Modeling

By watching you and their peers your child learns new behaviors through imitation. It's important to model the behaviors you want your child to engage in. By modeling appropriate behaviors, you act as a role model for your child.

Last Day of School

We had a wonderful 2023-2024 school year! The following week will begin summer camp. During camp we will be beginning the transition to the next grade in preparation for the upcoming school year by providing supplemental academic activities with a heavy focus on developing social and life skills through exploratory play and movement. You can expect weekly crafts and fun activities for your child to enjoy.
