five-time Stanley Cup champion Grant Fuhr. Since its establishment in 2019, Fuhr's foundation has directed funds to the Hazelden Betty Ford Foundation's Children's Program, donating more than a quarter of a million dollars. By joining efforts in 2025, the Invitational will expand its focus to include youth sports initiatives in the Coachella Valley, ensuring that the benefits of the tournament are felt directly within the community it serves.

The weekend begins on Saturday evening with a lively reception and pairings party at the JW Marriott Desert Springs Resort & Spa. This gala-style event sets the tone with gourmet food, live entertainment, and spirited bidding through both silent and live auctions. The party not only generates enthusiasm among participants but also provides one of the main fundraising platforms of the weekend. Guests mingle with celebrity athletes and entertainers while eagerly awaiting the team pairings that will shape the following day's competition.

On Sunday morning, the attention shifts to the rolling fairways of Desert Willow Golf Resort, one of the Coachella Valley's premier venues. Registration opens early, with a shotgun start scheduled for 9:30 a.m. The tournament follows a five-player scramble format, where each team is composed of four amateur golfers paired with one celebrity. It is a design that ensures a lively and inclusive atmosphere, mixing casual players with star athletes and entertainers in a setting that balances competition with camaraderie. The presence of USGA handicaps helps maintain fairness while allowing each participant to contribute meaningfully to the round.

Once play concludes, the day continues with an awards luncheon hosted on the resort's scenic patio. This post-tournament gathering recognizes winning teams, highlights sponsors, and provides another opportunity to raise funds for the causes at the heart of the event. Desert Willow, with its stunning views of the Santa Rosa Mountains and lushly maintained Firecliff and Mountain View courses, offers a setting worthy of the Invitational's blend of luxury and philanthropy.

Participation in the tournament spans several levels, with sponsorships designed to appeal to corporations, local businesses, and individual donors alike. At the highest tier, presenting sponsors receive naming rights and branding across all event materials, along with premium access to receptions and golf spots. Other sponsorship opportunities provide varying levels of access, visibility, and perks, from reception tickets to on-course recognition. Individual golfers can join the action for a significant contribution, while non-golfers are welcomed at the Saturday evening reception, ensuring that community members who wish to support the cause have ways to participate.

The tournament builds on the momentum of the Grant Fuhr Celebrity Invitational, which celebrated its fourth year at Desert Willow in 2024. That event attracted an impressive roster of athletes and celebrities, including former NBA coach Byron Scott, NFL legend Jim McMahon, Heisman Trophy winner Marcus Allen, and World Series champion David Justice. Their presence not only raised the profile of the event but also underscored its mission of rallying influential figures to benefit local causes. With the addition of the

One Valley Foundation as a partner, the 2025 edition is expected to be the most impactful yet.

At its core, the Invitational matters because it bridges the gap between sport and community service. Every dollar raised supports programs that make tangible differences in the lives of young people across the Coachella Valley. The focus on youth sports is particularly meaningful, offering opportunities for children to grow, learn teamwork, and develop confidence through athletic participation. By investing in these programs, the tournament ensures that its influence extends far beyond the greens and into the lives of future generations.

The event also highlights the power of collaboration. By joining the resources and networks of the Grant Fuhr Foundation with those of the One Valley Foundation, the Invitational represents a united front of philanthropy, drawing strength from its diverse supporters. This partnership ensures that the event is not only a glamorous weekend on the golf course but also a sustainable initiative that continues to grow in reach and effectiveness.

Desert Willow Golf Resort serves as the perfect stage. Known for its pristine conditions, creative layouts, and desert beauty, it has long been a favorite among both locals and visitors. Hosting the Invitational here elevates the prestige of the event while reinforcing the Coachella Valley's reputation as one of the country's premier golf destinations. Combined with the elegance of the JW Marriott's reception facilities, the setting contributes as much to the success of the event as the celebrity draw and philanthropic mission.

2025 Celebrity Invitational will be at Desert Willow Golf Resort in Palm Desert

As the December 2025 tournament approaches, anticipation continues to build. For participants, it promises two days of unforgettable experiences, from the glamour of the reception to the challenge of competing alongside legends on one of the desert's finest golf courses. For sponsors and supporters, it offers visibility and recognition tied to a cause that resonates deeply in the community. And for the Coachella Valley as a whole, it stands as an opportunity to celebrate the unique blend of sport, charity, and culture that defines the region.

In the end, the One Valley Foundation and Grant Fuhr Foundation Celebrity Invitational will not just be remembered as a golf tournament. It will be remembered as a moment when the community came together—celebrities, athletes, businesses, and residents—to invest in the future of its youth. And that, more than any birdie or trophy, is the true victory the event seeks to achieve.

The Players Course Golf Reimagined

Nestled in the heart of the California's Coachella Valley is the City of Indian Wells. Boasting breathtaking mountain views, world class amenities, premiere events, and world class public golf are only a few of the many reasons why Indian Wells is the ultimate retreat destination.

Owned by the city of Indian Wells is the much heralded Indian Wells Golf Resort (IWGR). Celebrating close to 40 years in the valley, golfers will enjoy an all-encompassing stay that includes luxury accommodations, premiere culinary delights, business and vacation services and two Championship golf courses, The Players and The Celebrity. Both having garnered rave reviews and have played host to such prestigious events as the groundbreaking "Skins Game", three PGA TOUR Champions events, GOLF Channel's "Big Break" and the 2024 and now 2025 Epson Tour Championship where the tour's top players compete for status on the LPGA Tour at the finale of the season-long "Race for the Card."

Without a doubt evolution is a constant in golf, from the player's athleticism, to the equipment everyone uses compels golf course designers to do the same. Case in point, the Players Course, where the slogan is "Golf Reimagined" meaning extensive renovations that will offer golfers from casual to tour players an exceptional experience with no imagination needed.

Redesigned in 2007 by distinguished golf course architect John Fought, an eager Fought and his team are back once again with fresh and exciting ideas for the "reimagination." "We are looking forward to enhancing one of the great municipal golf courses in the U.S.," says Fought. "The Players Course will become a true championship layout that will test the best players in the game as well as provide a wonderful experience for golfers of all skill levels."

The renovation will see multiple holes rerouted – most notably the ninth, 17th and 18th holes. Currently a par 72, the Players Course will transform to a par 71 and will feature two exciting new finishing holes, the par-3 No. 17 and par-4 No. 18. In the past these were the only two holes on the opposite side of the wash that runs through the property. The new layout will move both holes back across the waterway to join the bulk of the course on the north side adding the final touch in creating a cohesive, free flowing golf course that is more walkable and playable for all ages.

In addition to the finishing holes, the par-5 ninth will be repositioned closer to the clubhouse making it easier for players to enjoy food and beverages at the turn. With so many changes, Fought hasn't forgotten the bunkers, tee boxes and greens. Each hole will have all of these "refreshed" to ensure an outstanding round of golf.

Caught-up in the excitement is Robin Graf, General Manager of the Indian Wells Golf Resort. "It's been a pleasure working with Fought and his team to realize the incredible possibilities for this project, and we can't wait to welcome our residents and guests from around the world to experience the new design."

At the IWGR guests will not only be welcomed to memorable golf but also memorable dining with the opening of Kestrel. Celebrated chef and TV personality Richard Blais imparts his Left Coast take on American classics, signature cuts and coastal catches in a fresh, California-modern space that evokes the energy of surrounding flora + fauna. Named after the American Kestrel, the smallest and most colorful falcon known for its striking appearance, guests will discover Kestrel's perched atop the entryway stairs of the resort revealing an airy, earth-toned dining room and expansive bar with soaring views of mountain peaks, verdant fairways and ombre sunsets. The outdoor terrace, complete with open-air bar and table seating, frames the perfect social setting to enjoy the region's culinary style and natural allure.

Perhaps dining is the perfect way to end the day at the IWGR, but for others the fun continues at 'Shot in the Night', the Coachella Valley's best outdoor golf entertainment experience. Featuring Laser putting by Nextlinks on seven dedicated Greens and a brand new Toptracer Driving Range that glows in the dark, there is an entertainment option for everyone! Both experiences offer multiple game opportunities for individuals, couples and groups!

Should there be a non-golfer in the group, rest assured just a short walk from the IWGR guests can unwind with luxury spa services, dive into adventure at the epic water park—featuring a lazy river, splash pad, and thrilling dueling water slides or just relax poolside and let the kids play while you enjoy doing absolutely nothing!

Whether it's a business outing, family vacation, or individual escape from reality, the IWGR will offer guests and their golf games a new level of excitement, satisfaction and memories. For more information about Stay & Play packages or to book your individual or group outings visit.

Continuing the Dye Legacy:

By Alison Elsner

Cynthia Dye McGarey's

Harmonious Approach to Golf Design

A mother-son duo shapes the future of golf while staying rooted in nature

Cynthia Dye McGarey may be part of the legendary Dye family—her uncle was Pete Dye and her father was Roy Anderson Dye—but she has established herself as a powerful force in golf course architecture. She has proven her mettle and cemented her credibility in a field traditionally dominated by men. As principal golf architect of Dye Designs Group, McGarey founded the firm with her husband, O'Brien McGarey, in 2003.

"Most of my designs are outside of the United States," McGarey said, pointing to successful projects such as West Coast Haikou in Hainan, China; the Ferrum Club in Yeosu-gun, Gyeonggi-do, South Korea; Dreamland Golf Club in Baku, Azerbaijan; Erbil Hills Golf Club in Erbil, Iraq; and Golf de Déva on Grand Terre in New Caledonia.

She understands the global recognition of the Pete Dye name and embraces his legacy as a revered golf course architect. Pete Dye, who was married to fellow designer and amateur champion Alice Dye, is connected to the Coachella Valley through his development of the Mountain Course at PGA West in La Quinta—known for its

Ferrum Club

McGarey and her son, Matthew dramatic elevation changes, pot bunkers and signature island green on the 16th hole—and the Pete Dye Resort Course at the Westin Rancho Mirage Golf Resort and Spa. He passed away in 2020.

McGarey had the opportunity to work alongside her uncle on the Shenzhen Tycoon Golf Club in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China—a course recognized for its sustainability, thanks to her expertise and improvements.

This year, McGarey and her son, Matthew, redesigned all 18 putting surfaces and two practice greens at Woo Jeong Hills Country Club in Cheonan, South Korea. The course, designed by cousin Perry Dye in 1992, has hosted the Kolon Korea Open since 2003. Woo Jeong Hills is owned by Kolon Industries, one of South Korea's leading textile and chemical manufacturers. Dye Designs Group prioritized pin placements by updating the size, contouring and drainage of the greens. The project was especially meaningful, as it was Perry Dye's first design in South Korea—a country where the Dye family has contributed significantly to the recreational landscape.

McGarey's work in 2003 on the San Roque Club in Andalusia, southern Spain, a few miles from Gibraltar, was a true family affair involving collaboration among Cynthia, Pete Dye, Perry Dye and Matthew McGarey.

She began her career studying horticulture at Arizona State University in Tempe, Arizona, and later entered the landscape architecture business, focusing on plants and natural environments.

Her full-time entry into golf design came unexpectedly when cousin Perry Dye invited her to work on landscaping for courses in Asia. That experience sparked her transition into full-scale course design. Today, Dye Designs Group is based in Denver, and she partners with her son, Matthew. Her husband, O'Brien McGarey, serves as president and CEO of the Group.

"On the first golf courses I worked on with my family, I was called the tree lady," she said.

McGarey navigated the challenges of balancing motherhood with a demanding career. She often brought her five children to job sites and relied on a supportive network of family, including nannies who were interested in golf and later worked in the office.

She acknowledged that working on a few U.S.-based courses allowed her to spend more time with her children. Some of her top domestic designs include The Wolf at Las Vegas Paiute Golf Resort and White Horse Golf Club in Kingston, Washington—her first solo design.

She was recognized as the design coordinator for the Promontory Pete Dye Canyon Course in Park City, Utah, in 2002. The American Society of Golf Course Architects welcomed her to its prestigious association in 2012.

"Each project takes a few years out of your life," McGarey said. "But, for instance, with the West Cliffs course in Portugal, it took 12 years to complete, so it's much more than just a building project. It's an entire depth of cultural experience where my husband and I made lots of friends and became really familiar with the lifestyle. We still take vacations there."

West Cliffs Golf Links, on Portugal's Silver Coast about an hour north of Lisbon, is one of the most scenic courses built in Europe in the last decade. Designed by McGarey in 2017, the course plays through sandy coastal terrain with elevated views of the Atlantic Ocean. Built within a UNESCO World Heritage Site, McGarey prioritized minimal earth movement, native habitat restoration and water conservation.

She's been credited with accomplishing less than 16 percent disturbance of the site at West Cliffs during construction. She led efforts to restore over 200 hectares of natural habitat, and she removed invasive species and reintroduced native flora, ensuring the course blended seamlessly with its surroundings.

She doesn't just design on paper or via video. McGarey is a firm believer in spending time on-site, working closely with construction teams, committees, general managers and staff.

"It makes more sense to be hands-on. My uncle Pete was like that, too," she said. "Dye Designs Group actually had an office in China

CTS Tycoon Golf Club
Shenzhen, Guangdong, China

The Wolf at Las Vegas Paiute Resort
Las Vegas, Nevada

to manage the multiple courses we were building. I found myself jumping around from city to city a lot. In remote places like Saudi Arabia, Morocco, Portugal and New Caledonia, I schedule myself to stay longer but not visit as frequently. Being on-site really makes a difference in the outcome of the project. I always say, you snooze, you lose."

Her horticultural and landscape architecture background provides enhanced perspective on integrating natural elements into course layouts. Her attention to detail ensures that every course reflects the local climate, vegetation and terrain.

McGarey personally designs planting plans and oversees landscaping on-site, maintaining that courses should be true to their location, with landscaping that reflects regional identity and natural beauty. This philosophy results in courses that feel organic and immersive rather than artificially imposed.

She prefers to build from scratch but also enjoys working with her son, who specializes in remodeling.

"Starting fresh allows for more creativity," she said. "It's tough to do a remodel. There are lots of committees and personalities involved. A clean slate is easier, just like an artist prefers to paint something new as opposed to painting over another artist's work."

She added, "The reality, though, is that every golf course needs to be continually updated because there's a limited life expectancy for every component of the course."

West Cliffs Golf Links
Obidos, Portugal

White Horse Golf Club
Kingston, Washington

Dreamland Golf Club
Baku, Azerbaijan

As for being a woman in the industry, McGarey said she doesn't see it as an issue. "Ultimately, it's more about building relationships," she said. "There is still some 'old boys' network' activity, but I am confident that clients hire me because of my exceptional work, references and credibility. And I'm always involved in promoting more women in the field of golf course architecture."

Cynthia McGarey's vision blends artistry with sustainability and continues the Dye tradition while evolving it. She's not only preserving the family legacy but is also redefining what it means to be a golf course architect in the 21st century. Her projects emphasize harmony with nature, strategic design and a deep respect for the land.

She implements her own signature version of the family design philosophy. And perhaps the best part for her is that she gets to work with her son, Matthew, as they take on the world of golf course design together.

Finding the sweet spot with Love and Love Foundation

Tennis legend Rosie Casals leads the way for future generations of tennis enthusiasts

By Alison Elsner

Rosie Casals works magic every day by opening up exciting new worlds for kids and teenagers. Kids who have often never had the opportunity to pick up a tennis racket are able to take part in tennis clinics and experience the excitement of finding that sweet spot in sports and in life, both physically and mentally.

The Love and Love Tennis Foundation, founded by tennis legend Casals and fellow tennis pioneer Tory Fretz in 2015, is a nonprofit organization dedicated to making tennis accessible to youth, especially those in underserved and diverse communities throughout the Coachella Valley. A primary call to action is for volunteers familiar with the game of tennis to sign up to help as well as for donors to support fundraising (lovelovetennisfoundation.com).

Casals, who lives in the Coachella Valley, is a trailblazer in women's tennis and has been a driving force in reshaping the way that women participate in the sport especially in terms of equal representation and compensation. Casals is known for winning 12 Grand Slam Doubles Titles, many alongside Billie Jean King, advocating for equal prize money for women in tennis, and being inducted into the International Tennis Hall of Fame in 1996, among dozens and dozens of other accolades.

The Love and Love Tennis Foundation reflects her lifelong commitment to equity, opportunity, and the joy of the game.

The Foundation works closely with local schools and tennis clubs in the Coachella Valley, to host free youth clinics and NJTL (National Junior Tennis & Learning) tournaments. These events are designed to teach tennis skills while also fostering confidence, discipline, and community spirit.

During a conversation with Casals, who found time to talk during her attendance at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships in Queens, New York, played ironically at the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center with whom she was attending, she talked about all the programs currently taking place through the Foundation that help kids and teens develop their tennis skills.

Every Saturday, Casals and her team of instructors hold a clinic at Fritz Burns Park in La Quinta, thanks to a partnership with the City of La Quinta. Other partners and program sites include the Boys and Girls Clubs of Coachella Valley and various high schools such as Desert Hot Springs High School, Indio High School and Rancho Mirage High School. The high schools receive grants for $1,000 each which enables them to offer free clinics to their students. There are numerous clinics opportunities to learn and play in Desert Hot Springs, Indio, Rancho Mirage, La Quinta, Mecca, and other desert cities.

Fundraising is ongoing, and by far the event that galvanizes the most support is the annual Annalee Thurston Awards, named after Annalee Thurston, a passionate supporter of youth tennis and a beloved former WTA marketing executive who passed away in 2007.

The awards celebrate outstanding achievements in tennis and community involvement with past awardees including Billie Jean King, Tracy Austin, Connie Spooner, Ilana Kloss, Micky Lawler, Peachy Kellmeyer, Mary Carillo, Chris Evert and other superstars of the tennis realm.

The award is presented annually each March during the BNP Paribas Open in Indian Wells, now taking place at Palm Valley Country Club in Indian Wells, California and set for March 7, 2026. Casals noted that she's getting very close to announcing the 2026 awardee.

Casals said, "Funds raised from this event make it possible for us to involve more kids and get more people involved as instructors. Keep in mind, often these tennis sessions are for kids who've never played before, and it's a way for them to see the possibilities that lie ahead for them with tennis and sports as the catalyst."

Another significant event – a Tennis Fiesta – will take place Saturday, October 4 at Rancho Mirage High School and will welcome 80 kids from Coachella in celebration of Hispanic Heritage Month. From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., kids will be able to play tennis as well as enjoy Folklórico dancers, lunch, and a piñata bash.

As for Casals' own tennis activity, she said, "I'm still hitting balls and playing to stay in shape. It's great when Billie Jean [King] and Ilana [Kloss] visit, which they do often, because we all get out on the court together and have a good giggle."

The primary message Casals wishes to impress upon readers is the need for volunteers and donations. Those interested can learn more at lovelovetennisfoundation.com and can contact Casals directly at sportswomn@aol.com.

She said, "Starting this Foundation was truly a labor of love – pun intended – for me. Giving kids the chance to play tennis is so crucial in their lives, both on and off the court. It improves their coordination and endurance while promoting cardiovascular health. It teaches discipline and resilience which is so helpful as they get older and need ways to manage stress. Plus, it's fun and gives them an incredible outlet in terms of sportsmanship and just friendship."

Love and Love Tennis Foundation Mission:

- Promote and support youth tennis programs, academies, schools, and individuals.
- Offer financial grants to help young players develop their skills and pursue collegiate or professional tennis careers.
- Organize free clinics, tournaments, and community events to introduce tennis to children who might not otherwise have access to the sport.

Desert Pickleball

Valley residents take pickleball to a new level with pro team ownership

Dinking around with California Black Bears and Coachella Valley Scorpions

Pickleball courts are popping up everywhere, often repurposing tennis courts, with indoor and outdoor facilities making pickleball a robust year-round game and business. The sport has been popular with older adults for years, however after COVID-19, pickleball gained traction with younger players.

Today, pickleball courts welcome players between 10 and 100, making it a multigenerational activity that is easy to learn yet challenging to master. There are two professional leagues: Major League Pickleball (MLP) with 22 teams and the National Pickleball League (NPL) with 12 teams, the latter for players 50 years and older.

According to Kim Jagd, co-owner of the Coachella Valley Scorpions (part of the NPL), “the growth of pickleball is insane, in a good way.” She explains that there are Coachella Valley residents who have taken their passion for the sport into professional team ownership.

Jagd is a former college volleyball athlete at UCLA, where she played on the 1984 NCAA National Championship team. She also competed on the Pro Beach Volleyball Tour (WPVA) for three years and then began coaching at University of Colorado. She returned to her alma mater to coach for another 18 seasons before retiring.

Jagd says, “Most people are not even aware there are professional pickleball leagues, let alone a team called The Coachella Valley Scorpions for pros 50 and older and a young pro team called the California Black Bears.” Jagd’s fellow co-owners of The Coachella Valley Scorpions include Indian Wells residents Rob Zwemmer and Ruth Ann Poppa (her mother). Also in the ownership group is Don Zuker from McKinney, Texas, and the majority stakeholder is actor Vince Vaughn, an avid sportsman and pickleball player.

The National Pickleball League is in its third year (nlpickleball.com), and the Scorpions joined in the second season of the league. During their first year of competing, they ended up in fifth place due to injuries. Rod Davis, the CEO of the National Pickleball League, happens to live in the Coachella Valley, reinforcing the strong ties to the desert.

Jagd explains that the top players in the indoor league are paid each weekend. There is also prize money for the teams that win or take second place for each event. There are five regular season events held once per month from May through September, with the championships being held in October in Seattle.

On each of the 12 teams in the NPL, rosters include seven men and seven women with 12 players competing in a team battle divided into pods. As Jagd describes it, "It's very chaotic and exciting! Each team battle includes gender and mixed doubles."

The Scorpions are excited to have the support of sponsors Agua Caliente Casinos and Joola Pickleball (the largest paddle producer in the world, played by top pros). Jagd says, "Agua Caliente has supported us since our inception and has helped to grow visibility for our team and pickleball. In May, ACC planned an exhibition event that was held in their beautiful indoor venue called The Show. As I welcomed the crowd of over 500 people (not bad for off season) I teased with the crowd that the Scorpions were opening for Jason Mraz who was playing later that night to a full house! Our event featured an exhibition game between a pro and Palm Springs police chief Andy Mills playing against another pro and Palm Springs deputy fire chief Jeffrey Van Lierop."

The Scorpions have launched an additional business focused on national camps and clinics, led by professional players and coaches. They will be hosting two camps at Desert Princess Country Club in Cathedral City, California on October 10 and 11 and November 7 and 8, 2025. For more information, visit scorpionpickleballcamps.com.

Shifting gears over to MLP (Major League Pickleball), Jagd's counterpart in ownership is Ritchie Tuazon, a fixed income portfolio manager who lives part time in Indian Wells and is the founding owner of the California Black Bears. This young pro pickleball team just concluded their season in San Diego in mid August.

The MLP format incorporates team matches consisting of four games with women's doubles, men's doubles and mixed doubles (two games). Premier and challenger levels separate top-tier and rising players.

Tuazon is passionate about expanding pickleball's reach and accessibility. He has partnered with other entrepreneurs, including those behind The Picklr, a fast-growing indoor chain of pickleball clubs, to promote the sport at all levels.

Tuazon explains that other prominent MLP team owners include Le Bron James and Tom Brady, adding to pickleball's appeal. His own team currently operates at a loss, primarily due to the lack of a television deal. However, Tuazon believes that once a TV deal is achieved, the growth will be a "game changer," bringing broader visibility especially for the sport's reach and legitimacy.

He pointed out, "There were 433,000 viewers for the MLP's finals match that recently aired on CBS, outdrawing the LPGA and LIV Golf viewership."

As an owner, Tuazon's desert connection is reinforced by his residency in the region even though he grew up in Pasadena, California and works in Los Angeles. His brother, Lance Tuazon, is a realtor in southern California and the Coachella Valley.

Tuazon said, "Because pickleball is the fastest growing sport in the country, there's a lot of room to grow. With more and more indoor courts being built, this should be really good for the sport."

Jagd sums up the spirit of camaraderie shared by both owners by saying, "I hope the Scorpions and Black Bears can work collaboratively to bring an indoor pickleball facility and events to the Coachella Valley in the future."

Arizona Resorts...Stay, Play, and Escape to the Desert

Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale at Troon North (Phoenix/Scottsdale)

If you're chasing peak Sonoran Desert golf with five-star service, the Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale at Troon North is the bull's-eye. Guests play Troon North's two headline courses—Monument and Pinnacle—desert classics conceived by major champion Tom Weiskopf with architect Jay Morrish. Monument (par 72, ~7,039 yards) moves through saguaro forests and granite outcrops, peppering players with strategic angles and risk-reward carries; Pinnacle (par 71, ~7,009 yards) is a leaner, more athletic test that rewards precision off the tee and into subtly contoured greens. The duo has long been a standard-bearer for target-style desert golf, with routing that uses the natural rock drama as both hazard and eye candy.

Back at the resort—a hillside village of adobe-style casitas and suites—comfort comes in layers. There's a bi-level pool complex framed by Pinnacle Peak, a serene spa with desert-inspired treatments, and easy shuttle access to the first tees. Casitas lean contemporary Southwest: wood-beamed ceilings, fireplaces, outdoor spaces, and the kind of beds that turn a 7:10 a.m. tee time into a heroic feat of will. Dining is a genuine highlight. Talavera, the modern Spanish steakhouse, is a sunset magnet with sweeping valley views; Proof is your relaxed American comfort-food roadhouse, complete with a shuffleboard table and milkshakes that make you wonder whether tomorrow's wedge game can forgive tonight's indulgence. Poolside bites at Saguaro Blossom and cocktails at Onyx round things out, and in-casita dining lets you keep the robe on between spa and siesta.

Practice junkies will appreciate Troon North's expansive range and short-game areas, plus the variety you get by alternating Monument and Pinnacle across a long weekend. Off-course, sunrise hikes up Pinnacle Peak Park are practically mandatory, and the resort concierge is dialed for everything from hot-air balloon rides to private desert photography sessions. Families do well here—quiet casita clusters give everyone space; couples do, too—the spa is intimate and the after-dark desert air is tailor-made for patios and wine.

Who it's for: players who want tournament-grade desert golf by two icons (Weiskopf/Morrish) paired with top-tier service and dining, with as much nature as you can handle right outside your casita door. On a golf-only trip, you could play 36 per day and never feel repetitive; on a more indulgent trip, simply pace between course, pool, spa, and Talavera's terrace and call it perfection.

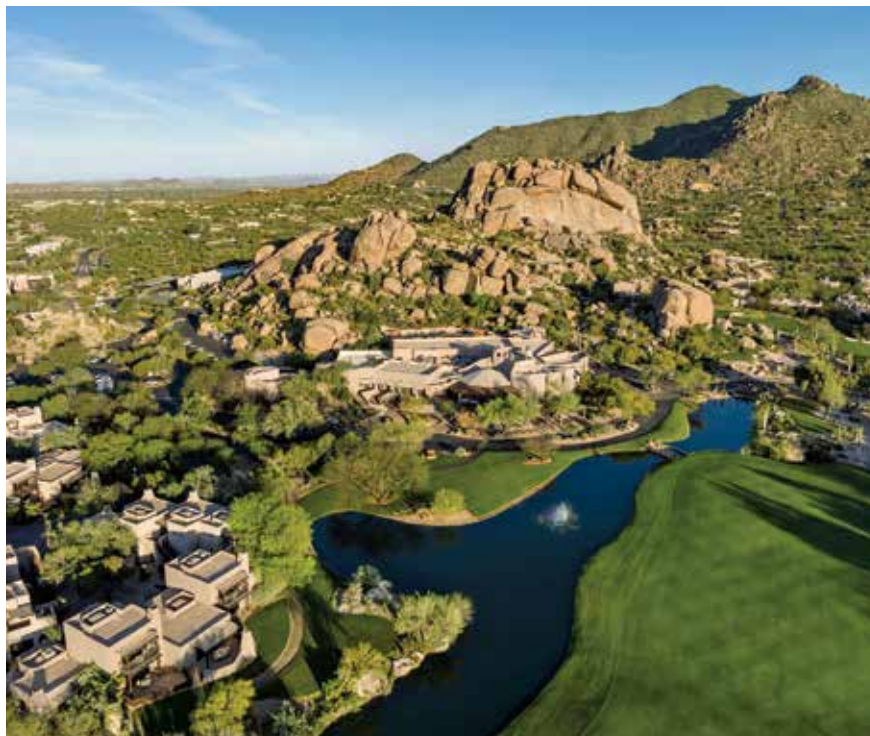

Boulders Resort & Spa Scottsdale (Phoenix/North Scottsdale)

Boulders is a vibe as much as a resort—a sandstone sculpture garden where fairways weave between prehistoric rock stacks the size of apartment buildings. The Boulders Golf Club features two celebrated layouts by Jay Morrish (North and South), each leaning into the property's humbling topography. Morrish's desert-minimalist sensibility is on full display: centerline boulders that dictate angles, doglegs that flirt with arroyos, and green sites tucked against massive rock faces. It's photogenic, yes, but the strategy is real, with generous landing areas that narrow into demanding approaches and green contours that reward the patient line over the heroic one.

The resort's adobe casitas and villas are scattered thoughtfully across the 1,300-acre property for maximum privacy and views—sunrises wash the boulder piles pink and gold. The spa is a destination in itself, known for open-air spaces, a labyrinth for meditative walks, and desert botanicals folded into therapies. After golf, you're choosing between a cocktail with a rock-wall backdrop and a sunset soak that radiates serenity. Dining is resort-casual with Southwestern notes; the patios are the prize seats, especially when the evening light ignites the granite. The pool scene stays mellow, and service carries that unfussy, “you’re among friends” polish.

Non-golf play is robust: guided desert hikes, rock-climbing introductions, e-bike rides, and stargazing meetups under flawless desert skies. The tennis and pickleball setups keep racquet people happy; fitness facilities are modern; and the pro shop is packed with desert-heat-friendly apparel. The resort also arranges off-property excursions—Old Town Scottsdale gallery crawls, Verde Valley wine tastings, even hot-air balloon dawn patrols if you want the aerial version of those boulder panoramas.

What sets Boulders apart is how deeply the courses feel of the land. You’re not playing on a man-made stage; you’re threading shots through a natural sculpture park, with Morrish’s routing quietly choreographing the drama. It’s no surprise the resort repeatedly shows up on “best golf resorts in the Southwest” lists: the on-course scenery is outrageous, the strategy satisfying, and the off-course decompression top-notch. For traveling players, splitting your rounds between North and South keeps the trip balanced—North slightly more forgiving, South a tad tighter and more dramatic near the rocks—while the spa guarantees a reset between 36-hole days.

Arizona Resorts...Stay, Play, and Escape to the Desert

JW Marriott Phoenix Desert Ridge Resort & Spa (Phoenix/Desert Ridge)

If you're building a golf-centric getaway where everyone—from the low-capper to the lounge-by-the-lazy-river crowd—leaves happy, Desert Ridge is a cheat code. The on-site Wildfire Golf Club offers 36 holes with signature pedigrees: the Faldo Course channels sand-belt energy with sprawling bunkering and wide, strategic corridors, while the Palmer Course leans into imaginative shot-making and bold green complexes. That architect balance—Nick Faldo's controlled strategy next to Arnold Palmer's more swashbuckling design DNA—keeps multi-day itineraries fresh and lets foursomes mix styles across mornings and afternoons.

This is also one of the Valley's most complete big-resort ecosystems. AquaRidge WaterPark delivers a lazy river, slides, and splash zones; Revive Spa is a destination for hydrotherapy circuits and post-round deep-tissue salvation; there's a large fitness center, multiple pools, tennis courts, and a broad slate of daily activities. Dining has stepped up in recent years with marquee concepts like Tía Carmen and Kembara by chef Angelo Sosa, plus casual and poolside options to keep families fueled and golfers refueled between rounds. If your crew includes non-golfers (or juniors just finding the game), the “something for everyone” quotient here is off the charts.

Rooms and suites are contemporary and spacious, many with balconies overlooking fairways or pools. Mornings begin with sunrise stretches on the event lawn or practice-green roll-outs; afternoons can mean an extra nine, or drifting the lazy river with a post-round beverage. The practice facilities are generous—multiple putting surfaces and a large range—handy if you’re dialing in distances for firm desert conditions. The club’s pro shop is well-stocked, and the staff is seasoned at handling group trips, from buddy-golf weekends to corporate scrambles.

Location helps, too: you’re minutes from North Phoenix and Scottsdale dining/shopping pockets, and logistic-friendly to both TPC Scottsdale and other public tracks if you want to add an off-property round. But there’s really no need. A three-day loop of Faldo/Palmer/Faldo, stitched together with spa time, waterpark interludes, and a progressive dinner crawl through the resort’s restaurants, is a high-percentage play.

Bottom line: with two high-profile architects (Faldo and Palmer) setting complementary tests and a resort infrastructure that anticipates what mixed groups need, Desert Ridge is a Swiss Army knife for Phoenix golf travel—versatile, polished, and built for repeat visits.

Arizona Resorts...Stay, Play, and Escape to the Desert

The Ritz-Carlton, Dove Mountain (Tucson/Marana)

Tucked into the Tortolita Mountains just north of Tucson, The Ritz-Carlton, Dove Mountain feels like a private canyon hideaway with a championship resume. The Golf Club at Dove Mountain features 27 holes of Jack Nicklaus Signature golf (three nine-hole loops that once hosted the WGC-Accenture Match Play), which means fairways defined by natural washes, greens guarded with classic Nicklaus angles, and the sort of muscular par-3s that can flip a match on a single swing. The nines mix and match into 18-hole experiences with different personalities, making a long weekend feel like a mini-rotation rather than repeats.

The resort's architecture blends modern desert luxury with a palpable sense of place—earth-toned stone, fire features, and terraces that frame saguaro-studded vistas. After golf, decelerate at the spa (steam, plunge, and quiet lounges are the norm), or take advantage of the hiking and mountain-biking trails that spool out from the property into Sonoran backcountry. Families find plenty to do—there's a multi-pool complex with a waterslide and cabanas—and couples gravitate to sunset hour on the lobby terrace when the mountains go purple and the desert cools.

Dining spans thoughtful Southwest to refined global, with craft-cocktail programs and wine lists that satisfy both post-round casual and celebratory dinner moods. Rooms and suites are generous, many with fire pits or deep terraces, and the Club Level ups the convenience with all-day culinary offerings. Service is classic Ritz-Carlton—anticipatory without being fussy—and golf operations are slick, from staging to on-course hospitality.

On the course, you'll confront Nicklaus hallmarks: elevated greens that insist on precise approaches, fairway bunkering that corrals indecision, and par-5s that tease the go-for-it gene. The desert framing is spectacular but honest—stray too far and you're reloading. Practice facilities are robust, and early-morning tee times repay with wildlife sightings and the kind of air that makes a flushed mid-iron feel like it might never come down.

For Tucson travelers, Dove Mountain is the most self-contained luxury golf experience in the region—a resort where you can lean fully into golf, or go half-golf/half-wellness and feel equally satisfied. And because the 27-hole setup offers variety without leaving the property, it's tailor-made for three-night itineraries: rotate the nines, change the par-3 yardages, and chase that late-afternoon match with a golden-hour hike to the petroglyphs.

Arizona Resorts...Stay, Play, and Escape to the Desert

Loews Ventana Canyon Resort (Tucson)

Few places in the Southwest blend wild canyon drama with resort comfort as naturally as Loews Ventana Canyon. Set against the Santa Catalina Mountains, the resort partners with the Ventana Canyon Golf & Racquet Club to offer 36 holes of Tom Fazio-designed championship golf. Fazio's pair—the Mountain and Canyon courses—are quintessential Tucson: target-style tee shots that skirt arroyos and rock outcrops, eye-popping elevation changes, and greens tucked into amphitheaters of desert stone. The celebrated par-3 3rd on the Mountain Course plays over a deep ravine to a green perched against granite, an only-in-Tucson postcard you'll think about on the flight home.

The resort itself leans into indoor-outdoor living—room balconies and patios are common, and public spaces are oriented to canyon views. After your morning loop, you might detour to the on-property nature trail and small waterfall, or settle into the pool with the mountains looming overhead. Racquet sports are a strength here, with lighted tennis and pickleball courts complementing the golf scene; the fitness center and spa offer the requisite post-round repair. Dining is relaxed and Southwestern-inflected, with patios that make the most of Tucson's blue-sky days and star-heavy nights.

Ventana is also one of those rare places where the practice grounds are as inspiring as the course: long-range views from the range, short-game areas that let you rehearse the tight-lie chips the desert demands, and comfortable putting greens for match-settling playoffs. Service is warm and unfussy, in the Tucson tradition, and the golf shop crew is used to traveling players fine-tuning itineraries that combine Ventana rounds with nearby public favorites.

What elevates the experience is balance. Golfers get two distinct Fazio rounds—Mountain usually the more dramatic; Canyon the steadier test—while non-golfers can spend days hiking Sabino or Ventana canyons, browsing downtown's food scene, or simply reading by the pool with the Catalina foothills as a backdrop. For couples, the “golf in the morning, hike in the afternoon, patio dinner at dusk” rhythm is hard to beat; for buddies trips, 36 a day is very doable thanks to efficient course flow and proximity right from the lobby.

In short, Loews Ventana Canyon wraps classic Fazio desert golf in a resort that's equal parts outdoorsy and comfortable—close to Tucson's attractions yet cocooned by canyon walls and starry skies. If your golf trip checklist reads “scenery that humbles you, holes you'll replay in your head, and a resort you can live in for a long weekend,” this is your Tucson pick.

JW Marriott Tucson Starr Pass Resort & Spa (Tucson)

For golfers who like their desert rounds intertwined with deep history and modern resort polish, JW Marriott Tucson Starr Pass Resort & Spa is a prime choice. The 27 holes of golf here—designed by the legendary team of Arnold Palmer and Bob Cupp—reimagine a setting once used by stagecoach travelers heading westward. The courses (Roadrunner, Rattler, and Coyote nines) flow across Tucson's western foothills, demanding target-style accuracy in a desert environment but offering fair challenges through wide landing areas and elevated tees that spotlight sweeping valley views. Palmer and Cupp struck a balance: generous enough for the casual player but with enough teeth to have hosted NCAA championships and PGA Tour events in the past.

The three-nine rotation keeps the experience fresh. The Roadrunner nine is open and scorable; Rattler is tighter, framed by saguaros and desert washes; Coyote mixes dramatic elevation changes with risk-reward par 5s. Practice facilities are expansive, with a full driving range, short-game zones, and putting greens to warm up or settle bets.

after a round. Golf carts are GPS-equipped, and on-course beverage service is consistent—a welcome factor in Tucson's sun-drenched climate.

Beyond golf, the resort unfolds like a desert playground. There's a sprawling multi-tier pool complex with a lazy river and waterslide for families, plus a quieter adults-only pool for more serene afternoons. Hashani Spa incorporates Native American and desert-botanical elements into its therapies, with outdoor relaxation decks that catch Tucson's sunset glow. Fitness seekers will find a well-equipped center and access to trails for hiking, running, and mountain biking directly from the property—Starr Pass borders Tucson Mountain Park, with routes that range from quick morning hikes to serious treks into the saguaro wilderness.

Dining reflects Arizona's melting pot of flavors. Primo specializes in Mediterranean and local farm-to-table cuisine; Signature Grill leans into regional American dishes with an emphasis on Southwest flavors; the poolside Catalina Barbeque Co. & Sports Bar offers hearty post-round plates in a casual setting. Morning golfers can start at Starbucks® Café, located conveniently near the golf staging area. Evening entertainment often centers on the open-air patios, where fire pits and desert views create an easygoing social scene.

Rooms and suites are comfortably modern with Southwest accents—think earth-tone palettes, wood details, and balconies that look out over the city or mountains. For groups, connecting rooms and large suites make the resort an ideal hub for buddy trips or family gatherings. Service is Marriott-polished but relaxed, fitting Tucson's unhurried rhythm.

What separates Starr Pass is how much variety it packs into one destination: 27 Palmer/Cupp golf holes, full-scale spa and pools, desert adventure access, and family-friendly diversions. Whether you're a traveling foursome chasing morning 36s, a couple balancing golf and spa time, or a family blending kids' activities with championship-level golf, Starr Pass delivers.

Arizona Resorts...Stay, Play, and Escape to the Desert

The Wigwam Resort (Litchfield Park)

Tucked into the desert landscape just west of Phoenix, The Wigwam Resort has stood for decades as one of Arizona's most iconic luxury retreats. With its blend of historic charm and modern indulgence, the property offers a rare balance of sport, relaxation, and hospitality. Guests come from across the country to experience its championship golf courses, renowned tennis facilities, and expansive amenities that stretch across 440 lush acres.

The Wigwam is home to Arizona's only 54-hole golf destination, a rare treasure in the desert. Three distinct courses await players of every skill level:

The Gold Course – Designed by legendary architect Robert Trent Jones Sr., the Gold Course is often called "Arizona's Monster." With wide fairways, challenging bunkers, and demanding length, it has hosted numerous professional events. The Blue Course – Also shaped by Jones, the Blue Course provides a shorter, more technical test of golf. Its narrower fairways, doglegs, and water features force precision and strategy over power. The Red Course – Created in 1972 by Robert "Red" Lawrence, the Red Course emphasizes playability. Framed by parkland-style fairways and gentle greens, it appeals to golfers seeking a more relaxed round.

Together, these courses allow The Wigwam to offer a golf experience as diverse as it is prestigious, appealing equally to seasoned players and casual resort guests.

For those who prefer the court to the course, The Wigwam delivers an equally impressive lineup. The resort's nine lighted Plexicushion courts, including a 350-seat stadium court, make it one of Arizona's premier tennis destinations. Guests can book lessons, clinics, or simply enjoy an evening match under the desert sky.

Pickleball—America's fastest growing sport—has also found a home at The Wigwam. With dedicated lines and gear available on request, the resort keeps pace with modern racquet-sport trends. From social mixers to competitive play, the tennis center is a hub of energy and community.

No Arizona resort experience is complete without indulgent amenities, and The Wigwam exceeds expectations. Guests can choose from three distinct pools: the lively Tower Pool with waterslides for families, the serene adults-only Oasis Pool, and the spa's private lap pool for tranquil swims.

The LeMonds Aveda Salon + Spa, spanning 26,000 square feet, offers a sanctuary of wellness with treatment rooms, couples' suites, outdoor showers, and steam rooms. It stands as one of the most luxurious spa facilities in the region.

Beyond golf and tennis, guests can enjoy bocce ball, sand volleyball, yard games, and bike rentals for exploring the expansive grounds. A modern fitness center with group classes ensures wellness is always within reach.

Dining at The Wigwam celebrates Arizona's farm-to-table traditions. Litchfield's, the resort's signature restaurant, features locally sourced ingredients with seasonal menus, while Red Allen's Bar & Grill provides a casual, social setting overlooking the golf courses. Poolside dining and cocktails complete the culinary variety.

The resort's 331 guest rooms and suites offer comfort in a spacious, village-like setting. Each includes modern conveniences, while the sprawling grounds invite guests to relax and unwind in the quiet charm of the desert.

A desert icon, the Wigwam Resort continues to honor its legacy while adapting to the needs of today's travelers. Whether teeing off on one of its legendary golf courses, serving an ace on its lighted courts, or simply floating in a sunlit pool, visitors discover a destination where tradition meets modern luxury.

For generations, The Wigwam has stood as a desert icon, and today it remains one of Arizona's finest escapes for those seeking both adventure and relaxation.

Palm Desert Golf Cart Parade

showcases festive floats and colorful golf carts

California dreaming – how are you living the dream?

Like a scene out of “Our Town,” the Palm Desert Annual Golf Cart Parade is a slice of Americana right in the midst of the Coachella Valley. This living tableau of unity connects residents, schools, businesses and local organizations in a cheery showcase of community.

Taking place on Sunday, October 26 along the scenic El Paseo corridor, the 61st annual event will again feature colorful and imaginatively conceived golf carts, which individuals or businesses enter into the parade as floats for $99 each. This year’s Golf Cart Parade theme is, “California dreaming –how are you living the dream?!” Float entries are expected to show off California spirit and creativity with depictions of sun-kissed beaches, iconic landmarks, and the laid-back vibe of the Golden State.

Prizes are awarded for the most unique and dazzling floats, which in the past have included “It’s a jungle out there” safari float by Loving All Animals in 2017, covered in stuffed animals and which included adoptable dogs; a 30-foot long pirate ship in 2012 by Desert Arc; and the Family YMCA of the Desert’s Super Mario Bros. castle float in 2019 that transformed their golf cart into a castle resembling Bowser’s lair, with Bowser being the iconic villain.

The Golf Cart Parade is a production of the Palm Desert Area Chamber of Commerce (PDACC) with significant sponsorship support from City of Palm Desert, The Auen Foundation, General Air Conditioning, Mechanic’s Bank, The Manor Family Trust, El Paseo Jewelers, Berger Foundation, Fiesta Ford / Fiesta Kia / Palm Springs Motors, La Fe Wine Bar, On the Mark Indoor Digital Advertising, JR Thomas Golf Cars, The Lock Shop, Valley Lock and Safe and numerous others.

Alisa Williams, CEO of the PDACC, said, “The Golf Cart Parade is special because it truly reflects the heart of Palm Desert. It’s more than just a parade - it’s our community coming together to celebrate culture, tradition, and connection. There’s a magical small-town charm mixed with big community pride, and that combination is what makes the parade such a beloved tradition year after year.”

This year’s Grand Marshal is Tim O’Brien of NBC Palm Springs. He will be joined by VIP guest Hockey Hall of Famer Grant Fuhr, a five-time Stanley Cup Champion with the Edmonton Oilers and widely regarded as one of the greatest goaltenders in NHL history. Fuhr was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame in 2003 and is celebrated for breaking barriers as the first black goaltender to achieve superstar status in the league.

Of course, anyone who’s been to this joyful celebration knows that the parade is much more than an adoring procession of cleverly and colorfully decorated golf carts. The day starts at 8 a.m. with the Rotary Club Pancake Breakfast, followed by the opening of marketplace booths, food vendors, a lively beer garden, and the Kids and Family Fun Zone at 9 a.m. Guests can also enjoy a dazzling display of classic cars and custom golf carts leading up to the main event. It’s free for general attendees, seniors and members of the military, and VIP seating is $30 per person.

At noon, the sky comes alive with a dramatic flyover by historic aircraft from the Palm Springs Air Museum and parachuters landing right on the parade route, officially kicking off the parade.

Leading the way are vintage automobiles and golf carts, followed by more than 100 spectacular entries—from exceptional floats to marching bands, spirited cheer squads, and high-energy dance troupes—all celebrating Palm Desert’s unparalleled community spirit in true California style.

The Golf Cart Parade has been a fixture in the desert since the 1960s, sustaining a beloved tradition that reflects the distinctive charm and history of Palm Desert. It’s a nostalgic event that honors the city’s identity while evolving with new and exciting design concepts each year.

Evoking a sense of nostalgia while representing the pop culture of our time, the Annual Golf Cart Parade elevates the ordinary into something just a bit more profound and brings all stations and stages of life together.

We’re pretty sure Thornton Wilder would be sufficiently inspired.

Modernism Week

Pays homage to the golden era of midcentury modern

By Alison Elsner

A world where every home is stylish and every party is effortlessly chic

What started as a modest affair with just over 1,000 attendees has exploded like a Jackson Pollack painting to welcome more than 100,000 participants annually. It's become so much more than displays of the (fabulous) Eames Lounge Chair and the Noguchi coffee table.

According to Lisa Vossler Smith, CEO of Modernism Week for the past 13 years, "Palm Springs is absolutely the heart of modernism in the United States. Nowhere else has such a concentration of midcentury architecture so seamlessly been woven into the natural landscape, and there is no other destination that has a community so passionate about preserving and celebrating that heritage."

Modernism Week, the festival that highlights midcentury and modern architecture, art, interior and landscape design, and vintage sensibility in the Palm Springs area held two times each year (a condensed version each October and 11 days each February), once again produces Modernism Week from October 16-19, 2025. There will be more than 50 events staged over four days, including many free and low-cost programs.

The Preview Party for the Palm Springs Modernism Fall Show on October 17 (only $95 in advance and $110 at the door) kicks off Modernism Week in style, giving guests a jump start on this early buying opportunity. The festive evening will feature libations and wine, delectable hors d'oeuvres, and first access to an incredible array of design treasures, before the show opens to the public. The show is an ideal opportunity to mingle with fellow design lovers and snag one-of-a-kind pieces before they disappear into someone else's collection.

The Palm Springs Modernism Fall Show itself will take place October 18 and 19 for only $25 admission per person, featuring nearly 50 premier national exhibitors offering vintage furniture, decorative and fine art representing all design movements of 20th and 21st century.

Architectural bus tours are one of the most popular programs. The Premier Double Decker Architectural Bus Tour is the Show's signature, treating guests to the most significant architectural treasures of Palm Springs. Other bus tours include Twilight Architectural, Sinatra's Rat Pack Homes, Band Hangouts, and The Homes That Define Palm Springs, among others.

There are several new activities this year, which include 100 Years of Palm Springs Modernism. Led by top-rated architectural tour guide Trevor O'Donnell, this intimate 22-seat mini-coach tour surveys a full century of fascinating modernist architecture.

The Palm Springs Paradise Home Tour: A Celebration of Bold Design, Color, and Desert Style is an exclusive chance to peek behind the doors of six spectacular residences, each one an unforgettable celebration of bold color, sleek lines, inspired design, and personality-packed interiors.

Vossler Smith said, "Each aspect of the Show speaks to different aspects of modernism — architecture, design, art, and culture, so coming up with a favorite is like trying to choose a favorite child. That said, I've always had a soft spot for the home tours. There's nothing quite like watching visitors step into a preserved or restored midcentury residence and experience firsthand just how these homes were designed for light, landscape, and living."

Other activities of note include:

- Viva Las Vegas: This unforgettable evening of show-stopping tunes by the popular Gand Band includes hit songs from iconic artists coupled with a secret, multi-course menu and free flowing themed signature cocktails.
- Cocktails on The Wells Times Two: Two distinct homes are featured, including a 1962 Charles Doty architect and Arthur Elrod interior designed home along with a 1978 John Walling, AIA residence that received a Michael Berman/Shannon Palmer interior design refresh in 2023.
- Modernism Week Featured Home Tour-Sackley Chase Sensation: This stunning residence was designed by the prolific Palm Springs architect Stan Sackley in 1976 and beautifully decorated by the iconic interior designer Steve Chase. Recently updated by Grace Home Furnishings, the structure shows off striking brutalist features, including pristine Italian natural travertine floors and expansive walls of glass that offer breathtaking views of the surrounding mountains and the Indian Canyons Golf Resort.
- ONE-PS Presents-Historic Walking Tour of Downtown Palm Springs: Guests can explore iconic sites that shaped the city's early history, architecture, and zeitgeist.

• The Brutalist-Exploring Laszlo Sandor's Canyon South III and the Rise of 1970's Desert Modernism: This architectural talk will be followed by a tour of five homes that blend brutalism with midcentury modernism.

There are dozens of other exhibitions throughout the weekend, providing powerful testimony to the scope of expansion for what is now a significant social and educational gathering in Southern California.

As Vossler Smith notes, "When we began, Modernism Week was a grassroots effort with a few dozen events and a loyal following of design enthusiasts. Today, it has grown into a world-renowned festival with more than 350 exhibits and tours, drawing tens of thousands of visitors from across the globe. We've expanded to include educational programming, film, fashion, art, and discussions about the future of design and sustainability, while still celebrating the classic midcentury heritage that put Palm Springs on the map."

She continues, "In the coming years, you'll see us deepening our focus on sustainability and adaptive reuse as well as broadening the sociological lens to connect midcentury design with contemporary issues."

She sums up the spirit of this midcentury modern celebration by saying, "At its core, Modernism Week is about joy — the joy of good design, good company, and the desert light that makes it all glow."

Modernism Week is a 501 (c) (3) charitable organization, providing scholarships to local Palm Springs students pursuing college educations in the fields of architecture and design; as well as giving grants to local and state organizations for their efforts to preserve modernist architecture throughout the state of California.

Raising the bar on exceptional cuisine, cocktails and wine: sipping, sampling and savoring

Bar Cecil's menu reflects the diversity and sincerity of the establishment, with selections such as red Thai curry mussels, flat iron steak with frites

What begins as a chic or cozy bar outing quickly transforms into a standout culinary experience at these Coachella Valley cocktail and wine bars. They've elevated the ordinary by pairing world-class cuisine with expertly crafted drinks and superb wines. A bit simpler while more social, these inventive food-and-drink destinations attract locals and visitors—whether for quick bites or extended evenings of savoring and sipping. With a more personal touch from hands-on proprietors, many of these hotspots exude the charm of a neighborhood watering hole but with a refined edge.

Warning: may cause extreme contentment.

Bar Cecil

As the proprietors say, "Join us for a toast to life." Bar Cecil (pronounced sessel) is an homage to Cecil Beaton, who was equal parts rebel and aristocrat, an artist who lived between classical charm and new world rebellion, with a style all his own.

The menu reflects the diversity and sincerity of the establishment, with selections such as red Thai curry mussels, flat iron steak with frites, Blanca's ratatouille (vegan), Beaton burger, cacio e pepe Reggiano with pecorino, bread crumbs and capers, and other satisfying choices. A special attraction is the fifty dollar martini, prepared with Jean-Charles Boisset vodka and Alessio dry vermouth accompanied by deviled egg with caviar and sunchoke chips.

Sides include grilled broccolini with garlic and lemon oil, charred green beans, jumbo asparagus and potatoes au gratin.

Bar Cecil brings out the renaissance spirit in each of us.

Bar Issi, tucked inside the Hyatt's Thompson Hotel between downtown and uptown Palm Springs, is about as hip as one can get. Curated cocktails with a twist are cool and casual, with options such as blueberry cobbler, del oro, verdi mai-tai and Negroni del sole. There's an ample supply of fine wines and beer as well as high quality classic cocktails.

The raw bar is fresh and delectable, with chilled oysters, salmon crudo and tuna tartare. Appetizers include house made puccia bread, gazpacho, Greek salad, and squash blossoms, among other flavorful treats.

The CLEAN In Clear Energy™

La Fe Wine Bar's tapas-style menu that includes charcuterie boards, salads, flatbreads, gourmet small plates, and luscious desserts.

La Fe Wine Bar

In Spanish, la fe means "the faith." In that vein, we can assure you of restored confidence with La Fe Wine Bar's tapas-style menu that includes charcuterie boards, salads, flatbreads, gourmet small plates, and luscious desserts.

Favorite happy hour candidates (daily 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.) include Albondigas and pulled pork sliders. Small plates feature ahi (or vegan) stack, chicken skewers, and Spanish sandwich. Salads serve up Caprese, beet and Napa, and desserts tempt with tiramisu and chocolate cake.

Cocktails and wines form a match made in heaven, including Mezcal penicillin, banana nut fusion, and non-alcoholic Aperol spritz. The wine list reveals an impeccable lineup such as Francis Coppola "Directors Cut" chardonnay, Central Coast 2019 and Grigich Hills chardonnay, Napa Valley 2021. Reds feature Austin Hope cabernet sauvignon, Paso Robles 2022 and Domaine Drouhin pinot noir, Dundee Hills, Oregon 2022, among dozens of others.

And guess what? Wine is available to take home to keep the party going!

Little Bar

Settle in for an agreeable evening with food and friends at this inviting bar and grill, serving lunch, dinner, late night bites and weekend brunch. Little Bar puts out a chill vibe and eclectic music. The speakeasy-style gathering spot has an oversized solid oak door with a peep slot that complements the cozy outdoor patio and big deck.

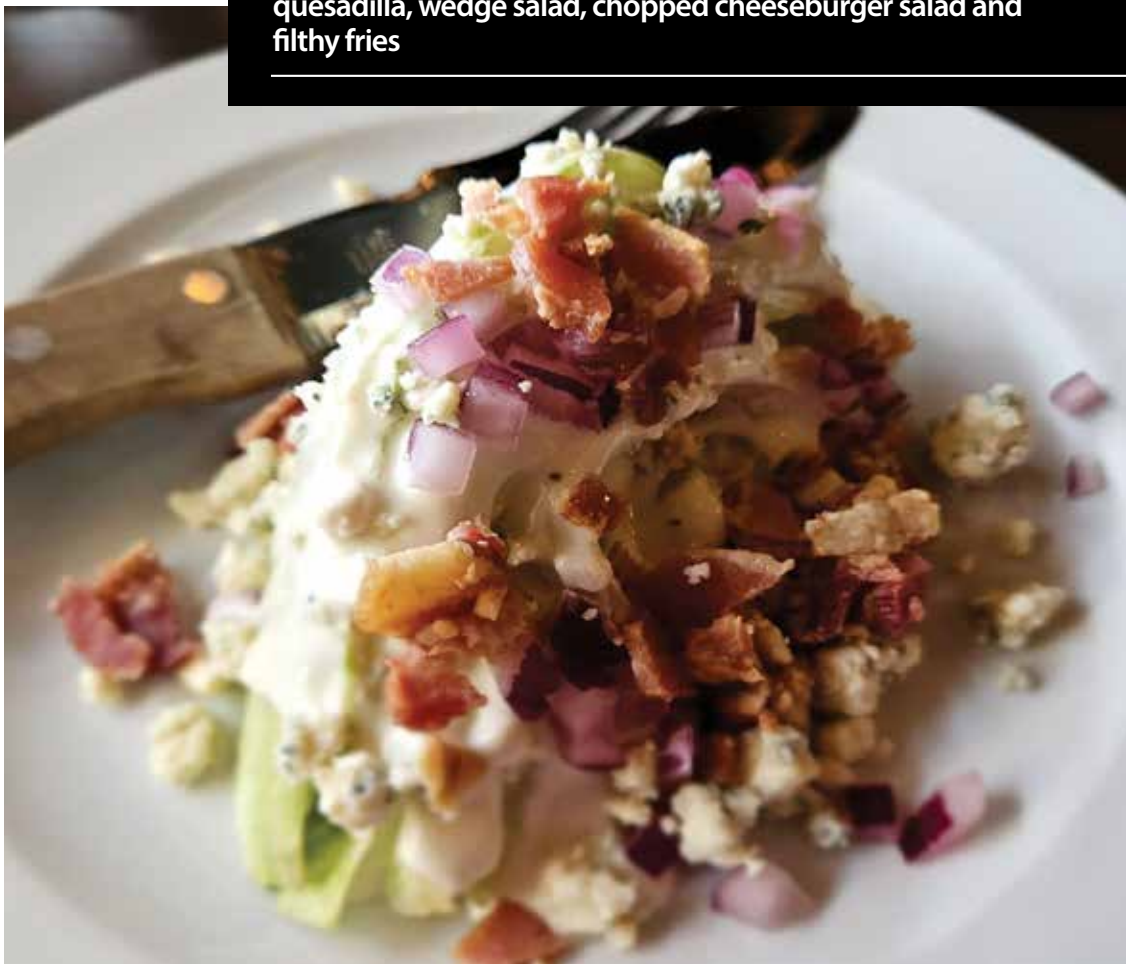

Items "from the kitchen" include fried chicken sandwich, Little Bar quesadilla, wedge salad, chopped cheeseburger salad and filthy fries (covered in melted American cheese, grilled onions and special sauce), among others.

Craft cocktails are a big draw here, delivering special concoctions such as hand pressed greyhound, hibiscus sour, kiwi basil, coconut peach margarita, espresso martini Xanadu, a mix of Banhez Mezcal, house made ginger beer, Ancho Reyes liquor, pineapple, lime and tiki bitters.

Happy hour every day until 6 p.m. has guests making repeat visits.

Paul Bar/Food

Owner Paul O'Halloran, from Ireland by way of the Bronx, has created the ultimate urban retreat. An inconspicuous entryway in a corner strip mall reveals a relaxed bar with a long mahogany counter, clubby booths and tuxedo-shirted staff.

Starters might include arugula salad or iceberg wedge, while cocktails flow easily, including brushfire with rye and ginger, knitting kneedle with gin, elderflower and Aperol, and birdcage with vodka, pineapple, lime and almond Campari. A condensed yet high quality selection of red and white wines and beer is available.

Small plates and large plates are both part of the experience, with offerings such as fried calamari, chicken wings, meatball with marinara, French fries, short rib dip, chicken schnitzel, pan roasted salmon and vegan yellow curry.

Happy hour Wednesday through Sunday is definitely a mood-lifter, for both pints and plates.

1501 Uptown GastroPub

A cozy vibe radiates beneath 1501's high wood slat ceiling. A wrap-around bar displays sporting events on TV (never too loud) as patrons share charcuterie boards and giant proverb Bavarian style pretzels over drinks. The handsome pub designed by famed Architect Chris Pardo lets guests celebrate life's special moments on the patio overlooking the majestic mountains of Palm Springs.

Cocktail creations pour lemon drop, mojito, classic Manhattan, old fashion, uptown skinny, blueberry ginger smash and others. There are plenty of mocktails on the "sober stuff" menu, such as cucumber mint lemonade, virgin mojito and Chino Canyon mule.

Big plates offer chicken under a brick, sour cherry balsamic braised pork shoulder, linguini carbonara, pan roasted wild mahi mahi, beef stroganoff and many others.

Desserts wrap up the evening with recipes such as lavender crème brûlée and bourbon and sour cherry bread pudding.

The 2026 Tesla Model S Plaid

Luxury, Speed, and the Future of Autonomy

Few cars capture the imagination quite like the Tesla Model S Plaid. By 2026, Tesla's flagship sedan has evolved into a near-perfect fusion of blistering performance, futuristic technology, and uncompromising luxury. With its sleek silhouette and quiet confidence, the Model S Plaid represents not only the pinnacle of Tesla engineering but also a glimpse into the future of how we will experience driving—or perhaps, how we will no longer need to drive at all.

At the heart of the 2026 Model S Plaid is the latest iteration of Tesla's Auto Drive system. Building on years of refinement, the software offers one of the most advanced semi-autonomous driving experiences available on the market. On highways, the system can handle lane changes, merging, and adaptive cruise control with a fluidity that feels eerily human. In urban environments, the Auto Drive manages traffic lights, stop signs, and roundabouts, leaving the driver with little more to do than monitor the system. While not fully autonomous, the 2026 version comes closer than ever before to delivering on the long-promised dream of hands-free travel. For commuters in busy cities or road warriors logging endless highway miles, Auto Drive transforms the concept of convenience, making every trip less about stress and more about comfort.

Performance, of course, remains central to the Plaid identity. The 2026 model retains its astonishing acceleration, capable of leaping from zero to sixty miles per hour in under two seconds, a feat once reserved for million-dollar hypercars. Powered by a tri-motor setup that pushes over 1,000 horsepower, the Plaid glides silently across pavement yet delivers neck-snapping speed on command. Its top speed surpasses 200 miles per hour, a number that underscores Tesla's commitment to keeping the Model S not just relevant but dominant in the performance luxury segment.

Range is equally impressive. The 2026 version pushes the envelope with an estimated 420 to 440 miles on a single charge, depending on driving conditions. This figure places it at the forefront of electric vehicle endurance, making long road trips not only feasible but enjoyable. Combined with Tesla's ever-expanding Supercharger network, the Model S Plaid ensures that range anxiety is increasingly a relic of the past. Charging times have also improved, with the latest generation capable of adding nearly 200 miles of range in about 15 minutes at high-speed charging stations.

Inside, the Plaid feels less like a car and more like a personal technology hub wrapped in luxury. The minimalist cabin design features a massive central touchscreen, now brighter and more responsive than ever, alongside a smaller driver-focused display that provides essential information with clarity. Passengers in the back enjoy their own entertainment system integrated into the rear console, complete with streaming services and gaming capabilities powered by Tesla's in-house processor, rivaling modern consoles. Every inch of the interior exudes refinement, from premium vegan leather upholstery to customizable ambient lighting that shifts to suit mood and time of day.

Tesla has also leaned into comfort and wellness for the 2026 Plaid. Climate control has been reimagined, delivering micro-adjustable airflows with near-silent efficiency. The audio system, engineered in collaboration with world-class sound designers, envelopes passengers in concert-like acoustics, turning even the morning commute into a sensory experience. For those who want a personalized touch, the Model S Plaid offers an expanded palette of interior trims and exterior colors, further cementing its place as both a performance machine and a statement of individuality.

Safety remains at the core of Tesla's identity, and the 2026 Plaid includes the latest suite of sensors, cameras, and radar systems to support Auto Drive and protect passengers. The car continuously monitors its environment, capable of reacting faster than any human driver in emergency scenarios. Over-the-air updates, another Tesla hallmark, ensure that the vehicle improves with time, offering new features and enhancements long after it leaves the showroom floor.

What makes the 2026 Tesla Model S Plaid most compelling, however, is not just the raw numbers or the luxurious flourishes, but the way it encapsulates the promise of progress. It is a car that marries sustainability with unrelenting power, that blurs the line between machine and companion, and that makes the idea of autonomous travel feel less like science fiction and more like a Tuesday afternoon reality.

For Tesla enthusiasts, the Model S Plaid is the crown jewel of the lineup, a machine that continues to push the limits of what an electric vehicle can be. For skeptics, it is a demonstration that electric cars are no longer about compromise but about leading the way forward. As the automotive industry braces for a fully electric and increasingly autonomous future, the 2026 Tesla Model S Plaid stands as both a milestone and a beacon, showing us not only where we are but where we are going.

Tropical themes reflect the spirit of Rio De

“Dress in happiness” is the Farm Rio motto, encouraging women to express joy and individuality through fashion. Founded in 1997 at a small fashion market in Rio and known for bold prints, bright colors and tropical themes, their motifs are inspired by nature, Brazilian folklore and cultural symbols.

Over 700 exclusive prints are created annually, integrating sustainability into every aspect of Farm Rio’s business. They are committed to planting 1,000 trees per day, having already planted over a million. Carbon neutral since 2021, their packaging is 100 percent offset through Brazil’s Euciclo recycling network.

Farm Rio employs a diverse workforce, with over half of their workers identifying as black and/or indigenous. They actively partner with indigenous communities such as the Yawanawa, supporting agroforests and cultural preservation.

Now a mainstay on the runways in New York, Los Angeles, Paris and London, Farm Rio remains deeply connected to Brazilian heritage.

The Off-White Butterfly Richelieu Midi Dress encourages the wearer to embrace elegance. It features a charming V neckline and playful cutout details, accentuated by intricate Richelieu embroidery resembling fluttering butterflies. The flutter sleeves add a touch of whimsy, while the gently flowing contour ensures graceful movement. Perfect for basking in the warmth of summer days, this dress promises a timeless, dreamy allure. $348.

Bicolor Guipure One-Shoulder Maxi Dress

Black Boho Panther Lenzing Ecovero Viscose Midi Dress

Pink Garden Delight Short Sleeve Maxi Dress

Nature Black Guipure Midi Dress

Sand Nature Land Organic Cotton Mini Dress

The Rose Wild Horses Long Sleeve Mini Dress is all about a fresh style and a warm soul, like something that should be worn while listening to Brandi Carlile's soundtrack of "Broken Horses." The graphic equine pattern in hues of pink, red, orange, peach and lavender displays a palette for uninhibited self-expression that sparks creativity and celebrates the woman within. Beaded, irregularly-shaped buttons, a collar neckline, a center front placket, and a self-belt showcase a fluid style with a hint of a flip at the hem that transitions easily into fall. $260.

The Black Jaipur Lenzing Ecovero Viscose Maxi Dress is made from responsible materials, creating a dazzling effect with a mesmerizing paisley pattern in deep greens and golds. The high neckline and open back offer an urbane contrast, while the long balloon sleeves add a more lighthearted touch. The dress is crafted with an invisible zipper at center back. The trademarked Lenzing Ecovero viscose consists of eco-responsible, sustainable fibers that generate up to 50 percent lower emissions and water usage compared to generic viscose. $270.

The Bicolor Guipure One-Shoulder Maxi Dress presents a captivating one-shoulder silhouette with intricate floral guipure lace in confident shades of red and pink. The puffed sleeves add a bit of romanticism, while the delicate belt cinches self-assuredly at the waist, enhancing one's natural grace. The vibrant dress is sheer at the upper arm and ankles, inviting warmth and joy into every movement. $390.

The Black Boho Panther Lenzing Ecovero Viscose Midi Dress transfixes with its bold panther pattern and rich earthy tones. The fluid form cascades gracefully to a midi length, accentuated by an artful wrap detail. Its round neckline and long sleeves bring an air of casual finesse. The invisible zipper at center front results in a streamlined, straightforward statement. Stitched from responsible materials, this dress captures a lively essence while ensuring relaxed comfort and unique style. $270.

The Pink Garden Delight Short Sleeve Maxi Dress would have one believe that they are lounging in the lush Jardim Botânico in the heart of Rio de Janeiro. This sumptuous, slightly vintage dress is woven with intricate embroidery cascading across a soft pink fabric. The deep V neckline complements the banded puffed sleeves, while the tiered skirt adds a fanciful flow. The harmonious blend of color and craftsmanship evokes both high energy and sophistication. $320.

The Nature Black Guipure Midi Dress conveys pure enchantment, boasting intricately designed guipure lace all over. The striking square neckline frames the décolletage with a flirtatious effervescence. The delicately stitched lacework creates a play of texture and transparency that whispers tales of romance. The long balloon sleeves and gentle midi contour combine to create a dress that's both alluring and glamorous, perfect for moments that represent the embodiment of chic. $420.

The Sand Nature Land Organic Cotton Mini Dress delights with its intricate blue and earth-toned patterns, weaving a tapestry of nature-inspired motifs. The flattering halter neckline pairs effortlessly with voluminous elbow-length puff sleeves, adding just the right touch of drama. Tailored from responsible 100 percent certified organic cotton, the fabric has demonstrated a lower environmental impact than conventional cotton by way of reduced water use, lower greenhouse gas emissions, and fewer chemicals. The responsible construction encompasses style, care and gleeful expression of independence. $210. ■ Written by Alison Elsner

a legacy of heirloom-worthy creations for 113 years

Sumptuous multi-color stones showcase the jewel-toned soul of nature

Gold Platinum Multi-Color Sapphire and Diamond Bracelet

The Gold Platinum Multi-Color Sapphire and Diamond Bracelet presents not only a luxurious accessory but also a collectible piece of wearable art. Fancy and festive, the multi-colored stones conjure images of sparkling confetti in pink, purple, blue, green, yellow and champagne, arranged meticulously in double rows and set in 18K gold. The assorted color sapphires (86.02 tcw.) are adorned with 70 round diamonds (6.43 tcw.) that appear deceptively haphazard yet are painstakingly positioned. $330,000.

Where to buy:
frizzantefinejewelers.com

Oscar Heyman has evolved from a behind the scenes manufacturer to a stand-alone brand, known and appreciated by jewelry connoisseurs around the world. The evidence that Oscar Heyman creates heirloom-quality jewelry, both in style and in function, is in the company's storied history.

Founded in 1912 as Oscar Heyman & Brothers, the jewelry house was started by brothers Oscar, Harry, and Nathan Heyman, who brought European jewelry-making techniques to the United States. They launched their stellar reputation as specialists in sourcing only the absolute finest colored gemstones from around the globe, including rubies, emeralds, diamonds, Paraiba tourmalines, and Padparadscha sapphires. Their signature style continues to feature kaleidoscopic arrangements and invisible settings, showcasing technical advancement and aesthetic grandeur.

In the early 1900s, Oscar Heyman worked with Cartier in New York as a result of his apprenticeship with Fabergé which trained him in crafting platinum, a preferred setting of close to 80 percent of their pieces today.

Oscar Heyman has developed jewelry designs for iconic figures and events, from the 1939 World's Fair to Elizabeth Taylor, Apollo 16, and Billy Porter at the 2019 Oscars who wore a selection of pieces including a 20 carat canary diamond ring.

Oscar Heyman remains a family-run business, preserving a legacy of excellence and innovation.

Gold Platinum Ruby and Diamond Ring

The Gold Platinum Ruby and Diamond Ring is a study in bold symmetry, featuring one enormous vivid red sugarloaf ruby (8.99 tcw.) bordered with stunning 18K yellow gold, combining warmth and durability. The ring is enhanced with 10 round-cut diamonds (0.32 tcw.) that encircle the finger, offering exceptional sparkle at every angle especially with its artistic setting in pure platinum. $70,000.

Gold Platinum Emerald and Diamond Necklace

The Gold Platinum Emerald and Diamond Necklace is a show-stopper that would be perfectly appropriate in the collection of Queen Elizabeth II or Catherine de' Medici of France. The primary design feature is 11 spectacular pear-shaped emeralds (8.72 tcw.) delicately dangling around the neck, with the largest stone at the center. Between each emerald drop is a series of round-cut diamonds (17.06 tcw.) in graduating sizes – 130 in total – set in platinum and arranged by a connecting strand of 18K yellow gold bails to anchor each emerald. $150,000.

Platinum Aquamarine, Orange Sapphire and Diamond Earrings

The Platinum Aquamarine, Orange Sapphire and Diamond Earrings are exceptional in their amalgam of color, again set in trademark platinum. Two sizable oval aquamarines (32.68 tcw.) dangle at the ears, with a delicate translucence that bathes in brilliance. Connected by round diamonds (0.55 tcw.) positioned into a diamond silhouette on each ear are two cushion-cut faceted sapphires in vivid fire orange (4.22 tcw. and 3.94 tcw.). $70,000.

Platinum Unheated Star Sapphire and Diamond Ring

The Platinum Unheated Star Sapphire and Diamond Ring is mesmerizing in its ethereal milky blue hue. A large, dome shaped cabochon star sapphire (20.29 tcw.) rests at the center of the design, accented with 12 marquise diamonds (3.12 tcw.) and six round diamonds (0.62 tcw.), forming a hexagonal border like a snowflake etched in crystal lace. The star sapphire exhibits a phenomenon called asterism, a star-like pattern that dances on the surface when viewed under direct light and is caused by needle-like inclusions of the mineral rutile. $75,000.

Platinum Opal, Emerald and Diamond Earrings

The Platinum Opal, Emerald and Diamond Earrings bring forth deep tones of blue and green with two oval opals (8.62 tcw.) taking center stage in the design. Each oval is surrounded by a border of 17 round emeralds (0.66 tcw.) interspersed with eight oval diamonds (2.53 tcw.) and eight round diamonds (1.29 tcw.) set in pure gleaming platinum, manifesting a lustrous shimmering frame that accentuates the handsome opals. $160,000.

Platinum Unheated Padparadscha and Pink Sapphire Bracelet

The Platinum Unheated Padparadscha and Pink Sapphire Bracelet is an example of rarified color in nature that only Oscar Heyman could source. An interplay of dark and light pink reveals itself in the various shapes and sizes of 66 Padparadscha sapphires (71.96 tcw.) sprinkled throughout the surface of this spectacular cuff. Set in radiant platinum, the larger stones are placed between accents of 30 round pink sapphires (4.80 tcw.), the deep raspberry intensifying the lighter pinks of the Padparadschas. A finishing touch of 46 round diamonds (1.46 tcw.) provides relief from the color density. $190,000.
