

ABOUT ROB WOLF

Rising Nashville recording artist Rob Wolf is originally from Livingston, Montana where his experiences growing up in the West inspire his songwriting. Rob has been performing his material and covers on stage since the age of 16. He has over 200 live performances on his resume.

His sound is reminiscent of classic country, with steel guitar, fiddle, and mandolin on most recordings, and his high tenor voice is a joy to listen to. Rob's songs are energetic, heartfelt, and an ode to simpler times.

Closing 2023 with six new releases, 2024 finds Rob touring and working on a debut album. When not recording in Nashville or touring, Rob is in Montana writing songs, riding his horse, and enjoying the outdoors.
