WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING ABOUT
"THE JUDICIAL WAR ON MEN"

"This happened to my son, who suffered for four years. He lost his income and property. He was put in jail. Only after a volunteer attorney took the case and put the accuser on the stand did her accusations come apart. The judge said, on the record, she was evasive, that she was not "willing to exchange truthful information", and that no reasonable person would conclude her story was credible. What was done to my son was evil. Every mother should read this book."

Margaret Cox-Enders

"Truth is fragile and can be easily distorted -- and even suppressed. Dr. Nelson has demonstrated how this has happened in America through the actions of feminists who have targeted traditional values in general and men in particular. His book is a cautionary tale about a problem that can no longer be ignored."

*Charles P. McDowell, Ph.D.
Supervisory Special Agent (Ret.)
U.S. Air Force Office of Special Investigations*

"As a family law attorney, I've seen horrific examples of the exact systemic abuse that Dr. Nelson warns about in his outstanding work. This is a very important wake-up call."

*Marc E. Angelucci, J.D.
Attorney at Law*

"Thanks to feminist policies and the feminist training of judges, police officers, social workers, and university officials, no man is safe from a false accusation of domestic abuse or sexual assault. This book offers the horrifying proof, and explains how we can step back from the abyss. Every law school student and professor should read this book."

*Janice Fiamengo, Ph.D.
Author and Professor*

"Professionals must take notice of this excellent work which dispels many stereotypes and myths about boys and men."

*John Davis, J.D., Author
Former federal and state prosecutor*

Eric L. Nelson, Ph.D.

Eric holds six higher education degrees:

- A.S., Administration of Justice, Moorpark College
- B.A., Psychology, California State University Northridge
- M.A., Marital & Family Therapy, Azusa Pacific University
- M.A., Sociology, University of California Davis
- M.S., Forensic Science, National University
- Ph.D., Criminology & Criminal Justice, UC Davis¹

He has many peer-reviewed publications, divided among the following fields:

His work experience includes:

- USMC Counterintelligence specialist
- Police officer
- Adjunct and Assistant Clinical Professor

- Forensic analyst
- Chancellor's liaison to public safety
- Public health research analyst
- Empirical researcher
- Peer reviewer for 11 journals

Eric developed a six step best practice model for the police investigation of domestic violence which, on average, triples rates of prosecution and doubles rates of conviction. It was re-published as an FBI training bulletin (December, 2013, see f.n. 1). He also published a best practice for the police organizational response to DV in the Wiley Handbook of Violence and Aggression (ibid., see f.n. 1).

PROFESSIONAL AVAILABILITY

Eric is available as an expert witness, consultant, declarant, or amicus curiae contributor. He can assist in preparation of cross examination questions for "experts" on DV and sexual assault, for the purpose of examining their empirical knowledge, skills, and abilities and subjecting their claims of fact to empirical scrutiny.

Eric is available to provide training for police officers on the investigation of DV, or to assist in development of departmental policy, including methods for detecting and prosecuting false accusations.
