18	Framed and Signed Christo Litho and Fabric Relic from Surrounded Islands Project in Miami - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: Framed documentation and a fabric sample from the environmental artwork "Surrounded Islands" by artists Christo and Jeanne-Claude. The project involved encircling 11 uninhabited man-made islands in Miami's Biscayne Bay with 6.5 million square feet of floating, pink, woven polypropylene fabric in May 1983. The fabric created a vivid contrast with the blue water and green foliage, transforming the bay into a large-scale, temporary artwork visible from land, sea, and air. The artwork in the image is a framed piece featuring a signed print of the project and an actual sample of the pink fabric used. The installation required years of planning, extensive environmental assessments, and the collaboration of hundreds of workers. All materials used in the project were industrially recycled after the two-week installation period.

His colorful, abstracted paintings were influenced by both the Cubism of Pablo Picasso and the bold palette of Henri Matisse, and were shown alongside the latter's paintings in the Salon d'Automne in Paris. Mouly was born on February 6, 1918, in Paris, France, and left school at the age of 13 to work, taking night classes in drawing on the side. After serving in World War II, he established a studio in Paris and, by the 1940s, Mouly's work had attracted critical acclaim. In 1957, he was awarded the Chevalier de L'Ordre des Arts et Lettres. Today his works are held in major institutions around the world, including the Museum of Modern Art in Paris, the Museum of Modern Art in Japan, the Museum of Geneva, the Museum of Modern Art in Helsinki, and Paris's Bibliotheque Nationale. He died on January 7, 2008, in Paris, France

His colorful, abstracted paintings were influenced by both the Cubism of Pablo Picasso and the bold palette of Henri Matisse, and were shown alongside the latter's paintings in the Salon d'Automne in Paris. Mouly was born on February 6, 1918, in Paris, France, and left school at the age of 13 to work, taking night classes in drawing on the side. After serving in World War II, he established a studio in Paris and, by the 1940s, Mouly's work had attracted critical acclaim. In 1957, he was awarded the Chevalier de L'Ordre des Arts et Lettres. Today his works are held in major institutions around the world, including the Museum of Modern Art in Paris, the Museum of Modern Art in Japan, the Museum of Geneva, the Museum of Modern Art in Helsinki, and Paris's Bibliotheque Nationale. He died on January 7, 2008, in Paris, France

Violin size overall 24" long, body top 7", bottom 9 1/2". (Bow has a crack in the wood between the frog and screw see photo) The Virzi brothers, Giuseppe and Giovanni, were celebrated Italian-born violin makers who gained renown in New York City during the early 20th century. Known for their high-quality instruments and their patented "Virzi Tone-Producer," they attracted the attention of prominent musicians, including Jascha Heifetz and Fritz Kreisler. From Sicily to New York Early training: Giuseppe and Giovanni Virzi learned instrument making from their father, Rosario, a master wood carver and cabinet maker in Sicily. Emigration: Giovanni arrived in New York City in 1907, with Giuseppe and his family joining him shortly thereafter. The brothers officially began their collaboration in a workshop on Fifth Avenue in 1914. Italian heritage: Their work was deeply influenced by their Italian heritage. They used exclusively Italian wood and developed their own special oil varnish. Some of their labels mention both "Napoli, Italia" and "New York," referring to their origins and new home.

This Label means it has been adjusted and serviced by Gustavo Alvarelli, Who is a highly experienced violin maker and restorer, known for his work in New York City and his contribution to the field through education and mentorship and apprenticeship. Early Career: Alvarelli underwent a three-year apprenticeship in the late 1970s with master violin makers in New York City, including Geoffrey Ovington and David Segal. Restoration Work: His expertise includes the restoration of a wide range of old and historic instruments, a skill honed through practical experience with diverse pieces. Mentorship: Alvarelli has served as a mentor and teacher to aspiring luthiers. Notably, he was one of the masters under whom fellow violin maker Hanna Perlberger apprenticed. Location: He operates or has operated a workshop in the New York area, contributing to the local community of luthiers and musicians. Gustavo Alvarelli, who worked in New York alongside masters such as Fernando Sacconi, Dario D'Atilli, Erwin Hertel, Rene Morel, and Luiz Bellini, thus gaining meticulous knowledge of the construction methods of the old Cremonese luthiers from the golden age of Italian instrument making. Currently, his instruments are being played by students and professionals of various genres in different countries across the Americas, Europe, and Asia. Philosophy and Approach; Alvarelli is part of a tradition that emphasizes direct, hands-on learning and a deep respect for the established techniques of master Italian makers, particularly those from the classical period. His work focuses on both the structural integrity and the acoustic quality of the instruments he makes and restores, ensuring they are not just functional but musically vibrant.

Perlman - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Size: 16 1/8" x 20 1/4" oil on board, raised mount in original 23" x 27 1/4" hand built frame - Bennard B Perlman "Homage to Monet: St Lazare Railroad Station, Paris, at Twilight - Bennard Boch Perlman (1928-2016) began drawing when he first learned to hold a pencil. When he was 16, he received an art scholarship to City College, graduating from there in 1945. When he was 13, what is now the Walters Art Museum exhibited one of his works. The next year, he became the youngest winner ever of The Evening Sun's annual sketch contest with his Training Ships at Pratt Street. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1949 in painting from Carnegie Institute of Technology, now Carnegie Mellon University, where classmates included Andy Warhol and Philip Pearlstein. He earned a master's degree in art history at the University of Pittsburgh before returning to Baltimore in 1950. Mr. Perlman developed an interest in landscapes, seascapes and cityscapes, which he rendered in abstract or modernist styles. "At first, my interests were primarily tight, hard-edged abstractions, a kind of stained-glass Cubism; now it has become more refined, softer, where color plays an important part." I seldom paint still lifes, but when I do, I try to get the same amount of excitement in the stated arrangement of objects as in the sight of a train racing down the tracks at 60 miles an hour." Mr. Perlman was a prolific painter and during his lifetime exhibited in 70 one-man shows. Some of his exhibitions were at the Baltimore Museum of Art, Maryland Institute College of Art, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Corcoran Gallery of Art, Dallas Museum of Art and the Kennedy Galleries in New York City. His work can be found in permanent collections at the Library of Congress, the Johns Hopkins University and the University of Arizona.

His colorful, abstracted paintings were influenced by both the Cubism of Pablo Picasso and the bold palette of Henri Matisse, and were shown alongside the latter's paintings in the Salon d'Automne in Paris. Mouly was born on February 6, 1918, in Paris, France, and left school at the age of 13 to work, taking night classes in drawing on the side. After serving in World War II, he established a studio in Paris and, by the 1940s, Mouly's work had attracted critical acclaim. In 1957, he was awarded the Chevalier de L'Ordre des Arts et Lettres. Today his works are held in major institutions around the world, including the Museum of Modern Art in Paris, the Museum of Modern Art in Japan, the Museum of Geneva, the Museum of Modern Art in Helsinki, and Paris's Bibliotheque Nationale. He died on January 7, 2008, in Paris, France

(some minor scuffs to frame, see photos, sold as found) - Varvara Shavrova (Varya) is a visual artist born in the USSR who lives and works in London and Dublin. Shavrova's practice is focused on excavating the layers of her family's history through the process of remembering, recalling, retracing and re-enacting stories. In engaging memory, nostalgia and reflection, Shavrova creates installations that make connections between historic and current narratives, between the archival and the present. Shavrova studied at the Moscow State University of Printing Arts, and received her Masters in Fine Arts from Goldsmiths, University of London. Shavrova's recent project Inna's Dream reinterprets the first Soviet amphibious aeroplane designed by her great uncle in 1930s, and includes tufted carpet objects and site-specific drawings installation at Patrick Heide Contemporary Art, London (2019). Mapping Fates, multi-media installation reflects on Shavrova's family migration, and includes tapestries and sound, shown in Lenin's apartment in St. Petersburg (2017). Shavrova's project The Opera portrays the gender fluidity in traditional Peking opera. It received international acclaim and included photography, sound and video projections, and was shown at The Temple Beijing (2016), Momentum Berlin (2016), the Gallery of Photography Ireland (2014), the Venice Biennale of Architecture (2014) and at Espacio Cultural El Tanque in Santa Cruz de Tenerife (2011). Shavrova received Culture Ireland awards for her solo exhibitions in Beijing, Shanghai and Berlin, British Council award for individual artists, and Ballinglen Arts Foundation Fellowship awards. Shavrova curated international visual arts projects, including The Sea is Limit exhibition at York Art Gallery (2018) and at Virginia Commonwealth University Arts Qatar Gallery in Doha (2019), examining migration, borders and refugee crisis, Giving Voice exhibition of Mary Robinson's presidential archive in Ballina library in County Mayo, and Map Games: Dynamics of Change, international art and architecture project, at Today Art Museum Beijing, Birmingham Museums and Art Gallery, CAOS Centre for Contemporary Arts, Terni, Italy (2008-2010). Shavrova's works are included in the collections of the Office of Public Works, the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, the Momentum Collection Berlin, the Ballinglen Museum of Contemporary Art, Minsheng Art Museum Beijing, Moscow Museum of Modern Art, and the Museum of the History of St. Petersburg
366	Homer Costello (1899-1977) American Impasto Oil On Canvas Abstract Figures, Tree & Sail Boat - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: 1 lb 15 oz. Size: Framed 15" X 13" Canvas size 10" X 8 1/8" Homer Costello (1899-1977) was an American autodidactic artist known for his post-Impressionist landscape and seascape paintings, often featuring a distinctive impasto technique. Born and raised in New Orleans, Louisiana, he lived there his entire life, supporting himself primarily as a charter fisherman and handyman for fifty years while continuing to paint. Costello was the child of Irish immigrant parents. He briefly served in the U.S. Army during World War I, where he was exposed to European art for the first time. Artistic Journey: After the war, he returned to the United States and traveled by foot along the eastern Gulf Coast, teaching himself to paint. In 1923, he sold all his initial paintings in Cedar Key, Florida, using the proceeds to buy a boat to return home.

371	Abdellatif Ala El Din, Aka "Aldine" Oil On Canvas 1966 "La Foudre Verte" - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Size: 13 1/8" X 9 5/8" On Stretched Canvas Mounted On Panel 19 1/4" X 14 1/4", Signed And Dated Lower Right And Signed, Dated And Titled On Verso. This work, entitled "La Foudre Verte" (The Green Lighting) demonstrates Aldine's expressive power. Through dynamic brushwork and layered textures, the painter evokes a world in motion, balancing chaos and renewal. The palette, dominated by deep blues, blacks, and browns, is contrasted with golden highlights, reminiscent of a stormy sky. The energy of the lines and forms conveys the devastation of the elements while hinting at the possibility of calm and light. At the intersection of abstraction and cosmic evocation, this painting illustrates the intensity of Aldine's artistic approach, where the cultural memory of his origins meets his contemporary sensibility. Born in Cairo in 1917, Abdellatif Ala El Din, known as Aldine, is a distinctive figure of the Second School of Paris. Initially trained in physical and chemical sciences at the Sorbonne, he pursued a scientific career before a decisive encounter in the mid-1940s with the art critic Michel Ragon encouraged him to fully dedicate himself to painting and the visual arts. Settling in France from 1953, he successively held positions as Cultural Attaché at the Egyptian Embassy in Paris and then as Director of the Education Bureau and Permanent Delegate to UNESCO. By the late 1950s, he definitively chose an artistic path, establishing his studio in Montparnasse. Both a painter and sculptor, Aldine quickly gained recognition with powerful works such as The Man of Hiroshima, exhibited widely in France and abroad. His artistic journey long oscillated between figuration and abstraction before evolving toward an almost exclusively abstract expression. His canvases, with evocative titles such as The Crucified and The Templars, reflect a spiritual and mystical quest. His pictorial language is characterized by broad brushstrokes, curvilinear contours, and exploration of large thematic cycles: the Nebulae, the Stelae, and the Whirlwinds. Aldine's works are now held in major public and private collections, including the Centre Pompidou (Beaubourg), the Musée National d'Art Moderne (MNAM), the Musée des Beaux-Arts de Lille, and the Aga Khan Collection.

374	Ali Golkar LE "Sonnet II" 1993 Serigraph on Paper - Click for Shipping Quote or Free Local Pick Up - Weight: Size: 18" x 24" image, matted under acrylic in 30 1/2" x 36" frame - signed in pencil 173/350 lower left, titled Sonnet II in center and signed lower right - While pursuing a formal education at the Southern California Institute of Architecture in Los Angeles (Sci-Arc), Golkar continued to indulge in his love for painting and exhibited his work throughout California. His career in painting proved so fruitful from the start that he decided, upon graduating from Sci-Arc, to work full-time as an artist. In his work, love, beauty, music, and poetry are portrayed with both grace and joy of life seldom encountered in contemporary art. Greek and Renaissance mythology are fused with the expressionism of 20th century French humanistic paintings. Steeped in the cultures of Europe and the Orient, Golkar explores the depth of his cultural heritage and life experiences through his work. In recent years, his work has evolved to encompass multiple media such as etchings (handmade prints), watercolor, gouache, pen and ink, and acrylic painting. In 2009, Golkar unveiled a limited edition collection of modern sculptures--the first representation of his signature style in three-dimensional form. For well over 25 years, Ali Golkar's work has been enthusiastically received in Europe, Asia, and the United States. Recent exhibitions include gallery and museum shows nationwide in the U.S. as well as in France, Italy, China, and Japan. Golkar has also participated in several philanthropic causes, donating time and works to such organizations as the Make-a-Wish Foundation, the Nicole Brown Foundation for Battered Women, the city of Los Angeles' Community of Angels project, and various community programs nationwide benefiting schools and civic causes.

[Some condition issues; It must have been hanging when someone painted the cieling in the room, some white spots on the canvas] Title: "Hungarian Children" (also known as "Dolls in Hungarian traditional dress") Artist: Lolly Feher (Hungarian, 1904-1990) Medium: Oil on canvas. This exquisite, original oil painting by the noted Hungarian artist Lolly Feher captures a charming scene of four dolls dressed in vibrant, traditional Hungarian folk costumes. Feher, known for her evocative figure paintings, has a unique ability to bring these figures to life on the canvas. The painting features dolls often identified as vintage Kathe Kruse dolls, adding a layer of nostalgic appeal and collectibility. Feher's works have a history of being offered and sold at auction, indicating a recognized market value and potential for appreciation. This piece represents a solid investment for discerning collectors of fine art and unique genre paintings.

This Limited Edition Copy # 68 / 1500 Unknown Foundry Is An Unauthorized Copy Of Frederic Remington "The Stampede" Bronze By Darrell Coker In 1985. See Photos. Thunderous energy defines The Stampede (1908), one of Frederic Remington's final and most ambitious bronzes. The sculpture depicts a cowboy gripping his horse at full speed amidst a frenzied cattle drive, the sense of chaos and urgency perfectly captured in Remington's dynamic modeling. This reproduction brings the motion and intensity of the piece to life, showcasing the galloping horse, the rider's unyielding control, and the spirit of the open range. Finished in a deep bronze patina, The Stampede is a commanding work that embodies the drama and heroism of the American West.
