

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

Date: 04-26-2004

Dear Perspective Weightlifter;

I was approached by Ramsey Rodriguez in December of 2002 and he introduced to me his "Tribustol". I took an interest in his product for several reasons one he did not have any ingredients that could affect the body in an adverse manner, secondly he intrigued me with his nutrient formulation (it was very unusual/different) vitamin combination I have never seen before and thirdly he had Professor Angel Spassov provide him with some eastern bloc theory/strategies on nutritional product development. Professor Spassov and I were colleagues at the University of Texas as with as most coaches in my profession, they have a high regard for him as a Strength Coach due to his education and experience. Therefore the product had to have some validity. The product "Tribustol" was tested initially on two of my athletes. The effects were seen quickly within a few days. The athletes noticed an increased of energy and more motivation to workout. This was followed by increases in recovery, strength, and increase of bodyweight (lean muscle). By observing these effects first hand I was impressed. Ramsey decided to perform a controlled study during summer training using the majority of the players. This is the time Coaches expect the athletes to improve the most in the areas of strength/power and bodyweight gains. The results were very good and I was pleased, they improved in the areas of strength, muscle gains and lowered bodyfat which was a surprise to me and Ramsey. This was clear indicator that the product "Tribustol" does improve Body Composition by lowering bodyfat and improving lean muscle mass. Strength results varied in some of my elite athletes however they're progress respectively ranged from 20-50lbs in the Bench Press and Squat exercises. In conclusion, I have to say that "Tribustol" is a new product that really works in a safe manner with no side effects! I encourage any coach or individual who takes their training serious to try "Tribustol"

*Note the product was sold directly to the athlete and was never provided by the SMU strength coach Chuck Faucette or his Staff.

Chuck Faucette

Head Strength & Conditioning