Four C's of Faith

If you've been in worship the past couple of Sundays, by now you have met me and heard the start of our first sermon series together. I won't always preach a series, sometimes I like to just follow the lectionary and preach the same text churches all around the globe are preaching from. It helps us to be connected to the Church universal. But for our time starting off together, I wanted to make sure that we were all starting off with some common understandings, hence the four-part sermon series about faith.

If you missed the introduction to the series, we're talking about the four C's of faith: Covenant, Community, being Christ-centered, and having Courage. Covenant is about the covenant between God and God's people. It's ancient, tracing all the way back through Abraham, Noah, and even Adam. But it's also something that John Wesley stressed each year with his churches and societies, and something that we need to renew our own commitment to on a regular basis. Even when we fall short of our end of the covenant, God never does.

Community is vitally important for the Christian faith. It is impossible to follow God all by yourself. Even God exists in community – think of the Trinity – One God in three persons! We need our siblings in the faith to keep us grounded, to help keep us accountable, to lift us up when we stumble and to celebrate with us when there is reason to praise.

Being Christ-centered is vitally important. Without it church just becomes another social club. Worship just becomes another concert, poetry reading, or gathering of people to hear a lecture. Being Christ-centered is important for us as individuals as well. We need to keep Christ at the center of our whole lives, not just pull him out on Sundays and special occasions.

Finally, being a person or a community of faith requires a whole lot of courage. Think of the heroes and "sheros" of the Bible. What did David, Esther, Daniel, and Mary all have in common? They all had an enormous amount of courage – courage to do things that seemed impossible, dangerous, or downright foolish because they knew that God had their back. What are we capable of accomplishing when we step out in faith knowing God has our back as well?

I hope you continue to ponder the four C's of faith throughout the weeks to come and as we covenant to grow together as a courageous, Christ-centered community of faith.

Meet Rev. Julie

Rev. Julie Wilson grew up in northeastern Vermont. She attended Elmira College for her degree in Secondary Education and Biology, Norwich University's Vermont College for her Masters in Education and Wesley Theological Seminary for her Masters in Divinity degree. She and her husband, Rev. Heath Wilson, have been married for 21 years and have an 18 year old son, Jeffrey, who recently graduated from Catocin High School in Thurmont. Rev. Heath is the pastor at Tom's Creek UMC in Emmitsburg and Jeff works at NVR in Thurmont. Rev. Julie is also continuing on a limited basis in her previous role as the Deacon of Outreach

In her free-time, Rev. Julie takes part in the CREDO ministry – it is similar to Walk to Emmaus, but more with folks who are in recovery (from addiction or other challenges in life). She also enjoys singing and is part of the Emmitsburg Community Chorus. She and her husband, and to some extent their son, are also part of the Monocacy Gamers, a club of people who gather to play intricate board games which challenge the mind and the imagination.

Rev. Julie serves on the Baltimore-Washington Annual Conference Advocacy and Action Network as the Immigration Task Force Chair, is ERT (Emergency Response Team) and UVMIM (United Methodist Volunteers in Mission) Leader trained and has a heart for mission and ministry near and far. Her most recent mission trip was a return to the island of Vieques in Puerto Rico to do recovery work two years after hurricanes Irma and Maria.

Class at 9:50am—Social Hall

Adult Sunday
School

Our fall quarter (September, October, November) lessons will look at responding to God's grace through faithfulness. The word faithfulness simply doesn't have much currency in our time. Before we fault cultural shifts for our fragile relationships, we should recall the opening pages of Scripture. Sin's curse disrupted all relationships, especially our relationship with God. Alienated from God, humanity hatched countless false religions throughout the world, each searching for truth about the Creator.

Against that backdrop of confusion, alienation, and idolatry, God revealed himself and his desire to enter into a faithful relationship with the people he created.

Unfaithful people struggle to trust others, so God's first task was to establish himself as worthy of humanity's confidence. God reveals himself throughout history as one whose faithfulness never fails. We see God keep a promise to Abraham by blessing his nephew (Genesis 19:29). We watch God lead his people out of slavery to the border of the promised land, only to see them prove unfaithful. God forgave their betrayal and kept his word (Numbers 14:20-25). God consistently demonstrates his loyalty to his people, no matter how many times they fail him.

Join us as we begin this series to see how God is faithful in spite of our unfaithfulness. We meet in the social hall at 9:50 each Sunday morning.

Our study this fall begins on Thursday September 5th at 9:00 a.m. in the Education Building. We are studying Paul's second letter to the people of Corinth—2 Corinthians. The theme is "Remembering What Really Matters".

The Corinthians had strayed from the teachings and the Spiritual Health Check-up that Paul commended them for in his first letter. This letter reminds the Corinthians to turn from their worldly ways and to think and live in ways that honor God. Likewise, Paul's letter encourages us to look at our own lives so we won't forget what really matters.

We are open to new students of the Bible. Bring your Bible no matter which translation. We thrive on the different versions.
