Growing at the community garden!

Rancho Cucamonga's Community Garden is growing food for its members. As a Food Share Member, you can enjoy the harvests grown at the community garden

Do you want to share in the harvests? Become a Food Share Member and pick up fresh organically grown food!! Daily updated harvest lists appear on Instagram and Facebook @theroot66garden and weekly emails to members.

After paying a membership fee of $50/yr, prorated after April 1st, new members will begin to receive notices of produce availability. Pickup your produce at the community garden and make a small donation of your choice at www.paypal.me/root66garden or if you're already a Plot Member, you are automatically added as a Food Share Member and can enjoy all the benefits of membership. You can also trade your own produce for something you aren't growing!

Trade, donate $, grow your own....at YOUR community garden.
