FLUID LEAKAGE / TRACK CLEAN-UP POLICY

In an effort to eliminate downtime associated due to the cleanup of automotive fluids, Sage Raceway has put in place a policy for teams who deposit fluids on the racing surface. Fluids included in this policy include, but are not limited to: oil, transmission fluid, antifreeze and rear-end lubricants.

A violation is defined as any incident requiring the use of mechanical equipment (i.e. tractor, trucks, and/or sweeper) to clean-up fluids. Spills or drops of fluid cleaned up by hand are not considered violations and penalties will not apply.

On occasion, equipment will be used to “touch-up” the racing surface – such maintenance is not considered a violation. Depositing fuel or fire extinguisher liquid on the track surface is not classified as a violation and will not be penalized under this policy.

A clean-up resulting from a crash will not result in a penalty unless the accident was a result of depositing fluids on the track. Should an opposing driver cross the centerline resulting in contact with the other vehicle and thereby causing the spill, penalties will only apply to the vehicle crossing the centerline. This policy encompasses the entire length of the track surface. Track surface includes the area where the vehicles are started, the burn-out box, the starting line, the 1/8 mile, and the shutdown area to the point the vehicle exits.

If a driver takes immediate action to terminate his run, pulls out of the racing groove and immediately attempts to stop the leak, his violation may be waived at the sole discretion of the event director.

The Race Operations and Safety teams of Sage Raceway will maintain consistency in the uniform enforcement of this policy. Additionally, the Tech team will thoroughly inspect vehicles following a violation to determine the source of a fluid leak and advise the competitors on correcting the problem. In addition, the Tech team will inspect the competing vehicle prior to its next run.

Penalties

One-Day Event: (2 maximum violations) Driver will receive one warning to correct the problem to their car. A second violation will result in immediate disqualification from the event. Policy will be enforced during all time trials, qualifying runs and eliminations.

Multi-Day Event: (3 violations maximum) For all multi-day events, the driver will be disqualified once they have committed three violations of the policy provided no more than two of the violations have occurred on the same day.

Example: A driver receives two violations on the first day of event qualifying. He will be permitted to return on the second day but will receive an immediate disqualification on his next infraction.

-Or-

A driver completes the first day of the event with no violations. On the second day of the event he/she violates the policy on each of his/her first two runs. Driver will receive an immediate disqualification from the event following the second violation of the day.

Any participant demonstrating a flagrant disregard or continual violation of the policy will be subject to additional punitive action as deemed appropriate by the Manager or Event Director of Drag Racing Operations for Sage Raceway at his sole and absolute discretion. Such action may involve monetary fines, points deducted, denial to participate in special events, and/or suspension of competition privileges.

The Manager or Event Director’s decision is final in determining fluid leakage violations. There is no provision for review of the Manager or Event Director, his designee or other event officials at racing events. The reason for this is to insure that there can be finality with regard to the events that are run. To provide for an appeal of all actions or inactions of a Manager or Event Director would result in a delay in the determination of literally every event. Such interminable delays would not be acceptable to the sport, the participants, and the spectators. While the decision of the Manager or Event Director is not subject to appeal, Sage Raceway reserves the right to reverse decisions or review actions or inactions at various events on its own initiative as it determines, in its sole and absolute judgment, are warranted.

APPLICATION OF POLICY: This policy will be in effect at all events produced and officiated by the Race Operations team for Sage Raceway.
