

EMBEDDING EVALUATIVE THINKING INTO YOUR ORGANIZATION

A THREE-PART VIRTUAL WORKSHOP TO CREATE THEORIES OF CHANGE WORTH
BELIEVING IN

Presented by

Western Institute for Education Evaluation and Consulting (Western Eval)

www.western-eval.com

Description

The pandemic has forced organizations to reconsider their program models. Never has there been such urgency to re-examine our work. This interactive workshop will teach you how to embed evaluative thinking into your organization by practicing with an overused but poorly understood part of program design: Theories of Change. At the workshop's conclusion, you will have a Theory of Change worth believing in. Intended audiences include professionals working in education, health, and social programs designed to generate attitude or behavioral changes.

Cost and Registration

Free!

Registration is required. Follow this link: Registration Link or <https://western-eval.com/events>

WORKSHOP TOPICS, DATES & TIMES

WORKSHOP I

Our Grandest Theories

September 16, 2020

1 pm (MST)

WORKSHOP II

Theories of Change

September 30, 2020

1 pm (MST)

WORKSHOP III

The World Will Resist Your Theory of Change

October 21, 2020

1 pm (MST)

About the Presenter

Erik Dutilly self-identifies as a Puerto Rican American male. He earned a M.Ed. and Ph.D. from the University of Colorado Boulder. He owns and operates an education and evaluation consulting company. He volunteers as a grant reviewer with the Boulder County Community Foundation. He is also a graduate of the Community Foundation's Leader-

