The Pearl is the stone for the month of June

Pearls are symbolic of modesty and purity; they inspire honesty, innocence and love. Pearls were often thought to bring marital bliss to their wearers. The oldest known pearl necklace is more than 4,000 years old; it was found in the sarcophagus of a Persian princess who died in 520 BC. An old legend says pearls were formed when dew-drops filled with moonlight fell into the ocean and were swallowed by oysters. It is said that pearls can help one gain self-knowledge and feelings of self-worth and enable one to accept love. In the Hindu religion, the presentation of an undrilled pearl has become part of the marriage ceremony. Until the beginning of the 19th century pearls were extremely rare. It was considered to be a good harvest if, out of 100 oysters, one pearl was found.
