

CONTRIBUTORS

Feorillo A. Demeterio III is a Full Professor of the Department of Filipino, College of Liberal Arts, and the Executive Director of the Research and Grants Management Office, De La Salle University. His fields of interests are Filipino philosophy, cultural studies, and heritage studies. He is the co-founder of the Andrew Gonzalez Philippine Citation Index.

Beljun P. Enaya is an instructor of the Department of Philosophy and Social Sciences, Visayas State University. He is currently pursuing his PhD in Philosophy at the University of Santo Tomas, Manila. His research interests include Filipino philosophy, ethics, political philosophy, existentialism, and philosophy of agriculture.

Raymun Festin is a Divine Word missionary currently assigned in the Divine Word Generalate in Rome. He earned his Ph.D. in Philosophy from the Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium. He is the author of Beliefs and Certitudes (Logos: Manila, 2008), and is a member of the International Advisory Board of the Phavisminda Journal.

Prince Airick S. Gapo is a licensed teacher and an instructor of philosophy in the University of Santo Tomas (UST). He acquired his master's degree in education from the Ateneo de Manila University and finished Master of Arts in Philosophy at the University of Santo Tomas. His research interests in philosophy are critical pedagogy and Filipino Philosophy.

Regletto Aldrich Imbong is an associate professor of philosophy of the political science program of the University of the Philippines Cebu. He was a former vice-president of the Philosophical Association of the Visayas and Mindanao and currently a member of several other philosophical organizations including the Philosophical Association of the Philippines and the Society for Philosophy and Technology. He is the current president of the All UP Academic Employees Union Cebu Chapter and the editor-in-chief of its academic journal, Aguipo Global South Journal. He is appointed as a Senior Research Fellow (March to November 2023) of the Department of Political Science of the University of Vienna, under a postdoctoral fellowship supported by the Ernst Mach Fellowship Grant of the OeAD (Austria's Agency for Education and Internationalization) and the Faculty, REPS, and Administrative Staff Development Program of the University of the Philippines.

Jerry Imbong is a full-time permanent faculty member of the Department of Philosophy and Social Science of the Visayas State University. He finished his Ph.D. in Philosophy and Masters in Philosophical Research at De la Salle University, Manila. He is actively involved in church-based social advocacies such as workers' rights and peasant issues, and the indigenous people's struggle for self-determination. As a researcher, his research interests include political and social philosophy, indigenous philosophy, and critical theory.

Anjon Frederick Mamunta is a postulant of the Society of Saint Paul. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy at Saint Paul Seminary Foundation in Silang, Cavite. He has presented in several undergraduate academic conferences. He has recently published an article for Talisik, the Undergraduate Journal of the University of Santo Tomas' Department of Philosophy, entitled "Truth-Telling in Dangerous Times: The Practice of Parrhesia in Philippine Journalism".

Joshua Jose R. Ocon is currently a third-year undergraduate for the Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy at the San Carlos Seminary, Makati. He has recently published an article for Talisik, the Undergraduate Journal of the University of Santo Tomas' Department of Philosophy, titled Foundations and Justification: A Response to Klein's Objections to Foundationalism as a Solution to the Epistemic Regress Problem. His areas of interest are epistemology, metaphysics, philosophy of God, and science and religion.

Charito Pizzaro is Full Professor in the School of Education and in the Department of Philosophy in the University of San Carlos. She finished Ph.D. English Literature, Linguistics and Philosophy in the University of Heidelberg. Her research interests include Ricoeur, Gadamer, Hermeneutics, Aesthetics, and Philosophy of Literature. She authored The Symbolic Foundation of Human History.

Patrick Gerard Torres is an independent researcher and consultant. Currently, he works for the Cebu Archdiocesan Social Advocacies and in the Visayas secretariat of the Philippine Ecumenical Peace Platform. He has worked for a decade in rural development peace advocacy as the executive director of the Central Visayas Farmers Development Center and as a member of the board of non-government organizations such as the Iglesia Filipina Independiente Visayas-Mindanao Regional Office for Development and Community Empowerment Resource Network. He was a lecturer of political science at the University of San Carlos School of Law and Governance and at the political science program of the University of the Philippines Cebu.

Rhoderick John Abellanosa is as of the time of this issue's publication Editor-in-chief of the Phavisminda Journal. He has an M.A. in Philosophy (2006) and Master of Political Science (2008) from the University of San Carlos. In 2011 he was awarded Graduate Research Fellowship by the Asia Research Institute of the National University of Singapore (NUS). He also took audit Theological Studies in the Seminario Mayor de San Carlos. His research interests are in the areas of political philosophy, Filipino philosophy, and Catholic social ethics. He has published in Political Theology, Kritike, Philippine Quarterly of Culture and Society, Asian Perspectives, Philippine Sociological Review, Asian Horizons, and the Asia Pacific Social Science Review among other journals. He is a regular columnist of Sunstar Bacolod under the title Fringes and Frontiers.